Newkirk One of Four Men Certified for Tax Office

Mayor Reported to Be Leading Candidate for Job Paying $10,800

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who will complete his third and final term of office on Dec. 31 this year was reported today to be the top candidate for the post of assistant district director of the United States Internal Revenue Department for the Albany district.

Announcement of this was made by James E. Rossell, director of the Second U. S. Civil Service region in New York.

The selection of one of the four men named today for the post is expected to be decided within 10 days to a month, it was learned this morning.

Job Pays $10,800

The post of assistant district director pays an annual salary of $10,800, it is reported.

Mayor Newkirk also has been certified for a similar appointment at Syracuse along with Raymond H. Reichel of Kenmore, near Buffalo.

Also certified for the Albany appointment in addition to the mayor were John J. Sandler, Albany; Raymond H. Reichel, Kenmore and Charles W. Emlet, Snyder.

Covers 21 Counties

The post of the assistant district director comprises 21 counties, the report indicated. Ulster county is included in this district.

Wicks Told Ives Hopeful for O & W

Urges RFC to Reconsider Refusal on Diesel Loan to Line

United States Senator Irving M. Ives of New York is "most hopeful" that a plan can be evolved to save the bankrupt O & W Railroad "before it is too late."

In a letter to State Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks, Senator Ives revealed that he had urged Kenneth Cravens, administrator of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to reconsider the RFC's refusal to waive the terms of the diesel loan to the railroad.

"I am pleased to report that the RFC is displaying a very cooperative attitude," Sen. Ives wrote, "and I am most hopeful that through the combined efforts of all of us—the RFC, the railroad itself, the various community committees, those of us in Congress, etc.—we may be able to evolve a plan which will save the situation before it is too late."

Assets Cited

The New York, Ontario and Western Railway, bankrupt since 1937, ended the year 1952 with assets given as $43,212,777, and liabilities of $128,298,228, of which $44,025,997 has preferred status.

On August 25, a group of holders of refunding mortgage bonds filed a plan to reorganize the railroad into two separate companies. The plan, providing chiefly for the elimination of unprofitable portions of the line, calls for the creation of a new company, to be known as the Ontario, Pennsylvania and Hudson Railway Company to take over the 402 miles of the right of way from Scranton to Oswego.

Under Separate Company

The right of way between Port Jervis and Kingston would be organized under a separate company, called the Kingston and Port Jervis Railway, under the plan, which

Acting Mayor Is Injured Checking Truck and Junk

Acting Mayor Joseph Kelly suffered injuries to his right knee early Saturday night when he tripped over some junk projecting from the fence of a junkyard at 174 Cornell street and fell to the sidewalk.

At the time of the accident Kelly was in the company of Officers George Loughran and John Crespino investigating a complaint that a truck was parked on Cornell street without lights or registration plates and that a quantity of junk was projecting through the fence surrounding the junkyard. Police said the truck was the property of Morris Levine who operates the junkyard.

Knee Bruised Badly

Although not cut, Kelly's knee was badly bruised and the leg of his trousers was ripped from knee to cuff.

Police investigated a complaint from Sprague Electric Company last Thursday night that a truck owned by the Levine Bros. Bag Company had been parked across from their entrance on Cornell street for the past two weeks loaded with junk and that it interfered with Sprague trucks entering and leaving the company yard. Officers Earl Schoonmaker and Gerald Every, who investigated at that time, reported that Levine had been contacted and said he would move the truck.

Local Man Builds Special Miniature Jeep for His Son

Little Richard "Ricky" Townsend, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Townsend of 81 Albany avenue, came spinning around his house at about four miles an hour in a special miniature jeep built for him "from scratch" by his daddy.

The lucky youngster with the light, short-cut hair, his expression serious, maneuvered the khaki brown 400-pound vehicle with the yellow hub caps, bringing it slowly to a stop a few feet away from The Freeman reporter.

Only when the car was completely stopped did the young man permit himself to relax. He smiled shyly but was cautious when questioned about his new "toy."

Yes, he was six years old and he liked to drive it, he said. That was about all Ricky had to say for himself before he ran off to join eight-year-old Judy Raymond, red-haired, blue-eyed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Raymond of 13 East St. James street

Replaces Other Toys

The reporter noted that Ricky's other mobile toys, including a tractor, a tricycle and a small car with pedal propulsion, had been set to one side of the garage as if in storage. They had apparently been superseded by the new toy.

"Rick likes to tinker," his father who is service manager of the Buick Garage, 10 Main street, confided, calling attention to his son's mechanical aptitude. "He can tell you about anything in the plumbing line."

The jeep, about five or six feet long and three feet wide, with semi-pneumatic tires, was built in

Democrats Might Employ Farm as Rallying Issue

Washington, Aug. 31 (AP)—Democratic leaders, still beset by internal dissension, look for attacks on Republican farm policies to become a rallying point for their efforts to restore party unity at a Sept. 14-15 conference in Chicago.

Farm prices, which recently turned down again after levelling off from previous declines, are certain to be spotlighted at a panel discussion of agricultural problems led by Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell has billed the Chicago meeting as a send-off for Democratic senatorial candidates in next year's campaigns. And high farm prices supports appear to be one of the few national issues on which the 21 Democrats up for re-election can agree, almost without exception.

Southern Democrats who were critical of former President Truman and who show no enthusiasm for Adlai E. Stevenson as the presidential nominee again in 1956, can forget their party differences in support of almost any program that promises greater returns for the farmer.

That goes for such expected candidates as Sens. Eastland of Mississippi, Ellender of Louisiana, McLellan of Arkansas, Maybank of South Carolina, Robertson of Virginia, Russell of Georgia and Lennon of North Carolina.

It goes also for southerners more inclined to support the party stand on other national issues, such as Sens. Lyndon D. Johnson of Texas, the Senate minority leader, Sparkman of Alabama, the 1952 vice presidential nominee, Kefauver of Tennessee and the dozen Democrats from the north and west who are up for re-election.

Johnson said in a weekend analysis of problems likely to come before the next session of Congress that the agricultural situation is contributing to "disturbing signs in the nation's economy."

"Farm prices have been falling at a rate far exceeding the drop in consumers' prices," he observed. Noting that inventories are piling up in some industrial lines, he added:

"It is too early to say whether there are merely minor cracks in an otherwise solid economy or whether they represent the beginnings of a trend which could be deleterious to our people."

Thus far, none of these potential 1954 senatorial candidates has indicated he is voluntarily absenting himself from the meeting, as Sen. Holland (D.-Fla.) said he would do.

Holland said in an interview yesterday he is declining an invitation to attend the Chicago session because he believes the south has nothing to gain there. This was an obvious reflection of Dixie resentment over the civil rights stand taken by the party at last year's convention.

Holland said that until the south is taken into full partnership in the writing of the platform and the selection of presidential nominees, the national party is going to continue to find defections below the Mason and Dixon Line.

Sen. Byrd (D.-Va.), who helped swing Virginia to President Eisenhower in last year's election by refusing to back Stevenson, said he hadn't been invited to the Chicago powwow and had no intention of attending.

However, Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D.-S. C.) said he would go if he could arrange his schedule to attend the meeting.

Johnson said in a French Lick, Ind., speech Saturday that if the Republicans continue "catering to big business and destroying the little man . . . we shall have a Democratic House and Senate in 1955 and a Democratic President in 1957."

2,500 Flee From Area Along Coast

Torrential 10-Day Rain Swamps Sector Near Corpus Christi—Lives Not in Danger

Robstown, Tex., Aug. 31 (AP)—More than 2,500 persons were homeless today along the swamped lower Texas' coast as rising water from 10 days of deluge rains seeped into homes on the flat coastal plains.

At least 2,000 were evacuated in this farming community of 8,000 about 17 miles west of Corpus Christi. Many spent their second night in emergency shelter. They were joined by new refugees late last night as run-off from heavy afternoon thundershowers rushed into the water bound towns.

The number of homeless increased as intermittent thundershowers continued along the coast. More rain was forecast. Steady west winds from the gulf drove moist air inland.

Another town hard hit was Sinton 28 miles north of Corpus Christi, where 450 were evacuated.

Lives Not in Peril

The south Texas flood was no great danger to life because the water rose slowly. It spread over vast acreages and was trapped behind drainage ditch levees, railroad embankments and other obstructions. Draining was slow.

Flooding here began Saturday when an enbankment softened by 8½ inches of rain in 36 hours gave away, flooding much of the town. Constable Ben A. Bennett said "easily 2,000" had been driven from their homes and calls for evacuation were coming in all the time as water crept higher.

At Kingsville, 40 miles southwest of Corpus Christi, about 60 families, possibly 300 persons, were still sheltered after high water Thursday and Friday.

Drinking Water Spoiled

Mayor Dudley Dunlap warned Robstown residents yesterday their municipal water supply was contaminated. He asked all citizens to boil drinking water. Typhoid shots were given those in emergency shelters that included the Knights of Columbus hall and a county fair building. The First Baptist Church was used as an auxiliary hospital for children and elderly persons.

The Robstown water receded only a few inches yesterday. Then rainfall up to 8 inches fell on higher ground west of the city. The runoff built up a lake outside the Robstown dikes that was up to 3 feet deep last night. It covered 8 square miles.

Sinton had a 7-inch cloudburst in less than five hours yesterday, making a total of almost 20 inches since Thursday. About one-fourth of the town was under water.

On the upper Texas coast at Bay City, 80 miles southwest of Houston, 10.23 inches of rain had fallen since yesterday. Streets were flooded with eight inches of water measured in two downtown stores. Houston had 4.19 inches of rain since Friday night. More rain was forecast.

False Alarmist Gets 20-Day Jail Sentence

Abe Moskowitz Reports 'Fires' at Hurley and Maple Hill Resorts

A man who called Central Fire Station twice last night to report a "big fire" at Twin Lakes Mountain House in Hurley and a "barn on fire" at Spindler's Resort, Maple Hill, received a jail sentence of 20 days in city court this morning.

Judge Raymond J. Mino sentenced Abe Moskowitz, 36, no address listed, to 10 days on each of two charges of malicious mischeif.

Each of the calls was made from a telephone at the YMCA.

The first call was received by the fire department at 9:45 p. m., reporting a fire at the Twin Lakes Mountain House. The Hurley Fire Company was notified and responded.

Calls Central Station

Checking the Hurley location and finding no fire Chief Winfred Snyder called Central Station to double check the address, thinking perhaps he had the wrong location. He then called the Ulster County Sheriff's office to report a false alarm. Deputy Chester Wolven of the sheriff's force was dispatched to the scene to investigate.

A second call was received at the fire department at 10:11 p. m. reporting a "barn on fire" at Spindler's Resort and Eugene Scharp, dispatcher on duty, kept the man on the telephone while another fireman, Robert Hardwick, called the service assistant at the New York Telephone Company to check the source of the call. She reported that the call was from 1100, the YMCA and police were notified.

During the telephone conversation with the man Scharp asked him where Spindler's was located and the man said "on the Haines Falls road." Pressed for more specific directions the man told Scharp that Spindler's was "on top of a hill on the road between Rosendale and High Falls. This direction impressed the fireman as peculiar, he reported later.

Riseley Promoted By Marine Corps To Major General

Commander of Ground and Air Units at Hawaii Station Ulster Native

Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, T. H., Aug. 31 (Special)—Marine Brigadier General James P. Riseley, commanding general of the 1st Provisional Marine Air-Ground Task Force, Fleet Marine Force, received notification late today that he had been selected for promotion to rank of major general.

General Riseley is a native of Shandaken, Ulster county, N. Y., and was born May 7, 1898, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Riseley. His father died several years ago. His mother at present lives at 148 Henry street, Kingston, N. Y.

Graduated From KHS

General Riseley was graduated in 1916 in the first graduating class from the then new Kingston High School.

General Riseley, who has commanded the task force since mid-February, coming to the Islands from Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., was selected with four other general officers for promotion to the new rank. Included for advancement to rank of major general are Brig. Gen. John C. McQueen, Brig. Gen. Albert D. Cooley, Brig. Gen. Lawis B. Puller and Brig. Gen. Robert O. Bare. Major Generals Randolph M. Pate, Clayton C. Jerome, George F. Good, Jr., and Merrill B. Twining had their present ranks confirmed.

The general had just finished his day's work in his office at Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, and had arrived home when Major Victor A. Kleber, staff secretary of the task force, called to notify him of his selection.

Naval Academy Graduate

A 1922 graduate of the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., the general has served in the Marine Corps continuously since that time. His more than 30 years

Insurance Rates Are Cut In Some Cases; Also Increases

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—Leading insurance companies have agreed on new nationwide auto liability rates cutting some costs for adult pleasure car drivers and increasing rates for many young people.

The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and the Mutual Insurance Rating Bureau, major automobile insurance rating groups, announced last night agreement on the new schedule by 213 companies.

A spokesman for the underwriters said the rates would go into effect as soon as they can be filed with authorities in the various states.

Under the new plan, the main revisions affect adult drivers of non-business cars and drivers under 25 years of age. Cars used for business remain classified as before with rates for this category the base for determining other rates.

For adult drivers, the new schedules, take into account the possible use of their cars going to and from work. The lowest rates apply to those cars used solely for pleasure driving. A slightly higher rate is fixed for cars driven less than 10 miles on a one-way trip to work; still higher rates apply for vehicles driven more than 10 miles to work. Previously there was no distinction for private cars used for both pleasure driving and for traveling to work.

Under the new rates, vehicle owners driving only for pleasure in Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn—which have the nation's highest rates—will pay $123 instead of the present $144.40 annually for $10,000 to $20,000 coverage for bodily injury and $5,000 property damage.

Drivers going less than 10 miles to work will continue to pay the same, but drivers going more than 10 miles to work will pay 22 per cent more than now.

The new schedules also break down young drivers into three groups, instead of carrying them in a single category. The three groups include those under 25 living at home, childless married

Gold Surrenders To His Indictment

Washington, Aug. 31 (AP)—Ben Gold, fur workers union president, surrendered today on a three-count indictment charging he lied when he swore in an affidavit in August, 1950, that he was not a Communist.

Gold showed up at the office of U. S. Attorney Leo A. Rover and was taken by marshals to the clerk's office to post $10,000 bail.

This bail had been fixed last Friday by U. S. District Judge Charles F. McLaughlin at the government's request.

Water Pressure Is Being Restored

Power Shovel Cracks Main at Maple Lane Farm Saturday Afternoon

Water pressure throughout the city was dangerously reduced early Saturday afternoon when a power shovel bit into a 20-inch water main at Maple Lane Farm on Route 9W about a half mile north of the city line.

Some of the higher areas of the city were completely without water for several hours and low pressures were reported in a rash of telephone calls from all over Kingston.

Calls began pouring into police headquarters and the water works barn at about 1:35 p. m., shortly after the break occurred.

Edmund T. Cloonan, superintendent of the Water Works Department, said water works crews were able to shut off valves on each side of the break and stop the loss of water by 2:30 p. m.

Sunday's 101, Saturday's 99 Tops for Dates

The hottest August 29 and 30 in city weather annals was recorded Saturday and Sunday at the city engineer's office.

The mercury rose to 99 degrees at 3:45 p. m. Saturday and to 101 at 3:30 p. m. Sunday.

It was the hottest listed for these dates in the 19 years during which the engineer's office has maintained weather records.

Not Summer's High

The Sunday temperature was not the high for the summer, however. The highest recorded to date this summer was 102 degrees on July 18.

The highest temperature ever recorded during the month of August in Kingston was 104 degrees on August 9 and August 10, 1949.

July, 1936, Was Hotter

The highest summer temperature ever registered was shared by three dates, July 9, 13 and 14 in the sweltering summer of 1936 when the mercury burned at 106 degrees. During the heat wave of that mid-July the following temperatures were recorded: July 8, 103; July 10, 103; July 11, 104; July 12, 97.

Lowest temperature Saturday was 69 degrees and on Sunday 68 degrees. Record low for August 29 was registered in 1946 at 49 degrees. A low of 41 degrees was recorded on August 30, 1940.

Low humidity on Saturday was 34 per cent at 5 p. m. and on Sunday 31 per cent at 4:30 p. m. Highest humidity Saturday was 81 at 6 a. m. and on Sunday 85 at 6:30 a. m.

Albany, Aug. 31 (AP)—A merciless sun again sent temperatures sizzling toward the 90s in most of New York state today—and no relief was in sight from the seven-day-old heat wave.

Two persons were drowned over the weekend and records were shattered in at least five cities by weather that left residents gasping for relief. Eight fires smoldered in the state's forests.

But the weather bureau predicted the mercury would range between 90 and 96 degrees in western New York today, and between 92 and 98 in southeastern New York. Temperatures of 84 to 90 were forecast for northeastern portions of the state.

And more heat was in sight for tomorrow.

New records for the date were set yesterday in Albany, Syracuse, Binghamton and New York city. Albany, Rochester and New York city posted new marks on Saturday.

Flint Finishes 81 Houses, 112 More Being Constructed

Flint, Mich., Aug. 31 (AP)—Flint was proud today of itself and its neighbors. In its northern outskirts stood 81 completed homes and 112 more in various stages of construction to prove hearts and hands can do much to erase the scars of tragedy.

Those homes took an estimated 80,000 man hours of work—all of it contributed Saturday and Sunday by volunteers. Beneficiaries were those who lost homes, and often loved ones, in a furious tornado that claimed 116 lives, injured nearly a thousand and made kindling wood of houses June 8.

The building bee was tagged "operation tornado," and workmen, skilled and amateur, flocked to the scene from many places. Around 200 came from Detroit. A group from Muskegon chartered a bus to get to the job.

When 4,500 turned to Saturday, they started from scratch on 111 houses. Some others already were partially up. They also found some gaping, gaunt basements without any building materials beside them—mute evidence of wiped out families.

Building materials were all tornado victims were asked to contribute, and Flint dealers gave discounts on these. Red Cross financial aid, Red Feather Fund contributions, and RFC and bank loans helped provide these.

You see, most of those missing

Another 150 Freed Today In Exchange

Top Ranking Briton Is to Be Turned Over Tuesday — Protest Is Lodged

Panmunjom, Aug. 31 (AP)—Another 150 Americans, mostly sergeants and officers, were freed today amid indications the Communists may send back up to 500 more Americans than the 3,313 originally promised.

The Reds also released 250 South Koreans on this 27th day of the Korean war prisoner exchange.

The Communists promised to send back 400 prisoners tomorrow—100 Americans, 25 British, 20 Turks, 5 Australians and another 250 South Koreans.

One of the Britons to be handed over Tuesday wil be Lt. Col. James P. Carne, top ranking British officer held by the Communists, Red newspapermen said.

Carne, commander of a battalion of one of Britain's great fighting units — the Gloucestershire Regiment—was captured in April 1951 in the fierce Imjin river battle.

Surrounded by Reds, most of the men of Carne's 1st Gloucesters Battalion were killed or captured in a gallant stand against overwhelming forces. Only a few trickled back to allied lines.

Awaits Repatriation

The Communist Peiping radio said Monday that Carne was awaiting repatriation at Kaesong, the Red holding point just north of Panmunjom, and was in "splendid physical shape."

The Communists, meanwhile, reaffirmed assurances they will return all allied prisoners who want to go home including those accused of crimes before or after their capture.

The Reds gave the assurances at a one-hour and 49-minute session of the joint military armistice commission after Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, senior allied delegate, asked whether the Reds would repatriate all prisoners who want to return.

The meeting was called at Red request.

The Communist Peiping radio said the Communists "lodged a second strong protest against American assistance to Chiang Kai-shek in the plot to detain" captured Red Chinese soldiers.

Protest Is Made

The broadcast said Red delegate Lt. Gen. Lee Sang Cho protested that Chinese Nationalist agents landed at the allied POW camp at Koje Island last Wednesday and Thursday to induce Chinese POWs not to return to the Red mainland.

Peiping said Gen. Lee told the UN delegates "that these actions are in violation of the armistice agreement and demanded an immediate end to them."

In Pusan, the UN POW command said 11 Nationalist representatives visited anti-Red Chinese POWs last week in UN camps on Cheju Island.

A UN Command statement said the Nationalists reassured the Chinese that they will not be forced to return to Red China. The representatives, the statement said, also urged the Chinese to cooperate when they are turned over to the neutral nations repatriation commission, which will decide their fate.

Some 1,200 Indian troops who will guard POWs unwilling to return home are scheduled to arrive at Inchon on Korea's west coast Tuesday on a British transport.

Hopes Are Raised

Returning Americans Monday raised hopes that the Reds would return more U. S. soldiers than they originally promised.

The Reds have returned 2,827 Americans, leaving 486 still scheduled for repatriation, according to their early figure.

But liberated Americans who were at Kaesong over the weekend said more than 1,000 non-Korean POWs were still awaiting repatriation at the Red collecting center just north of here.

They said most of the men were American and British sergeants and officers.

The Reds said recently that their 3,313 total did not include some POWs captured in the last days of the war.

Lt. Maxey H. Hall, Jr., of Indianapolis, Ind., said 290 American officers were at Kaesong. He said he had no idea how many enlisted men were being held there.

Sgt. 1c. Earl Dantzler of Richmond, Va., said more than 500

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who will complete his third and final term of office on Dec. 31 this year was reported today to be the top candidate for the post of assistant district director of the United States Internal Revenue Department for the Albany district.

Announcement of this was made by James E. Rossell, director of the Second U. S. Civil Service region in New York.

Johnson said in a weekend analysis of problems likely to come before the next session of Congress that the agricultural situation is contributing to "disturbing signs in the nation's economy."

"Farm prices have been falling at a rate far exceeding the drop in consumers' prices," he observed. Noting that inventories are piling up in some industrial lines, he added:

"It is too early to say whether there are merely minor cracks in an otherwise solid economy or whether they represent the beginnings of a trend which could be deleterious to our people."

Thus far, none of these potential 1954 senatorial candidates has indicated he is voluntarily absenting himself from the meeting, as Sen. Holland (D.-Fla.) said he would do.

Holland said in an interview yesterday he is declining an invitation to attend the Chicago session because he believes the south has nothing to gain there. This was an obvious reflection of Dixie resentment over the civil rights stand taken by the party at last year's convention.

Holland said that until the south is taken into full partnership in the writing of the platform and the selection of presidential nominees, the national party is going to continue to find defections below the Mason and Dixon Line.

Sen. Byrd (D.-Va.), who helped swing Virginia to President Eisenhower in last year's election by refusing to back Stevenson, said he hadn't been invited to the Chicago powwow and had no intention of attending.

However, Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D.-S. C.) said he would go if he could arrange his schedule to attend the meeting.

Johnson said in a French Lick, Ind., speech Saturday that if the Republicans continue "catering to big business and destroying the little man . . . we shall have a Democratic House and Senate in 1955 and a Democratic President in 1957."

Acting Mayor Is Injured Checking Truck and Junk

Acting Mayor Joseph Kelly suffered injuries to his right knee early Saturday night when he tripped over some junk projecting from the fence of a junkyard at 174 Cornell street and fell to the sidewalk.

At the time of the accident Kelly was in the company of Officers George Loughran and John Crespino investigating a complaint that a truck was parked on Cornell street without lights or registration plates and that a quantity of junk was projecting through the fence surrounding the junkyard. Police said the truck was the property of Morris Levine who operates the junkyard.

Knee Bruised Badly

Although not cut, Kelly's knee was badly bruised and the leg of his trousers was ripped from knee to cuff.

Police investigated a complaint from Sprague Electric Company last Thursday night that a truck owned by the Levine Bros. Bag Company had been parked across from their entrance on Cornell street for the past two weeks loaded with junk and that it interfered with Sprague trucks entering and leaving the company yard. Officers Earl Schoonmaker and Gerald Every, who investigated at that time, reported that Levine had been contacted and said he would move the truck.

Torrential 10-Day Rain Swamps Sector Near Corpus Christi—Lives Not in Danger

Robstown, Tex., Aug. 31 (AP)—More than 2,500 persons were homeless today along the swamped lower Texas' coast as rising water from 10 days of deluge rains seeped into homes on the flat coastal plains.

At least 2,000 were evacuated in this farming community of 8,000 about 17 miles west of Corpus Christi. Many spent their second night in emergency shelter. They were joined by new refugees late last night as runoff from heavy afternoon thundershowers rushed into the water bound towns.

The number of homeless increased as intermittent thundershowers continued along the coast. More rain was forecast. Steady west winds from the gulf drove moist air inland.

Another town hard hit was Sinton 28 miles north of Corpus Christi, where 450 were evacuated.

Lives Not in Peril

The south Texas flood was no great danger to life because the water rose slowly. It spread over vast acreages and was trapped behind drainage ditch levees, railroad embankments and other obstructions. Draining was slow.

Flooding here began Saturday when an enbankment softened by 8½ inches of rain in 36 hours gave away, flooding much of the town. Constable Ben A. Bennett said "easily 2,000" had been driven from their homes and calls for evacuation were coming in all the time as water crept higher.

At Kingsville, 40 miles southwest of Corpus Christi, about 60 families, possibly 300 persons, were still sheltered after high water Thursday and Friday.

Drinking Water Spoiled

Mayor Dudley Dunlap warned Robstown residents yesterday their municipal water supply was contaminated. He asked all citizens to boil drinking water. Typhoid shots were given those in emergency shelters that included the Knights of Columbus hall and a county fair building. The First Baptist Church was used as an auxiliary hospital for children and elderly persons.

The Robstown water receded only a few inches yesterday. Then rainfall up to 8 inches fell on higher ground west of the city. The runoff built up a lake outside the Robstown dikes that was up to 3 feet deep last night. It covered 8 square miles.

Sinton had a 7-inch cloudburst in less than five hours yesterday, making a total of almost 20 inches since Thursday. About one-fourth of the town was under water.

On the upper Texas coast at Bay City, 80 miles southwest of Houston, 10.23 inches of rain had fallen since yesterday. Streets were flooded with eight inches of water measured in two downtown stores. Houston had 4.19 inches of rain since Friday night. More rain was forecast.

False Alarmist Gets 20-Day Jail Sentence

Abe Moskowitz Reports 'Fires' at Hurley and Maple Hill Resorts

A man who called Central Fire Station twice last night to report a "big fire" at Twin Lakes Mountain House in Hurley and a "barn on fire" at Spindler's Resort, Maple Hill, received a jail sentence of 20 days in city court this morning.

Judge Raymond J. Mino sentenced Abe Moskowitz, 36, no address listed, to 10 days on each of two charges of malicious mischief.

Each of the calls was made from a telephone at the YMCA.

The first call was received by the fire department at 9:45 p. m., reporting a fire at the Twin Lakes Mountain House. The Hurley Fire Company was notified and responded.

Calls Central Station

Checking the Hurley location and finding no fire Chief Winfred Snyder called Central Station to double check the address, thinking perhaps he had the wrong location. He then called the Ulster County Sheriff's office to report a false alarm. Deputy Chester Wolven of the sheriff's force was dispatched to the scene to investigate.

A second call was received at the fire department at 10:11 p. m. reporting a "barn on fire" at Spindler's Resort and Eugene Scharp, dispatcher on duty, kept the man on the telephone while another fireman, Robert Hardwick, called the service assistant at the New York Telephone Company to check the source of the call. She reported that the call was from 1100, the YMCA and police were notified.

During the telephone conversation with the man Scharp asked him where Spindler's was located and the man said "on the Haines Falls road." Pressed for more specific directions the man told Scharp that Spindler's was "on top of a hill on the road between Rosendale and High Falls. This direction impressed the fireman as peculiar, he reported later.

Riseley Promoted By Marine Corps To Major General

Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, T. H., Aug. 31 (Special)—Marine Brigadier General James P. Riseley, commanding general of the 1st Provisional Marine Air-Ground Task Force, Fleet Marine Force, received notification late today that he had been selected for promotion to rank of major general.

General Riseley is a native of Shandaken, Ulster county, N. Y., and was born May 7, 1898, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Riseley. His father died several years ago. His mother at present lives at 148 Henry street, Kingston, N. Y.

Graduated From KHS

General Riseley was graduated in 1916 in the first graduating class from the then new Kingston High School.

General Riseley, who has commanded the task force since mid-February, coming to the Islands from Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., was selected with four other general officers for promotion to the new rank. Included for advancement to rank of major general are Brig. Gen. John C. McQueen, Brig. Gen. Albert D. Cooley, Brig. Gen. Lawis B. Puller and Brig. Gen. Robert O. Bare. Major Generals Randolph M. Gold Surrenders To His Indictment

Washington, Aug. 31 (AP)—Ben Gold, fur workers union president, surrendered today on a three-count indictment charging he lied when he swore in an affidavit in August, 1950, that he was not a Communist.

Gold showed up at the office of U. S. Attorney Leo A. Rover and was taken by marshals to the clerk's office to post $10,000 bail.

This bail had been fixed last Friday by U. S. District Judge Charles F. McLaughlin at the government's request.

Sunday's 101, Saturday's 99 TopsforDates

The hottest August 29 and 30 in city weather annals was recorded Saturday and Sunday at the city engineer's office.

The mercury rose to 99 degrees at 3:45 p. m. Saturday and to 101 at 3:30 p. m. Sunday.

It was the hottest listed for these dates in the 19 years during which the engineer's office has maintained weather records.

Not Summer's High

The Sunday temperature was not the high for the summer, however. The highest recorded to date this summer was 102 degrees on July 18.

The highest temperature ever recorded during the month of August in Kingston was 104 degrees on August 9 and August 10, 1949.

July, 1936, Was Hotter

The highest summer temperature ever registered was shared by three dates, July 9, 13 and 14 in the sweltering summer of 1936 when the mercury burned at 106 degrees. During the heat wave of that mid-July the following temperatures were recorded: July 8, 103; July 10, 103; July 11, 104; July 12, 97.

Lowest temperature Saturday was 69 degrees and on Sunday 68 degrees. Record low for August 29 was registered in 1946 at 49 degrees. A low of 41 degrees was recorded on August 30, 1940.

Low humidity on Saturday was 34 per cent at 5 p. m. and on Sunday 31 per cent at 4:30 p. m. Highest humidity Saturday was 81 at 6 a. m. and on Sunday 85 at 6:30 a. m.

Albany, Aug. 31 (AP)—A merciless sun again sent temperatures sizzling toward the 90s in most of New York state today—and no relief was in sight from the seven-day-old heat wave.

Two persons were drowned over the weekend and records were shattered in at least five cities by weather that left residents gasping for relief. Eight fires smoldered in the state's forests.

But the weather bureau predicted the mercury would range between 90 and 96 degrees in western New York today, and between 92 and 98 in southeastern New York. Temperatures of 84 to 90 were forecast for northeastern portions of the state.

And more heat was in sight for tomorrow.

New records for the date were set yesterday in Albany, Syracuse, Binghamton and New York city. Albany, Rochester and New York city posted new marks on Saturday.

Top Ranking Briton Is to Be Turned Over Tuesday — Protest Is Lodged

Panmunjom, Aug. 31 (AP)—Another 150 Americans, mostly sergeants and officers, were freed today amid indications the Communists may send back up to 500 more Americans than the 3,313 originally promised.

The Reds also released 250 South Koreans on this 27th day of the Korean war prisoner exchange.

The Communists promised to send back 400 prisoners tomorrow—100 Americans, 25 British, 20 Turks, 5 Australians and another 250 South Koreans.

One of the Britons to be handed over Tuesday wil be Lt. Col. James P. Carne, top ranking British officer held by the Communists, Red newspapermen said.

Carne, commander of a battalion of one of Britain's great fighting units — the Gloucestershire Regiment—was captured in April 1951 in the fierce Imjin river battle.

Surrounded by Reds, most of the men of Carne's 1st Gloucesters Battalion were killed or captured in a gallant stand against overwhelming forces. Only a few trickled back to allied lines.

Awaits Repatriation

The Communist Peiping radio said Monday that Carne was awaiting repatriation at Kaesong, the Red holding point just north of Panmunjom, and was in "splendid physical shape."

The Communists, meanwhile, reaffirmed assurances they will return all allied prisoners who want to go home including those accused of crimes before or after their capture.

The Reds gave the assurances at a one-hour and 49-minute session of the joint military armistice commission after Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, senior allied delegate, asked whether the Reds would repatriate all prisoners who want to return.

The meeting was called at Red request.

The Communist Peiping radio said the Communists "lodged a second strong protest against American assistance to Chiang Kai-shek in the plot to detain" captured Red Chinese soldiers.

Protest Is Made

The broadcast said Red delegate Lt. Gen. Lee Sang Cho protested that Chinese Nationalist agents landed at the allied POW camp at Koje Island last Wednesday and Thursday to induce Chinese POWs not to return to the Red mainland.

Peiping said Gen. Lee told the UN delegates "that these actions are in violation of the armistice agreement and demanded an immediate end to them."

In Pusan, the UN POW command said 11 Nationalist representatives visited anti-Red Chinese POWs last week in UN camps on Cheju Island.

A UN Command statement said the Nationalists reassured the Chinese that they will not be forced to return to Red China. The representatives, the statement said, also urged the Chinese to cooperate when they are turned over to the neutral nations repatriation commission, which will decide their fate.

Some 1,200 Indian troops who will guard POWs unwilling to return home are scheduled to arrive at Inchon on Korea's west coast Tuesday on a British transport.

Hopes Are Raised

Returning Americans Monday raised hopes that the Reds would return more U. S. soldiers than they originally promised.

The Reds have returned 2,827 Americans, leaving 486 still scheduled for repatriation, according to their early figure.

But liberated Americans who were at Kaesong over the weekend said more than 1,000 non-Korean POWs were still awaiting repatriation at the Red collecting center just north of here.

They said most of the men were American and British sergeants and officers.

The Reds said recently that their 3,313 total did not include some POWs captured in the last days of the war.

Lt. Maxey H. Hall, Jr., of Indianapolis, Ind., said 290 American officers were at Kaesong. He said he had no idea how many enlisted men were being held there.

Sgt. 1c. Earl Dantzler of Richmond, Va., said more than 500

Insurance Rates Are Cut InSomeCases; AlsoIncreases

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—Leading insurance companies have agreed on new nationwide auto liability rates cutting some costs for adult pleasure car drivers and increasing rates for many young people.

The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and the Mutual Insurance Rating Bureau, major automobile insurance rating groups, announced last night agreement on the new schedule by 213 companies.

A spokesman for the underwriters said the rates would go into effect as soon as they can be filed with authorities in the various states.

Under the new plan, the main revisions affect adult drivers of non-business cars and drivers under 25 years of age. Cars used for business remain classified as before with rates for this category the base for determining other rates.

For adult drivers, the new schedules, take into account the possible use of their cars going to and from work. The lowest rates apply to those cars used solely for pleasure driving. A slightly higher rate is fixed for cars driven less than 10 miles on a one-way trip to work; still higher rates apply for vehicles driven more than 10 miles to work. Previously there was no distinction for private cars used for both pleasure driving and for traveling to work.

Under the new rates, vehicle owners driving only for pleasure in Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn—which have the nation's highest rates—will pay $123 instead of the present $144.40 annually for $10,000 to $20,000 coverage for bodily injury and $5,000 property damage.

Drivers going less than 10 miles to work will continue to pay the same, but drivers going more than 10 miles to work will pay 22 per cent more than now.

The new schedules also break down young drivers into three groups, instead of carrying them in a single category. The three groups include those under 25 living at home, childless married

Water Pressure Is Being Restored

Power Shovel Cracks Main at Maple Lane Farm Saturday Afternoon

Water pressure throughout the city was dangerously reduced early Saturday afternoon when a power shovel bit into a 20-inch water main at Maple Lane Farm on Route 9W about a half mile north of the city line.

Some of the higher areas of the city were completely without water for several hours and low pressures were reported in a rash of telephone calls from all over Kingston.

Calls began pouring into police headquarters and the water works barn at about 1:35 p. m., shortly after the break occurred.

Edmund T. Cloonan, superintendent of the Water Works Department, said water works crews were able to shut off valves on each side of the break and stop the loss of water by 2:30 p. m.

Flint Finishes 81 Houses, 112 More Being Constructed

Flint, Mich., Aug. 31 (AP)—Flint was proud today of itself and its neighbors. In its northern outskirts stood 81 completed homes and 112 more in various stages of construction to prove hearts and hands can do much to erase the scars of tragedy.

Those homes took an estimated 80,000 man hours of work—all of it contributed Saturday and Sunday by volunteers. Beneficiaries were those who lost homes, and often loved ones, in a furious tornado that claimed 116 lives, injured nearly a thousand and made kindling wood of houses June 8.

The building bee was tagged "operation tornado," and workmen, skilled and amateur, flocked to the scene from many places. Around 200 came from Detroit. A group from Muskegon chartered a bus to get to the job.

When 4,500 turned to Saturday, they started from scratch on 111 houses. Some others already were partially up. They also found some gaping, gaunt basements without any building materials beside them—mute evidence of wiped out families.

Building materials were all tornado victims were asked to contribute, and Flint dealers gave discounts on these. Red Cross financial aid, Red Feather Fund contributions, and RFC and bank loans helped provide these.

U. S. Communists Greater Menace, Brownell Claims

Washington, Aug. 31 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell said today domestic Communists are "a greater menace now than at any time" and, that "I suppose there are more in labor unions than anywhere else."

"Not concentrated in the clergy?" he was asked during a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report. Brownell replied, "no."

There was no mention of the name of J. B. Matthews, former staff director of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.). Shortly after Matthews was hired by McCarthy, the American Mercury published an article in which Matthews wrote that "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergymen."

In the public uproar which followed, McCarthy defended Matthews. But after President Eisenhower assailed the statement, the senator accepted Matthews' resignation.

Matthews has contended he can document his article, which also said most Protestant clergymen are loyal. He has been promised a hearing before the House Un-American Activities Committee. No date has been fixed, but it seems certain no hearing will be held before October.

Better Organized Now

Amplifying his statement that the U. S. Communist party is more dangerous than ever, Brownell said the Reds "have gone underground since the Smith Act trials started. They are better organized, and detection is more difficult."

Eleven top Communist officials were convicted in 1949 of conspiring to violate the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to teach or advocate forcible overthrow of the U. S. government.

Loses 75,000 Members

Brownell said the Communist party has lost about 75,000 members, bringing it down to about 25,000 since that trial and several others which followed it. But the 75,000, he added, "are obviously subject to the propaganda of the Communist agents."

The party members who remain, he said, are "organizing their forces more effectively . . . (and) their espionage activities are much more underground than they were."

Brownell offered no concrete suggestions as to how to weed Communists out of the ranks of organized labor, but said his department would cooperate closely with a forthcoming Congressional study of the problem.

No Letup Promised

In response to a question, he said there was no early prospect that any of the unions expelled from the CIO several years ago on grounds that they followed the Communist line would be put on the attorney general's list of subversive organizations.

On other matters, Brownell pledged there would be no letup in enforcement of civil rights and anti-trust laws.

Asked whether he had found much "real corruption" when he took over at the Justice Department, Brownell replied:

"We found more incompetence than we had anticipated. We found that the overwhelming number of employes were honest workmen, but that the leadership was very poor, and that meritorious service was not sufficiently rewarded and, by leaving incompetents on the job, others were discouraged from doing their best professional work."

Elizabeth Wyman, Noted Educator, Dies in Kingston

Woodstock, Aug. 31—Miss Elizabeth Heywood Wyman, 76, educator and writer, and one of the four founders of Alpha Omicron Pi, college women's national fraternity, died at the Orthmann Sanitarium in Kingston early Sunday morning after an illness of two months. Miss Wyman, who was a resident of Bloomfield, N. J., and spent her summers in Woodstock, was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage while attending the bi-annual convention of Alpha Omicron Pi July 1, in Memphis, Tenn.

Wrote Stories, Plays

After graduation she joined the teaching staff of the Bloomfield High School, and also wrote a number of stories and plays for children. While at Bloomfield High School she reorganized the English Department. After leaving her high school postiion she was appointed to the Board of Education—one of the first two women ever so honored in that district.

She resigned most of these functions in 1925 when she became the first registrar of Alpha Omicron Pi and later its president. As president, she led an administration outstanding for development in many fields, especially for the harmonious cooperation and growth of all chapters of the fraternity throughout the country. She served Alpha Omicron in innumerable ways, notably as chairman of the Fellowship Committee and an Assistant Historian, an office to which she had life tenure.

In 1949 the Elizabeth Heywood Wyman Award, which she has presented each year to a member of the fraternity for distinguished service, was first given at the convention of Alpha Omicron Pi to Dorothy Kenyon, prominent New York attorney for her oustanding work in the legal profession.

As a writer, her book reviews have appeared in the Herald-Tribune and the International Book Review, and she also has contributed columns to newspapers. She began writing children's stories and plays for the amusement of her family of nieces and a nephew with whom she resided, many of whom have appeared in magazines. When one of her nieces, a member of the Girl Scout Troop of the First Presbyterian Church of Bloomfield, was unable to find a suitably "ghosty" and "scarey" play to fit the personalities of eight girls in one of the patrols, Miss Wyman went to work and produced a play titled Ted's Chum which was later published by French and Company, and proved a popular item for production with youthful organizations.

She was a member of the New Jersey Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi, the Bloomfield Branch of the American Association of University Women, having served also on the State Board of that organization, and other local clubs. Since the beginning of World War 2, she served as a regular volunteer assistant in the local Home Service of the American Red Cross in Bloomfield.

Lauded for Efforts

In a recent Alpha Omicron Pi publication, Miss Wyman was lauded for her long years of service to the organization. "Her labors in all capacities can never be over-valued by us nor can their results be too highly treasured. But the most valuable contribution of Elizabeth Heywood Wyman from the beginning has been her sympathetic understanding, her essential kindness and gentleness, her complete unselfishness, her conscientiousness in the least detail, her intelligent insight and the sweet humor that mellows her undeviating devotion to the highest and best."

She is survived by a sister-in-law, Mrs. Arthur F. Wyman, a nephew Herbert G. Wyman of Woodstock, and three nieces, Mrs. Robert K. Farnham of Chicago, Miss Jean E. Wyman of Bloomfield and Mrs. Richard E. Thibaut, Jr., of Woodstock, and several grandnieces and grandnephews.

The funeral service will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m., at the Van Tassel Funeral Home, Bloomfield.

Chases Hit-Run Car

Anthony Russo of 523 Grand street, New York, reported to police at 9:25 p. m. Saturday that his 1950 sedan had been struck and damaged about the right rear-fender and gas tank by a 1951 or 1952 grey sedan bearing a Florida license plate. Russo told police he gave chase, stopped the driver and asked him to wait until he called police. The driver left, however, and Russo said he was unable to catch him again. He was driving north on Greenkill avenue at the time of the accident and the Florida car drove out of Clinton avenue turning south on Greenkill avenue, he said.

Three Will Attend Nyack Session in Protest on Access

Albany, Aug. 31 (AP) — The State Thruway Authority said today the Nyack Chamber of Commerce had protested the lack of a southbound exit at Nyack.

Holden A. Evans, Jr., executive assistant to Bertram D. Tallamy, said the Authority would send three rpresentatives to an executive session of the Nyack chamber tomorrow.

Evans said G. W. Wells, president of the chamber, had telegraphed Tallamy urging that bids on the eastern section and approach to the proposed Hudson river bridge "be held up until proper access to Nyack is provided for southbound traffic.

In his telegram, Wells asked Tallamy to attend the chamber meeting (2 p. m., EST).

Those To Attend

Evans replied that Thruway representatives at the meeting would be: Albert Erskine, thruway district representative in Poughkeepsie; Clinton Loyd, of Madigan-Hyland Corp., engineering consultants on the Nyack approach to the proposed span, and Rush Ziegenfelder of Parsons, Brinkerhoff, Hall and MacDonald, engineering consultants for the thruway section between Suffern and Route 303.

A thruway spokesman said no exit had been planned for southbound traffic in South Nyack. Under present plans, southbound traffic for Nyack will use an exit at Spring Valley, about five miles north of Nyack.

The spokesman said the cost of building an exit at Nyack was considered prohibitive because of a steep hill on the thruway route at that point.

He added that consideration had been given to a possible interchange at 303 about a mile south of Nyack, but that the plan had been suspended temporarily.

He said the number of interchanges was being cut down for financial reasons and that route 303 ultimately may figure in a proposed connection with the New Jersey Turnpike.

Bids for the eastern approach to the proposed Hudson River bridge have been advertised for opening Sept. 17.

No one was injured and the vehicle was able to proceed under its own power after repairs were made at the scene, according to the report.

Suffers Sprained Back

James Andress, 28, of Shandaken, suffered a sprained back when his coupe left the Lucas Turnpike and struck a tree about a half mile north of Cottekill at 11:45 p. m. Saturday. The case of Frank Scott of 9 Meadow street, who was arrested at 12:32 a. m. Sunday in front of 24 Hone street charged with striking a police officer, was put over until September 3 in city court today.

Scott, who was charged with second degree assault for allegedly striking Officer Meyer Levy in the face, cutting the inside of Levy's cheek, entered a plea of innocent and was released under $100 bail. He is represented by Attorney Frank Martocci.

Robert Hamilton, U. S. Navy, Lakehurst, N. J., who was arrested at the same address charged with disorderly conduct received a suspended sentence by Judge Raymond J. Mino. It was charged that Hamilton used abusive language to Officer Levy who, accompanied by Officer Kenneth Gaffney, had been dispatched to the Hone street address to investigate a complaint of disturbance placed by a resident of the neighborhood.

Wicks Told Ives

was filed with U. S. District Court in New York.

Senator Ives, appraised of the situation affecting a large number of residents along the line served by the railroad, has informed Sen. Wicks that "because of the critical nature of this situation" he has delayed his departure from Washington for 10 days "in order that I might be in a position most advantageously to present the problem of the people in the areas served by the O. & W. to the RFC."

Kingston Stores To Be Nearest to Thruway 'Change

Kingston's greatest concentration of stores will be closer to a New York State Thruway traffic interchange than any shopping area in the state, the Kingston Chamber of Commerce revealed today.

A spokesman for the chamber also recalled today that the board of directors at a March meeting adopted a resolution calling attention to the need for major improvements to the Washington avenue approach to the city and to the fact that the thruway interchange will start within 100 feet of the north end of the narrow Esopus creek bridge.

Within 5 Blocks

"This places the thruway interchange within five blocks of the center of the Uptown shopping area," the spokesman said and continued, "This fact tied in with the development of adequate off-street parking by merchants themselves, only three blocks from the thruway, creates important possibilities for increasing the volume of business in this area and protecting taxable property values which directly benefits all citizens, particularly taxpayers."

The resolution adopted by the Chamber last March also called attention to the fact that all highway route 209 traffic going to and coming from the thruway, as well as that from the entire Rosendale area must use the dangerous Washington avenue viaduct to get on and off the thruway.

This situation and related problems of traffic flow and arterial routes will be one of the major topics to be discussed at the next regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce on Sept. 8.

Three Youths Charged With Being Disorderly

Three youths, one of whom was free on bail awaiting hearing on a traffic charge, were arrested by state police early Sunday morning on disorderly conduct charges after troopers accused them of yelling an "unprintable expression" when they passed the state police patrol car in Woodstock.

Albert Byron Kurdt, 20, of 190 Tremper avenue; Cornelius Houser, 18, of Harwich street, and Joseph Stein, 19, of Stone Ridge were arrested by state police in Woodstock and arraigned before Justice of the Peace George Braendly of Zena on disorderly conduct charges about 3:15 a. m. Sunday, state police said. Stein pleaded guilty and was fined $25. Kurdt and Houser pleaded innocent and hearings were set by Justice Braendly for 6 p. m. Sept. 10, bail for Kurdt being set at $100 and for Houser at $50.

Several hours earlier, Justice of the Peace Wilfred Doolittle of the town of Rosendale had received a plea of innocent from Kurdt on a charge of driving at excessive speed, and he had been freed on $25 bail for a hearing. The arrest in Rosendale was made by George Bockleman, village police officer.

Program Is Urged

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — A committee of real estate men has urged an integrated housing program for New York city to stem the exodus to the suburbs of more than half a million persons in the middle and upper income groups. The committee report, issued yesterday, said the trend to the suburbs began about 10 years ago. Middle and upper income groups, the committee said, mean families paying rent of $19 or more a room per month and with an annual income of $4,500 or more.

To Meet on Strike

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — A meeting of a representative group of the striking truck drivers who have paralyzed construction in the metropolitan area since July 3, was expected to take place in Flushing Queens, today with high officials of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters. A back-to-work formula may be discussed. A source close to the dispute said the meeting was expected to be held, in the vicinity of several large yards of the principal struck sand, gravel and concrete firms.

3,000 Reds Rounded Up

Bonn, Germany, Aug. 31 (AP)—The roll of Communist agents rounded up on suspicion of plotting to create disorders in the West German parliamentary election next Sunday has risen to about 3,000, government officials said today. Most of them already have been hustled back to East Germany. Federal and state police reported they hauled about 1,000 off trains today, following the arrest of 2,000 over the weekend.

'Help' Cries Denied

Berlin, Aug. 31 (AP)—A man telephoned West Berlin police today and reported in an excited voice that he had heard cries for "help" coming from the Czech military mission building in the U. S. sector. A patrol car was sent to the scene, but mission officials barred police from entering the building, police headquarters said. The Czechs reported they had "no knowledge whatsoever" of any cries for help.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—A moderate decline today sent the stock market down to new low levels for the year.

Losses were small all around seldom reaching as much as a full point. A few key issues were down between 1 and 2 points. They included Santa Fe, Western Union, Boeing, General Electric, Southern Pacific, and Northern Pacific.

Railroads were out in front in the decline, but all major divisions of the market were lower.

Today's fall was considered a part of the overall declining price pattern of the stock market which appears to be adjusting itself to an outlook for a slower business pace the remainder of this year and next.

Lower stocks included New York Central, American Telephone, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Aanconda Copper, Texas Co.,

Davi Is Stricken By Heart Attack; In Fair Condition

Fred Davi, 41, operator of the Kingston Colonials, was reported "fair" at Benedictine Hospital early this afternoon after suffering a heart attack at about 1 p. m. Saturday while driving along Broadway.

Davi's physician told The Freeman that he was still in an oxygen tent.

Riding with Davi at the time of the attack was James Naccarato, Jr., a nephew. He pulled over to the curb and told his nephew to "call that man."

The man turned out to be Harold Jones of 6 Wells street, a former well known baseball promoter and manager, who took Davi to the office of Dr. Vincent P. Amatrano, 262 Broadway. After examination, Davi was reported to have collapsed and was rushed to the hospital by ambulance and placed in an oxygen tent.

Word War Fails To Upset Business Pace in Trieste

Trieste, Aug. 31 (AP)—This big Adriatic free port went about business as usual today despite a clamorous word war between Italy and Yugoslavia over the long-disputed Trieste "free territory."

Despite Italian troop movements toward the border, and charges and counter-charges that each nation planned to grab part of the occupied zone, Trieste city remained free of demonstrations or even unusual public interest in latest developments in the long dispute.

Yugoslavia officially denied yesterday Italian charges that President Tito was getting ready to annex the territory's Zone B, south of the port city, which Yugoslavia occupies and administers under the Italian peace treaty.

Assails Italians

Yugoslav Foreign Undersecretary Ales Bebler also charged yesterday in a speech at Idrija, on the Slovene coast, that the Italians were "endeavoring with all means available" to annex the U. S.-British-occupied Zone A of the territory, which includes the port.

Bebler asserted that "the Italians are getting the support of the Anglo-American military government in Trieste."

U. S. diplomats in Rome and Belgrade were reported relatively undisturbed over the increased tension between Italy and Yugoslavia.

Officials in Rome confirmed that an Italian infantry regiment and an armored battalion had been deployed along the Yugoslav border north of Trieste and that other army units in northeast Italy had been put on the alert. But the officials termed these actions "routine exercises" as part of maneuvers underway in the area for some time.

Sail Into Venice

Rome newspapers reported, without official explanation, that an Italian cruiser, two destroyers and a number of small vessels sailed last night into Venice harbor, across the north Adriatic from Trieste.

Trieste's Italian-language press echoes Rome's fears at possible new Yugoslav moves and the city's political leaders conferred about the situation. The general public, however, remained unexcited.

Italy's 1947 peace treaty provided that all Trieste be a free territory under United Nations supervisions but the western powers and Russia have never been able to agree on an international governor. In the absence of this agreement, the British-American and Yugoslav occupations of the two zones have continued.

Knife Wielder Gives Up

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — A barefooted, shirtless young man, flourishing a huge knife, terrorized hundreds of passengers on a subway train today, but finally surrendered at gunpoint to a subway policeman. The man, identified as James Ellis, 23, a Negro, entered a downtown train at the 110th street stop of the IRT Broadway-Seventh avenue line. He wore only slacks, and carried a 12-inch-blade knife. Passengers screamed and fled from car to car as he weaved through the moving train, gesturing defiantly. As the train approached the 96th street stop, the motorman sounded a whistle distress signal, alerting Patrolman Walter Hease.

Car Skirts Stolen

John Alecca of 167 North street reported to police at 5:48 p. m. Saturday that some time Friday between 8:30 and 11:30 p. m., two fender skirts were removed from his 1950 automobile while it was parked in the John street parking lot. He said the skirts, valued at $18, were of sage green color.

Fender Damaged

Louis Catamzariti of 86 Downs street reported to police at 1:50 p. m. Saturday that the right front fender on his 1940 sedan had been damaged by a hit-and-run driver while it was parked in the John street parking lot.

U. S. Communists Greater Menace, Brownell Claims

Washington, Aug. 31 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell said today domestic Communists are "a greater menace now than at any time" and that "I suppose there are more in labor unions than anywhere else."

"Not concentrated in the clergy?" he was asked during a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report. Brownell replied, "no."

There was no mention of the name of J. B. Matthews, former staff director of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.). Shortly after Matthews was hired by McCarthy, the American Mercury published an article in which Matthews wrote that "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergymen."

In the public uproar which followed, McCarthy defended Matthews. But after President Eisenhower assailed the statement, the senator accepted Matthews' resignation.

Matthews has contended he can document his article, which also said most Protestant clergymen are loyal. He has been promised a hearing before the House Un-American Activities Committee. No date has been fixed, but it seems certain no hearing will be held before October.

Better Organized Now

Amplifying his statement that the U. S. Communist party is more dangerous than ever, Brownell said the Reds "have gone underground since the Smith Act trials started. They are better organized, and detection is more difficult."

Eleven top Communist officials were convicted in 1949 of conspiring to violate the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to teach or advocate forcible overthrow of the U. S. government.

Loses 75,000 Members

Brownell said the Communist party has lost about 75,000 members, bringing it down to about 25,000 since that trial and several others which followed it. But the 75,000, he added, "are obviously subject to the propaganda of the Communist agents."

The party members who remain, he said, are "organizing their forces more effectively . . . (and) their espionage activities are much more underground than they were."

Brownell offered no concrete suggestions as to how to weed Communists out of the ranks of organized labor, but said his department would cooperate closely with a forthcoming Congressional study of the problem.

No Letup Promised

In response to a question, he said there was no early prospect that any of the unions expelled from the CIO several years ago on grounds that they followed the Communist line would be put on the attorney general's list of subversive organizations.

On other matters, Brownell pledged there would be no letup in enforcement of civil rights and anti-trust laws.

Asked whether he had found much "real corruption" when he took over at the Justice Department, Brownell replied:

"We found more incompetence than we had anticipated. We found that the overwhelming number of employes were honest workmen, but that the leadership was very poor, and that meritorious service was not sufficiently rewarded and, by leaving incompetents on the job, others were discouraged from doing their best professional work."

Elizabeth Wyman, Noted Educator, Dies in Kingston

Woodstock, Aug. 31—Miss Elizabeth Heywood Wyman, 76, educator and writer, and one of the four founders of Alpha Omicron Pi, college women's national fraternity, died at the Orthmann Sanitarium in Kingston early Sunday morning after an illness of two months. Miss Wyman, who was a resident of Bloomfield, N. J., and spent her summers in Woodstock, was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage while attending the bi-annual convention of Alpha Omicron Pi July 1, in Memphis, Tenn.

Wrote Stories, Plays

After graduation she joined the teaching staff of the Bloomfield High School, and also wrote a number of stories and plays for children. While at Bloomfield High School she reorganized the English Department. After leaving her high school postiion she was appointed to the Board of Education—one of the first two women ever so honored in that district.

She resigned most of these functions in 1925 when she became the first registrar of Alpha Omicron Pi and later its president. As president, she led an administration outstanding for development in many fields, especially for the harmonious cooperation and growth of all chapters of the fraternity throughout the country. She served Alpha Omicron in innumerable ways, notably as chairman of the Fellowship Committee and an Assistant Historian, an office to which she had life tenure.

In 1949 the Elizabeth Heywood Wyman Award, which she has presented each year to a member of the fraternity for distinguished service, was first given at the convention of Alpha Omicron Pi to Dorothy Kenyon, prominent New York attorney for her oustanding work in the legal profession.

As a writer, her book reviews have appeared in the Herald-Tribune and the International Book Review, and she also has contributed columns to newspapers. She began writing children's stories and plays for the amusement of her family of nieces and a nephew with whom she resided, many of whom have appeared in magazines. When one of her nieces, a member of the Girl Scout Troop of the First Presbyterian Church of Bloomfield, was unable to find a suitably "ghosty" and "scarey" play to fit the personalities of eight girls in one of the patrols, Miss Wyman went to work and produced a play titled Ted's Chum whch was later published by French and Company, and proved a popular item for production with youthful organizations.

She was a member of the New Jersey Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi, the Bloomfield Branch of the American Association of University Women, having served also on the State Board of that organization, and other local clubs. Since the beginning of World War 2, she served as a regular volunteer assistant in the local Home Service of the American Red Cross in Bloomfield.

Lauded for Efforts

In a recent Alpha Omicron Pi publication, Miss Wyman was lauded for her long years of service to the organization. "Her labors in all capacities can never be over-valued by us nor can their results be too highly treasured. But the most valuable contribution of Elizabeth Heywood Wyman from the beginning has been her sympathetic understanding, her essential kindness and gentleness, her conscientiousness in the least detail, her intelligent insight and the sweet humor that mellows her undeviating devotion to the highest and best."

She is survived by a sister-in-law, Mrs. Arthur F. Wyman, a nephew Herbert G. Wyman of Woodstock, and three nieces, Mrs. Robert K. Farnham of Chicago, Miss Jean E. Wyman of Bloomfield and Mrs. Richard E. Thibaut, Jr., of Woodstock, and several grandnieces and grandnephews.

Three Will Attend Nyack Session in Protest on Access

Albany, Aug. 31 (AP) — The State Thruway Authority said today the Nyack Chamber of Commerce had protested the lack of a southbound exit at Nyack.

Holden A. Evans, Jr., executive assistant to Bertram D. Tallamy, said the Authority would send three rpresentatives to an executive session of the Nyack chamber tomorrow.

Evans said G. W. Wells, president of the chamber, had telegraphed Tallamy urging that bids on the eastern section and approach to the proposed Hudson river bridge "be held up until proper access to Nyack is provided for southbound traffic.

In his telegram, Wells asked Tallamy to attend the chamber meeting (2 p. m., EST).

Those To Attend

Evans replied that Thruway representatives at the meeting would be: Albert Erskine, thruway district representative in Poughkeepsie; Clinton Loyd, of Madigan-Hyland Corp., engineering consultants on the Nyack approach to the proposed span, and Rush Ziegenfelder of Parsons, Brinkerhoff, Hall and MacDonald, engineering consultants for the thruway section between Suffern and Route 303.

A thruway spokesman said no exit had been planned for southbound traffic in South Nyack. Under present plans, southbound traffic for Nyack will use an exit at Spring Valley, about five miles north of Nyack.

The spokesman said the cost of building an exit at Nyack was considered prohibitive because of a steep hill on the thruway route at that point.

He added that consideration had been given to a possible interchange at 303 about a mile south of Nyack, but that the plan had been suspended temporarily.

He said the number of interchanges was being cut down for financial reasons and that route 303 ultimately may figure in a proposed connection with the New Jersey Turnpike.

Bids for the eastern approach to the proposed Hudson River bridge have been advertised for opening Sept. 17.

The case of Frank Scott of 9 Meadow street, who was arrested at 12:32 a. m. Sunday in front of 24 Hone street charged with striking a police officer, was put over until September 3 in city court today.

Robert Hamilton, U. S. Navy, Lakehurst, N. J., who was arrested at the same address charged with disorderly conduct received a suspended sentence by Judge Raymond J. Mino. Senator Ives, appraised of the situation affecting a large number of residents along the line served by the railroad, has informed Sen. Kingston Stores To Be Nearest to Thruway 'Change

Kingston's greatest concentration of stores will be closer to a New York State Thruway traffic interchange than any shopping area in the state, the Kingston Chamber of Commerce revealed today.

A spokesman for the chamber also recalled today that the board of directors at a March meeting adopted a resolution calling attention to the need for major improvements to the Washington avenue approach to the city and to the fact that the thruway interchange will start within 100 feet of the north end of the narrow Esopus creek bridge.

Within 5 Blocks

"This places the thruway interchange within five blocks of the center of the Uptown shopping area," the spokesman said and continued, "This fact tied in with the development of adequate offstreet parking by merchants themselves, only three blocks from the thruway, creates important possibilities for increasing the volume of business in this area and protecting taxable property values which directly benefits all citizens, particularly taxpayers."

The resolution adopted by the Chamber last March also called attention to the fact that all highway route 209 traffic going to and coming from the thruway, as well as that from the entire Rosendale area must use the dangerous Washington avenue viaduct to get on and off the thruway.

This situation and related problems of traffic flow and arterial routes will be one of the major topics to be discussed at the next regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce on Sept. 8.

Three Youths Charged With Being Disorderly

Three youths, one of whom was free on bail awaiting hearing on a traffic charge, were arrested by state police early Sunday morning on disorderly conduct charges after troopers accused them of yelling an "unprintable expression" when they passed the state police patrol car in Woodstock.

Albert Byron Kurdt, 20, of 190 Tremper avenue; Cornelius Houser, 18, of Harwich street, and Joseph Stein, 19, of Stone Ridge were arrested by state police in Woodstock and arraigned before Justice of the Peace George Braendly of Zena on disorderly conduct charges about 3:15 a. m. Sunday, state police said. Stein pleaded guilty and was fined $25. Kurdt and Houser pleaded innocent and hearings were set by Justice Braendly for 6 p. m. Sept. 10, bail for Kurdt being set at $100 and for Houser at $50.

Several hours earlier, Justice of the Peace Wilfred Doolittle of the town of Rosendale had received a plea of innocent from Kurdt on a charge of driving at excessive speed, and he had been freed on $25 bail for a hearing. The arrest in Rosendale was made by George Bockleman, village police officer.

Program Is Urged

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — A committee of real estate men has urged an integrated housing program for New York city to stem the exodus to the suburbs of more than half a million persons in the middle and upper income groups. Middle and upper income groups, the committee said, mean families paying rent of $19 or more a room per month and with an annual income of $4,500 or more.

A patrol car was sent to the scene, but mission officials barred police from entering the building, police headquarters said. The Czechs reported they had "no knowledge whatsoever" of any cries for help.

Losses were small all around seldom reaching as much as a full point. A few key issues were down between 1 and 2 points. They included Santa Fe, Western Union, Boeing, General Electric, Southern Pacific, and Northern Pacific.

Railroads were out in front in the decline, but all major divisions of the market were lower.

Today's fall was considered a part of the overall declining price pattern of the stock market which appears to be adjusting itself to an outlook for a slower business pace the remainder of this year and next.

Lower stocks included New York Central, American Telephone, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Aanconda Copper, Texas Co.,

Davi Is Stricken By Heart Attack; In Fair Condition

Fred Davi, 41, operator of the Kingston Colonials, was reported "fair" at Benedictine Hospital early this afternoon after suffering a heart attack at about 1 p. m. Saturday while driving along Broadway.

Davi's physician told The Freeman that he was still in an oxygen tent.

Riding with Davi at the time of the attack was James Naccarato, Jr., a nephew. He pulled over to the curb and told his nephew to "call that man."

The man turned out to be Harold Jones of 6 Wells street, a former well known baseball promoter and manager, who took Davi to the office of Dr. Vincent P. Amatrano, 262 Broadway. After examination, Davi was reported to have collapsed and was rushed to the hospital by ambulance and placed in an oxygen tent.

Word War Fails To Upset Business Pace in Trieste

Trieste, Aug. 31 (AP)—This big Adriatic free port went about business as usual today despite a clamorous word war between Italy and Yugoslavia over the long-disputed Trieste "free territory."

Despite Italian troop movements toward the border, and charges and counter-charges that each nation planned to grab part of the occupied zone, Trieste city remained free of demonstrations or even unusual public interest in latest developments in the long dispute.

Yugoslavia officially denied yesterday Italian charges that President Tito was getting ready to annex the territory's Zone B, south of the port city, which Yugoslavia occupies and administers under the Italian peace treaty.

Assails Italians

Yugoslav Foreign Undersecretary Ales Bebler also charged yesterday in a speech at Idrija, on the Slovene coast, that the Italians were "endeavoring with all means available" to annex the U. S.-British-occupied Zone A of the territory, which includes the port.

Bebler asserted that "the Italians are getting the support of the Anglo-American military government in Trieste."

U. S. diplomats in Rome and Belgrade were reported relatively undisturbed over the increased tension between Italy and Yugoslavia.

Officials in Rome confirmed that an Italian infantry regiment and an armored battalion had been deployed along the Yugoslav border north of Trieste and that other army units in northeast Italy had been put on the alert. But the officials termed these actions "routine exercises" as part of maneuvers underway in the area for some time.

Sail Into Venice

Rome newspapers reported, without official explanation, that an Italian cruiser, two destroyers and a number of small vessels sailed last night into Venice harbor, across the north Adriatic from Trieste.

Trieste's Italian-language press echoes Rome's fears at possible new Yugoslav moves and the city's political leaders conferred about the situation. The general public, however, remained unexcited.

Italy's 1947 peace treaty provided that all Trieste be a free territory under United Nations supervisions but the western powers and Russia have never been able to agree on an international governor. In the absence of this agreement, the British-American and Yugoslav occupations of the two zones have continued.

Knife Wielder Gives Up

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — A barefooted, shirtless young man, flourishing a huge knife, terrorized hundreds of passengers on a subway train today, but finally surrendered at gunpoint to a subway policeman. The man, identified as James Ellis, 23, a Negro, entered a downtown train at the 110th street stop of the IRT Broadway-Seventh avenue line. He wore only slacks, and carried a 12-inch-blade knife. Passengers screamed and fled from car to car as he weaved through the moving train, gesturing defiantly. As the train approached the 96th street stop, the motorman sounded a whistle distress signal, alerting Patrolman Walter Hease.

Official Denies McIntire Charge

Bonn, Germany, Aug. 31 (AP)—A U. S. high commission official denied last night that the State Department had refused a church group permission to launch a barrage of Bible-laden balloons over Iron Curtain countries.

The Rev. Dr. Carl McIntire of Collingswood, N. J., president of the International Council of Christian Churches, charged in Amsterdam yesterday that the State Department had refused permission to fly the Bibles from the U. S.-occupied zone of Germany. The head of the Protestant organization wired President Eisenhower for "assistance."

Alfred V. Boerner, public affairs director for the high commission, said, "actually, the council needs only clearance by German authorities. The only question is whether the State Department should intervene in helping the council obtain such German clearance."

He said the department had been asked its attitude and a reply was awaited.

Council officials said balloons for the project have been made in West Germany, and small Bibles have been printed in Polish, Russian, Czech and Slovak.

Dunn Says U. S. 'Doing Very Well'

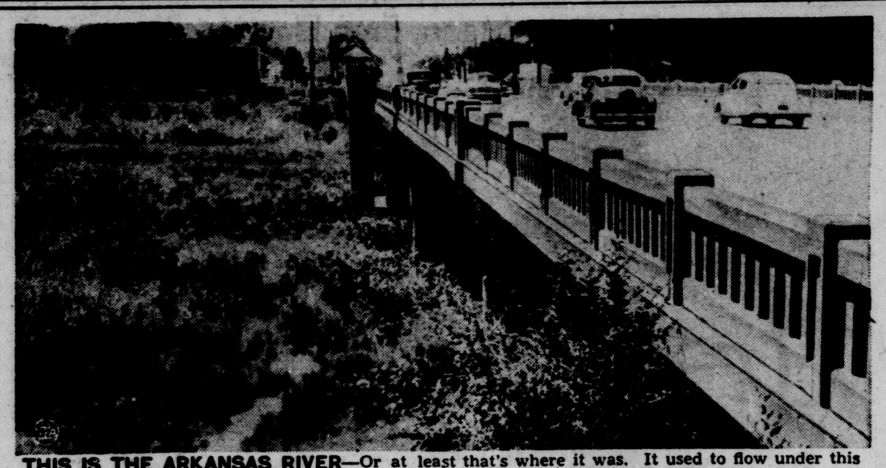

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—James C. Dunn, ambassador to Spain, says the United States is "doing very well" in negotiations for U. S. air bases in Spain in return for American aid.

Dunn made the statement to newsmen yesterday as he passed through here on a plane trip from Madrid to Washington for State Department consultations on the negotiations with Spain.

Dunn said of the talks with Spanish officials: "There is good disposition on both sides. But it is one of those negotiations composed of a lot of detail, and it takes time. It looks very encouraging and I am optimistic. The Spanish themselves, through the press, says that we are close to an agreement."

Corporal Says He Played Dumb as Recipe for Reds

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—A corporal came home from Korea yesterday and gave his "playing dumb" recipe for frustrating Communist indoctrination efforts while in prison.

"It was easy," said Cpl. William C. Hansen, 21, of Maspeth, Queens. "All I did was play dumb, act dumb all the time and ignore all their lectures and arguments.

"Every time a guy came around to argue with me, I just ignored him. I said, 'yeah, yeah, you're right. Everything you say is true.'"

Hansen said he had no difficulty warding off indoctrination efforts —"I just didn't think about it and kept pushing it out of my mind because if you thought about it, you never know what might happen."

Dictated His Letters

The corporal said he had heard of some prisoners turning Communist but did not know of any personally. On several occasions he said, his captors dictated letters to him for mailing home.

His mother, Mrs. Christian Hansen, at LaGuardia Airport with her husband and over 50 relatives and friends to greet the corporal as he arrived from San Francisco, said she had known the letters were "phonies" because he had written them in four different types of handwriting, none resembling his own.

Hansen, who has nine battle stars, was captured Nov. 1, 1950, a day before he was to be relieved from front line duty in a chemical corps mortar detachment.

Board to Check On German Bonds

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — A new German-American validation board will start tomorrow the task of examining and verifying ownership of old German dollar bonds which have been in default since the outbreak of World War 2. The board announced yesterday that it had set up offices at 30 Broad street in New York's financial district.

Trading in some 90 German issues will resume as soon as enough valid bonds and rightful owners have been determined by the board to establish a market value and permit orderly buying and selling.

Eight Fires Are Beaten in Delaware And Adirondacks

Albany, Aug. 31 (AP) — Eight fires smoldered today in the Adirondack and Catskill mountain forests, scorched dry after a week of blazing heat.

The largest outbreak ravaged more than 100 acres of scrub timber yesterday near Hancock, Delaware county. Forest rangers hoped to bring it under control today.

Sparks from a fire that destroyed two boathouses and damaged three other buildings yesterday ignited the woods on Mt. Whitney, near Lake Placid. An acre was burned over before firefighters and a fireboat crew brought the flames under control.

Harry A. Williams, district forest ranger at Oneonta, said six other fires had broken out in Otsego and Delaware counties since Saturday. All were stemmed before they caused much damage.

Williams said the fire near Hancock started Saturday, but he did not know what caused it. Nearly 50 state firefighters and employes of the Erie Railroad battled the flames.

Sparks Ignite Woods

The fire on 2,600-foot Mt. Whitney broke out after a strong wind had carried sparks from the burning buildings. Firemen believed they were ignited by an oil burner in one of the boathouses.

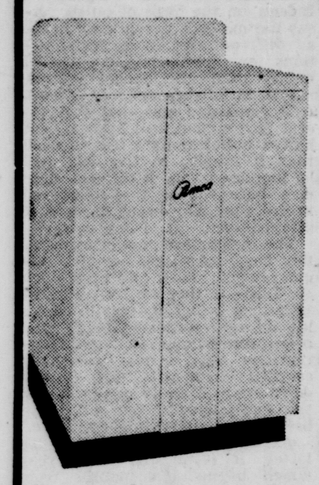

More than 100 firemen and volunteers fought the building fires for 2½ hours and brought them under control. Then the sparks caught in timber on the mountain, about a mile away.

A privately owned fireboat boosted water up the mountainside to a Lake Placid fire department truck. It in turn pumped through hoses running 1,000 feet above lake level.

One boat was destroyed in each of the two boathouses, owned by Harry W. Voege and C. W. Barrett, both of Garden City, L. I. Two nearby summer homes and a garage were damaged slightly.

Official Denies McIntire Charge

Bonn, Germany, Aug. 31 (AP)—A U. S. high commission official denied last night that the State Department had refused a church group permission to launch a barrage of Bible-laden balloons over Iron Curtain countries.

The Rev. Dr. Carl McIntire of Collingswood, N. J., president of the International Council of Christian Churches, charged in Amsterdam yesterday that the State Department had refused permission to fly the Bibles from the U. S.-occupied zone of Germany. The head of the Protestant organization wired President Eisenhower for "assistance."

Alfred V. Boerner, public affairs director for the high commission, said, "actually, the council needs only clearance by German authorities. The only question is whether the State Department should intervene in helping the council obtain such German clearance."

He said the department had been asked its attitude and a reply was awaited.

Council officials said balloons for the project have been made in West Germany, and small Bibles have been printed in Polish, Russian, Czech and Slovak.

Dunn Says U. S. 'Doing Very Well'

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—James C. Dunn, ambassador to Spain, says the United States is "doing very well" in negotiations for U. S. air bases in Spain in return for American aid.

Dunn made the statement to newsmen yesterday as he passed through here on a plane trip from Madrid to Washington for State Department consultations on the negotiations with Spain.

Dunn said of the talks with Spanish officials: "There is good disposition on both sides. But it is one of those negotiations composed of a lot of detail, and it takes time. It looks very encouraging and I am optimistic. The Spanish themselves, through the press, says that we are close to an agreement."

Corporal Says He Played Dumb as Recipe for Reds

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—A corporal came home from Korea yesterday and gave his "playing dumb" recipe for frustrating Communist indoctrination efforts while in prison.

"It was easy," said Cpl. William C. Hansen, 21, of Maspeth, Queens. "All I did was play dumb, act dumb all the time and ignore all their lectures and arguments.

"Every time a guy came around to argue with me, I just ignored him. I said, 'yeah, yeah, you're right. Everything you say is true.'"

Hansen said he had no difficulty warding off indoctrination efforts —"I just didn't think about it and kept pushing it out of my mind because if you thought about it, you never know what might happen."

Dictated His Letters

The corporal said he had heard of some prisoners turning Communist but did not know of any personally. On several occasions he said, his captors dictated letters to him for mailing home.

His mother, Mrs. Christian Hansen, at LaGuardia Airport with her husband and over 50 relatives and friends to greet the corporal as he arrived from San Francisco, said she had known the letters were "phonies" because he had written them in four different types of handwriting, none resembling his own.

Hansen, who has nine battle stars, was captured Nov. 1, 1950, a day before he was to be relieved from front line duty in a chemical corps mortar detachment.

Board to Check On German Bonds

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — A new German-American validation board will start tomorrow the task of examining and verifying ownership of old German dollar bonds which have been in default since the outbreak of World War 2. The board announced yesterday that it had set up offices at 30 Broad street in New York's financial district.

Trading in some 90 German issues will resume as soon as enough valid bonds and rightful owners have been determined by the board to establish a market value and permit orderly buying and selling.

Eight Fires Are Beaten in Delaware And Adirondacks

Albany, Aug. 31 (AP) — Eight fires smoldered today in the Adirondack and Catskill mountain forests, scorched dry after a week of blazing heat.

The largest outbreak ravaged more than 100 acres of scrub timber yesterday near Hancock, Delaware county. Forest rangers hoped to bring it under control today.

Sparks from a fire that destroyed two boathouses and damaged three other buildings yesterday ignited the woods on Mt. Whitney, near Lake Placid. An acre was burned over before firefighters and a fireboat crew brought the flames under control.

Harry A. Williams, district forest ranger at Oneonta, said six other fires had broken out in Otsego and Delaware counties since Saturday. All were stemmed before they caused much damage.

Williams said the fire near Hancock started Saturday, but he did not know what caused it. Nearly 50 state firefighters and employes of the Erie Railroad battled the flames.

Sparks Ignite Woods

The fire on 2,600-foot Mt. Whitney broke out after a strong wind had carried sparks from the burning buildings. Firemen believed they were ignited by an oil burner in one of the boathouses.

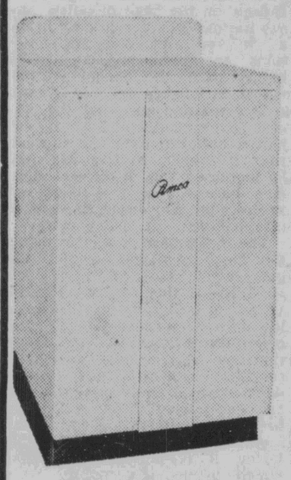

More than 100 firemen and volunteers fought the building fires for 2½ hours and brought them under control. Then the sparks caught in timber on the mountain, about a mile away.

A privately owned fireboat boosted water up the mountainside to a Lake Placid fire department truck. It in turn pumped through hoses running 1,000 feet above lake level.

One boat was destroyed in each of the two boathouses, owned by Harry W. Voege and C. W. Barrett, both of Garden City, L. I. Two nearby summer homes and a garage were damaged slightly.

TEST FOR CANDIDATES

Senator Taft's death would have left the country with an unexpected President, had he been nominated and elected last fall and his vice president had succeeded. This moves Dr. Mary Putnam of Jamestown, R. I., writing in the New York Times, to recall the illnesses which incapacitated President Wilson and killed President Roosevelt. Her statement that Wendell Willkie died of a heart attack shortly after his defeat is not strictly correct; his death occurred almost four years later.

From these facts she argues that all candidates should be examined by an impartial medical board such as a life insurance company would demand for a half-million dollar policy holder, and that the candidate withdraw if found medically unfit. This would be better than a certificate from the family physician, who might be an old friend, loath unless it were absolutely necessary, to thwart the ambitions of a long-time patient.

The idea has merit. The Presidency has become such a gruelling post that many men in average health would give way under its demands. Everyone voting for a particular nominee takes it for granted that if he wins, he will serve four years. If he knew positively that the candidate was a poor medical risk, he might think twice.

No law is needed to put Dr. Putnam's idea into effect. A candidate who announced that he had been pronounced fit by a board of medical experts would virtually compel his rivals to follow suit. Then we might be reasonably confident that the man for whom we voted would finish his term.

PERON AND RUSSIA

Relations between Argentina and Russia are better today than they have been for many years. The two countries have recently concluded a $200,000,000 commercial exchange pact which makes Argentina the biggest South American trader with Russia. Some observers believe that Argentina may eventually become an intermediary for Russia among the South American countries which want to better their relationships with Russia.

Communists have often won followers by pointing out their opposition to fascism. On the other hand the Fascists and Nazis won a great deal of their strength from the support of people who feared communism. Despite this avowed mutual antipathy the Communists and the Fascists have never had any trouble reaching agreements when such agreements proved mutually advantageous. It was Russia's alliance with Germany that made World War II inevitable.

Both communism and fascism are totalitarian philosophies and there is little real difference between them. The closer one studies them the more apparent it becomes that they are the two sides of the same counterfeit coin. It should not be surprising that Russian overtures toward Argentina are meeting with success.

If the administration insists on raising the debt limit next session of Congress there are a few Congressmen who will probably raise the roof.

AN ENORMOUS ORDER

Herbert Hoover is head of a bipartisan commission appointed by President Eisenhower to study reorganization of the executive branch of the government.

Asked what he would seek to accomplish, the former President said he hoped that the commission would "contribute something to lessen what President Eisenhower has aptly described as our 'staggering economic burdens,' strengthen private enterprise, reduce the burden of taxation, lessen bureaucratic tyranny over our citizens and generally improve the efficiency of our government."

That is an enormous order. But it is an order that must be filled if we are to be saved from financial ruin as a nation, and from the destruction of freedom which is the tragic and inevitable result of ever-expanding, ever-more-costly government.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A CALL TO HATE

Dr. Harry F. Ward has for many years been an important personality in the American theological world. British born, educated at the University of Southern California, Northwestern and Harvard Universities, he was ordained as a Methodist minister. He was a founder of the Methodist Federation of Social Service. For many years, he was Professor of Christian Ethics at the Union Theological Seminary.

As extra-curricular activities, he has been chairman of American League Against War and Fascism and its successor, the American League For Peace and Democracy, both Communist Front organizations and definitely subversive.

The other day, in the attic, I found his call to arms in connection with the Spanish Civil War, a pamphlet entitled "The Fascist International," the underlying idea of which is:

"At the beginning of the capitalist period of history, all the forces of feudal reaction united against the growing Democracy. Now, at the end of the period, they gather again—all the feudal remnants, all of the capitalist reaction—to destroy the democratic process before it leads to the social change that will remove them from the seat of power. Since the People's Front governments were formed in France and in Spain, the forces of reaction have discovered that if they are to preserve their power and privilege, they must swiftly destroy Democracy. What our steel and coal barons, our automobile and textile magnates, have long done in their local communities, what Hitler and Mussolini have done in Germany and Italy, is now being attempted on a world scale.

It is to be noted that this pamphlet was written to influence Americans to support the Communist cause in Spain. The above quotation is not sufficient to show what this teacher of candidates for the clergy was saying. He went further:

". . . Did it escape attention that the voice of the Vatican (and the voice of the Vatican today is the voice of the Jesuits that control the Vatican), was heard in between Hitler's speech, calling the world to a crusade against Bolshevism, and Mussolini's speech, calling the world in defense of law and order against anarchy? In between these two, the voice of the Pope called Christians everywhere, Protestants as well as Catholics, to join in a holy war against the anti-Christ, Communism. And so you have the Vatican throwing its lot in with the Fascist International. It is well to bear in mind that the Vatican attacking Democracy, under the guise of a crusade against Communism, is an organized force that knows more about propaganda than Mr. Hearst can ever learn if he stayed on this earth 1000 years."

While Professor Ward objected to a union of Catholics and Protestants against Communism, he favored a union of all forces for ". . . the fundamental principle of the American League Against War and Fascism—the indivisibility of war and Fascism." He objected to the Pro Deo societies but favored the American League Against War and Fascism which was an arm of Soviet propaganda and infiltration in the United States.

In the curious controversy which arose over the employment of J. B. Matthews by the McCarthy Committee, much was made of Matthews' statement concerning the infiltration of the clergy by the Communists. At that time, I was surprised that nobody pointed to the work and achievements of the Reverend Harry F. Ward, who was not only a leader in United Front movements but in the Methodist Church. His career could have been used as a model to show precisely how such infiltration was accomplished. For instance, his books, "The Profit Motive," "The New Social Order," "Our Economic Morality," "In Place of Profit," "Democracy and Social Change," "The Soviet Spirit," might be studied with advantage in this connection. For here was a man who played on all instruments in the interest of Communism which he called Democracy.

In 1953, these sentences make hard reading:

". . . The Socialist International tried to use Democracy and the Communist International since 1935, has been trying to defend it. . . ."

It is not necessary to draw false statistical conclusions from one Harry F. Ward any more than it is wise to reach fallacious moral conclusions from Kinsey's books. A Harry Ward is not the Protestant clergy any more than Kinsey's 5,940 cases represent the womenhood of America. But the fact is that Harry Ward exercised a wide and important influence in a field that should have rejected the materialistic godlessness of Marxism.

That Body of Yours

FEW EARLY SIGN IN CANCER OF STOMACH

It is known that during World War 2, 300,000 men were killed in action and about the same number of persons were killed in the United States by cancer of the digestive tract. Of this total, 100,000 deaths were due to cancer of the stomach. Research workers state that despite the number of cancer patients actually cured by our present methods of treatment—X-rays, radium, and surgery—within 10 years deaths from cancer of the stomach wil be 40,000 annually.

Why is the death rate by cancer of the stomach so high?

Unfortunately, stomach cancer in its early stages produces few or no signs or symptoms. In the "Journal of the American Medical Association," Drs. Alton Ochsner and John Blalock, Department of Surgery, Tulane University of Louisiana School of Medicine, New Orleans, state that patients pay little attention to their symptoms—slight distress after eating, loss of weight and loss of appetite—until several months pass. Even after consulting their physician, the physician must make the usual tests for cancer of the stomach—test meals, X-rays and fluoroscope—which means further delay before treatment is begun. In their series of 210 patients with stomach cancer, there was an average duration of the symptoms for nearly 8 months and an average weight loss of about 30 pounds before the physician was consulted and treatment was given.

Loss of weight was the most prominent manifestation, being present in over 90 per cent of the patients; pain occurred in about 84 per cent; nausea in 59.5 per cent; tenderness in about 53 per cent; loss of appetite in 53 per cent; simple vomiting in 50 per cent; a definite mass in the stomach which could be felt by the fingers of the physician in 40 per cent; difficult swallowing by 14 per cent; discoloration of the skin by 20 per cent.

Another research physician and his associates report that 56 per cent (more than half of their patients) had, as early complaints, loss of appetite, fullness, and indigestion. Because loss of weight, loss of appetite and a feeling of fullness may be felt by almost everybody at times, it is not strange that patients and physicians wait and watch too long. In all these cases an average of 19 months elapsed between onset of the first symptoms and admission of patient to hospital.

What is recommended to save lives in stomach cancer? Drs. Ochsner and Blalock state that it is imperative that "occasionally" in patients whose signs and symptoms—loss of weight and appetite—suggest cancer of the stomach but in whom no positive laboratory findings can be demonstrated, opening the abdomen and exploring the stomach region should be done in all men past 40 years of age who previously have been well before onset of these symptoms.

What Do They Mean, Free Elections?

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA) — Just as many "flying saucer" blips have been showing up this summer on the radar screens of Civil Aeronautics Authority traffic control towers as were visible last year. But CAA spokesmen aren't talking about it much and they aren't nearly as excited about saucers as they were a year ago.

After studying all saucer reports during the winter, CAA experts come up with the explanation that all such sightings could be attributed to freak weather conditions, like temperature inversions. A t. i. is made up of alternate layers of warm and cold air. These layers can reflect a radar beam, simulating the effect of an aircraft on a radar screen.

This summer the CAA tower men have ignored all these saucer blips as soon as they have checked them out as not being aircraft. Top scientists still aren't absolutely sure the temperature inversion theory is the correct explanation for the flying saucer phenomeon, however. And until they get final proof, they're keeping an open mind on the subject.

Wilson and the Buzz Saw

Behind Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson's appointment of his latest efficiency committee is a long and so far fruitless effort to reorganize the old line army and navy technical services. These include Bureau of Ships, Bureau of Yards and Docks, Army Corps of Engineers, Ordnance bureau, and so on. For years these technical services have operated like petty kingdoms. Much of the military red tape and buck passing have been attributed to their semi-autonomous operations. They were also blamed for the Korea ammunition shortage fiasco.

Last November, former Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett wrote to President Truman that, "Any attempt to reorganize these technical services is like backing into a buzz saw."

Bad Case of Shingles

The case of a law which requires the U. S. Census Bureau to count red cedar shingles has been turned up by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. The law was passed back in 1937, when the U. S. lumber industry was worried about competition from Canadian red cedar shingles.

Congress thereupon ordered the Director of the Census Bureau to count shingles so that the President could slap a tariff on Canadian imports if they amounted to more than a fourth of U. S. production.

Ten years later a new trade agreement with Canada wiped out this tariff, but the Bureau of Census had to keep on counting shingles just the same because the law said so. The Senate voted to repeal this law just before it adjourned this month but the House never got around to it. And so, at last report, the office of shingle counting is still on the job.

Endless Cost of War

The shooting in Korea may have ended, but the costs will run on for a long time. Best guess—there are no accurate figures—is that the war cost the U. S. about $5 billion a year for three years. The only reduced costs now are in human lives and expendable ammunition and equipment. The dollar cost reduction might be a billion or two a year.

One by-product of the war is that it has produced two million more U. S. war veterans. If Korean GI's apply for benefits on the same scale as World War 2 veterans, the cost will be another 2½ billion dollars or so.

This is calculated on the basis of 80 per cent of the two million veterans applying for benefits and receiving on the average from $1500 to $1600 apiece in loans or educational expenses.

A Veterans' Administration study made in 1950, just before the Korean war broke out, showed that 12 million of the 15 million World War 2 veterans got GI benefits for a total cost of $19.5 billion. The average was $1628 per man.

Dogging the Mailman

The Universal Postal Union—which arranges for the handling of all foreign mails and payment of them to all governments of the world—has just come up with a new set of instructions for letter carriers on what to do when confronted by savage dogs.

The U. P. U. bulletin warns postmen caught with only a mail sack or a fence between the letter and the dog's fangs, "never to show fear or mistrust of the dog." It adds that "friendly or soothing words might be advisable.

"By all means," say the instructions, "never kick the dog—unless, of course, it is absolutely necessary."

"Wetback" Headache

At just about the same time Attorney General Herbert Brownell came back from his personal inspection of the Mexican border, full of plans for ending the "wetback" labor problem, Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin came up with a completely different angle on the story.

Secretary Durkin announced from Washington that it would be necessary for him to consolidate two Mexican labor reception centers on the border because he didn't have enough money to keep both of them going. Congress had thoughtfully cut funds for administering the wetback program the rest of this crop year by 26 per cent. Legal Mexican labor importation will therefore be cut accordingly.

Mexico has so much unemployment that it is glad to have its surplus labor wade across the Rio Grande to find jobs in the U. S. And since American farmers want the cheaper Mexican labor, the two necessary elements are there to make a bargain. Therefore, say American and Mexican farm labor leaders, the abuse won't ever be ended until first—the Mexican government agrees to keep its migrant labor at home, and two—the U. S. government provides for stricter enforcement against illegal labor supplied outside of government contract.

Hungarian Goulash

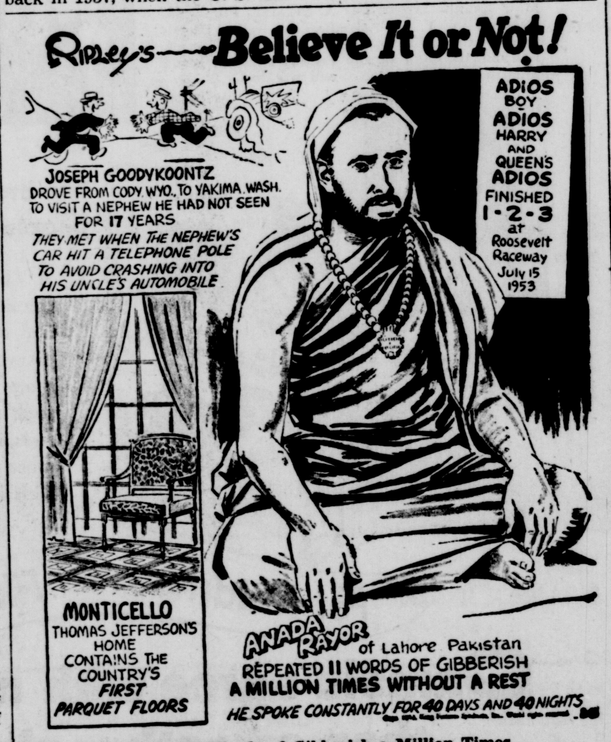

Life in Hungary must be getting really hectic about now. National Committee for a Free Europe has been collecting odd items about the workers' paradise under Communist rule and has come up with some dillies.

One of them is a new marriage law which permits the granting of divorces on grounds of "ideological differences." Either spouse can request separation by a Communist judge if it is reported that the other does not have "sound" views on the social and political institutions of the government.

Then there is a drive on to persuade the children in "Communist Pioneer Organizations" to go to to the factories and farms to persuade their parents to do more work. By reciting slogans learned at school, the children are told that their parents will overfulfill their work quotas.

At public request, the Hungarian Ministry of Domestic Commerce in Budapest has ordered all pawn shops to open at six a. m. instead of eight, as formerly. The reason is to give people more time to pawn something before going to work, so that they can scrape together enough money to live on. As many as 250 people are reported to line up in front of the state-run pawn shops every morning.

Letter Shows Taft Felt Finances Would Be on Sound Basis by 1954

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 31.—While the late Senator Taft did not agree with some of the policies of the Eisenhower administration, a hitherto unpublished letter shows that the Ohio Senator felt complete confidence that government finances would be put on a sound basis beginning July 1, 1954.

On May 7, 1953—when serious illness was already beginning to keep the Ohio senator away from his work—he wrote to Charles H. Keinath of Newark, Ohio, as follows:

"I have your recent letter indicating your concern and criticism of the new administration, and I have read with interest your analysis of the present situation in Washington.

"The new administration has appointed to office men with limited experience in government but wide experience in business. These men have been shocked at the conditions they have found. The Truman administration was made up of people who believed that government spending was a good thing in itself, and there never has been an organization in the history of the world where there was such an uncontrolled and uneconomic spending. The officials of the Eisenhower administration have undertaken seriously to reduce their departments to a business basis.

"Furthermore, the government is bound by many commitments which cannot be terminated over night. More than $80 billion of appropriations from past years will be unspent on July 1, 1953, to which the Truman administration added a request for further appropriations of $73 billion. It is a difficult and complicated job to find out how far we are burdened by the acts of the past administration. We cannot possibly expect to operate during the fiscal year 1954 at the level which this administration itself would have fixed if it had been in control. The Eisenhower administration will not have a really free hand until the year which begins July 1, 1954.

"I cannot in this letter discuss all the single criticisms which have been pointed to the Eisenhower administration. However there can be no doubt about the sincerity of their efforts, and the public will have to remember that progress is necessarily slow, because they have taken over a tremendous job. The federal government is ten times the size of the government in 1933 which is the last time there was a complete change in administration."

It is known that Senator Taft had the highest admiration for George Humphrey, now Secretary of the Treasury, and it is an interesting coincidence that the prophecy in the letter to Mr. Keinath should, just four months later, begin to be fulfilled. For Mr. Humphrey is just now giving the country the best news it has had on the fiscal situation since the Eisenhower Administration took office.

The Treasury says now that the budget for the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, 1954, will not have the deficit of $9.9 billions which President Truman formally predicted in his last message to Congress on the subject but that it will be even less than the $6.6 billions which President Eisenhower forecast three months ago. For the latest deficit figure given by Secretary Humphrey is $3.8 billions.

This means that progress is really being made toward a balanced budget. For a $3.8-billion deficit for the fiscal year ending next July should be compared with the $9.4-billion deficit which ended the fiscal year 1953, for the greater part of which the Truman administration was responsible. Indeed, on the basis of outgo versus income on a purely cash basis, as differentiated from authorizations or appropriations — actual money used—the budget will be nearly in balance on July 1 next. It is estimated now that the federal government will take in just half a billion dollars less in cash than it spends, so the debt will be increased very little and there is a bare chance that increased tax receipts may bring the budget into balance.

The meaning of this in terms of the next fiscal year—which begins July 1, 1954, and ends June 30, 1955—is that an over-all balance may be in sight notwithstanding the tax reductions which have been promised by law to corporations on April 1 next, when the straight income-tax rate comes down from 52 to 47 per cent, and the excess-profits tax will have been eliminated altogether.

As Senator Taft wrote in his letter, it is in the fiscal year which begins ten months from now—on July 1, 1954—that the Eisenhower administration aims to balance the budget. The news from Mr. Humphrey's office on how things are progressing this year certainly encourages hopes for a good budgetary situation for the next fiscal year. It will make for a sounder dollar in this country and give it greater prestige throughout the world.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Edward F. Hutton, the stockbroker, was a schoolmate of Bernard Baruch in a New York public school on East 54th street between Sixth and Seventh, in the eighteen eighties. Baruch was the biggest kid in the school and, in Hutton's opinion, a swell guy. He used to call Hutton "Little Eddie." They carried tin lunchboxes to school and Ned's father, Jim, was not at all well-to-do, even for that time, having a wife and three children to support on earnings which were not much more than enough. Jim and a brother, William, had run away from their home on a farm at Barnesville, O., riding one horse, because they did not like their stepmother. Jim made his way to New York where he got a job in a drug store at the age of about 16. Bill went to Cincinnati and became a bell-hop. The horsemanship of this feat seems prodigious, but I take it that they sold the horse after reaching some railroad and parted company.

Many years later, in 1917, when there had been rumors of a leak of a momentous war communication by Woodrow Wilson, Hutton, then a rich broker with offices in both New York and Washington, was called before a congressional committee investigating a big shake in the market. Some congressman got to banging the table and hollering at him. Ned did likewise.

"I said, 'don't yell at me because I will keep on yelling back and we will get nowhere'," Ned Hutton said. "Then I heard some guy laughing behind me and I looked around and it was Bernie."

Mr. Hutton had a correspondent in his Washington brokerage office who was related to Wilson's wife. There were rumors that Baruch, because of an appearance of intimacy with Wilson, who was not very intimate with anyone, had been given an advance peek at Wilson's state paper. Hutton says brokers' loans were very high, the market was due for a tumble and no leak had anything to do with the case. Anyway, Congress kicked up a row and Baruch, in his examination, described himself as a speculator. The Republicans had control and they wanted to make some medicine against the Democrats with the leak scandal.

Ferdinand Pecora, for 16 years a judge of the Supreme Court of New York county, now back in private practice, was more or less contemporaneous with Baruch and Hutton as an undergraduate in the New York public school system. He was graduated from PS 55 on 20th street between sixth and seventh and lived with his mother, father and six brothers and sisters in a cellar downtown. He was born in Sicily and came here at the age of 4. Pecora says the school that Baruch and Hutton attended was No. 69, known to his ilk as a silk-stocking school. Hutton doesn't remember the number of the school but says his dad certainly wasn't rich. As to the wealth of Dr. Simon Baruch, the father of B.M.B., he said he had no knowledge but said, "he was not a poor man."

In those days many families which had wealth or a good income from the earnings of the bread-winner sent their children to public schools. However, no Roosevelt ever set foot in one. Nowadays, almost invariably such families send them to private schools. Pecora's reference to this as a silk-stocking school explains itself under the circumstances.

"Bernie's father was a dam good doctor," Mr. Hutton says. "He started Saratoga Springs. Bernie is a good guy; a sweil, clean guy. He made his money speculating. What's the difference between speculating and gambling?"

I commented on Baruch's publicity as "the elder statesman" and "the greatest American statesman since Jefferson."

"Oh, you can't read his mind," Mr. Hutton said. "You don't know whether he believes that stuff. You don't know whether he believes he is the greatest statesman since Jefferson. Anyway, he

TEST FOR CANDIDATES

Senator Taft's death would have left the country with an unexpected President, had he been nominated and elected last fall and his vice president had succeeded. This moves Dr. Mary Putnam of Jamestown, R. I., writing in the New York Times, to recall the illnesses which incapacitated President Wilson and killed President Roosevelt. Her statement that Wendell Willkie died of a heart attack shortly after his defeat is not strictly correct; his death occurred almost four years later.

From these facts she argues that all candidates should be examined by an impartial medical board such as a life insurance company would demand for a half-million dollar policy holder, and that the candidate withdraw if found medically unfit. This would be better than a certificate from the family physician, who might be an old friend, loath unless it were absolutely necessary, to thwart the ambitions of a long-time patient.

The idea has merit. The Presidency has become such a gruelling post that many men in average health would give way under its demands. Everyone voting for a particular nominee takes it for granted that if he wins, he will serve four years. If he knew positively that the candidate was a poor medical risk, he might think twice.

No law is needed to put Dr. Putnam's idea into effect. A candidate who announced that he had been pronounced fit by a board of medical experts would virtually compel his rivals to follow suit. Then we might be reasonably confident that the man for whom we voted would finish his term.

PERON AND RUSSIA

Relations between Argentina and Russia are better today than they have been for many years. The two countries have recently concluded a $200,000,000 commercial exchange pact which makes Argentina the biggest South American trader with Russia. Some observers believe that Argentina may eventually become an intermediary for Russia among the South American countries which want to better their relationships with Russia.

Communists have often won followers by pointing out their opposition to fascism. On the other hand the Fascists and Nazis won a great deal of their strength from the support of people who feared communism. Despite this avowed mutual antipathy the Communists and the Fascists have never had any trouble reaching agreements when such agreements proved mutually advantageous. It was Russia's alliance with Germany that made World War II inevitable.

Both communism and fascism are totalitarian philosophies and there is little real difference between them. The closer one studies them the more apparent it becomes that they are the two sides of the same counterfeit coin. It should not be surprising that Russian overtures toward Argentina are meeting with success.

If the administration insists on raising the debt limit next session of Congress there are a few Congressmen who will probably raise the roof.

AN ENORMOUS ORDER

Herbert Hoover is head of a bipartisan commission appointed by President Eisenhower to study reorganization of the executive branch of the government.

Asked what he would seek to accomplish, the former President said he hoped that the commission would "contribute something to lessen what President Eisenhower has aptly described as our 'staggering economic burdens,' strengthen private enterprise, reduce the burden of taxation, lessen bureaucratic tyranny over our citizens and generally improve the efficiency of our government."

That is an enormous order. But it is an order that must be filled if we are to be saved from financial ruin as a nation, and from the destruction of freedom which is the tragic and inevitable result of ever-expanding, ever-more-costly government.

'These Days'

A CALL TO HATE

Dr. Harry F. Ward has for many years been an important personality in the American theological world. British born, educated at the University of Southern California, Northwestern and Harvard Universities, he was ordained as a Methodist minister. He was a founder of the Methodist Federation of Social Service. For many years, he was Professor of Christian Ethics at the Union Theological Seminary.

As extra-curricular activities, he has been chairman of American League Against War and Fascism and its successor, the American League For Peace and Democracy, both Communist Front organizations and definitely subversive.

The other day, in the attic, I found his call to arms in connection with the Spanish Civil War, a pamphlet entitled "The Fascist International," the underlying idea of which is:

"At the beginning of the capitalist period of history, all the forces of feudal reaction united against the growing Democracy. Now, at the end of the period, they gather again—all the feudal remnants, all of the capitalist reaction—to destroy the democratic process before it leads to the social change that will remove them from the seat of power. Since the People's Front governments were formed in France and in Spain, the forces of reaction have discovered that if they are to preserve their power and privilege, they must swiftly destroy Democracy. What our steel and coal barons, our automobile and textile magnates, have long done in their local communities, what Hitler and Mussolini have done in Germany and Italy, is now being attempted on a world scale.

It is to be noted that this pamphlet was written to influence Americans to support the Communist cause in Spain. The above quotation is not sufficient to show what this teacher of candidates for the clergy was saying. He went further:

". . . Did it escape attention that the voice of the Vatican (and the voice of the Vatican today is the voice of the Jesuits that control the Vatican), was heard in between Hitler's speech, calling the world to a crusade against Bolshevism, and Mussolini's speech, calling the world in defense of law and order against anarchy? In between these two, the voice of the Pope called Christians everywhere, Protestants as well as Catholics, to join in a holy war against the anti-Christ, Communism. And so you have the Vatican throwing its lot in with the Fascist International. It is well to bear in mind that the Vatican attacking Democracy, under the guise of a crusade against Communism, is an organized force that knows more about propaganda than Mr. Hearst can ever learn if he stayed on this earth 1000 years."

While Professor Ward objected to a union of Catholics and Protestants against Communism, he favored a union of all forces for ". . . the fundamental principle of the American League Against War and Fascism—the indivisibility of war and Fascism." He objected to the Pro Deo societies but favored the American League Against War and Fascism which was an arm of Soviet propaganda and infiltration in the United States.

In the curious controversy which arose over the employment of J. B. Matthews by the McCarthy Committee, much was made of Matthews' statement concerning the infiltration of the clergy by the Communists. At that time, I was surprised that nobody pointed to the work and achievements of the Reverend Harry F. Ward, who was not only a leader in United Front movements but in the Methodist Church. His career could have been used as a model to show precisely how such infiltration was accomplished. For instance, his books, "The Profit Motive," "The New Social Order," "Our Economic Morality," "In Place of Profit," "Democracy and Social Change," "The Soviet Spirit," might be studied with advantage in this connection. For here was a man who played on all instruments in the interest of Communism which he called Democracy.

In 1953, these sentences make hard reading:

". . . The Socialist International tried to use Democracy and the Communist International since 1935, has been trying to defend it. . . ."

It is not necessary to draw false statistical conclusions from one Harry F. Ward any more than it is wise to reach fallacious moral conclusions from Kinsey's books. A Harry Ward is not the Protestant clergy any more than Kinsey's 5,940 cases represent the womenhood of America. But the fact is that Harry Ward exercised a wide and important influence in a field that should have rejected the materialistic godlessness of Marxism.

That Body of Yours

FEW EARLY SIGN IN CANCER OF STOMACH

It is known that during World War 2, 300,000 men were killed in action and about the same number of persons were killed in the United States by cancer of the digestive tract. Of this total, 100,000 deaths were due to cancer of the stomach. Research workers state that despite the number of cancer patients actually cured by our present methods of treatment—X-rays, radium, and surgery—within 10 years deaths from cancer of the stomach wil be 40,000 annually.

Why is the death rate by cancer of the stomach so high?

Unfortunately, stomach cancer in its early stages produces few or no signs or symptoms. In the "Journal of the American Medical Association," Drs. Alton Ochsner and John Blalock, Department of Surgery, Tulane University of Louisiana School of Medicine, New Orleans, state that patients pay little attention to their symptoms—slight distress after eating, loss of weight and loss of appetite—until several months pass. Even after consulting their physician, the physician must make the usual tests for cancer of the stomach—test meals, X-rays and fluoroscope—which means further delay before treatment is begun. In their series of 210 patients with stomach cancer, there was an average duration of the symptoms for nearly 8 months and an average weight loss of about 30 pounds before the physician was consulted and treatment was given.

Loss of weight was the most prominent manifestation, being present in over 90 per cent of the patients; pain occurred in about 84 per cent; nausea in 59.5 per cent; tenderness in about 53 per cent; loss of appetite in 53 per cent; simple vomiting in 50 per cent; a definite mass in the stomach which could be felt by the fingers of the physician in 40 per cent; difficult swallowing by 14 per cent; discoloration of the skin by 20 per cent.

Another research physician and his associates report that 56 per cent (more than half of their patients) had, as early complaints, loss of appetite, fullness, and indigestion. Because loss of weight, loss of appetite and a feeling of fullness may be felt by almost everybody at times, it is not strange that patients and physicians wait and watch too long. In all these cases an average of 19 months elapsed between onset of the first symptoms and admission of patient to hospital.

What is recommended to save lives in stomach cancer? Drs. Ochsner and Blalock state that it is imperative that "occasionally" in patients whose signs and symptoms—loss of weight and appetite—suggest cancer of the stomach but in whom no positive laboratory findings can be demonstrated, opening the abdomen and exploring the stomach region should be done in all men past 40 years of age who previously have been well before onset of these symptoms.

What Do They Mean, Free Elections?

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA) — Just as many "flying saucer" blips have been showing up this summer on the radar screens of Civil Aeronautics Authority traffic control towers as were visible last year. But CAA spokesmen aren't talking about it much and they aren't nearly as excited about saucers as they were a year ago.

After studying all saucer reports during the winter, CAA experts come up with the explanation that all such sightings could be attributed to freak weather conditions, like temperature inversions. A t. i. is made up of alternate layers of warm and cold air. These layers can reflect a radar beam, simulating the effect of an aircraft on a radar screen.

This summer the CAA tower men have ignored all these saucer blips as soon as they have checked them out as not being aircraft. Top scientists still aren't absolutely sure the temperature inversion theory is the correct explanation for the flying saucer phenomeon, however. And until they get final proof, they're keeping an open mind on the subject.

Wilson and the Buzz Saw

Behind Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson's appointment of his latest efficiency committee is a long and so far fruitless effort to reorganize the old line army and navy technical services. These include Bureau of Ships, Bureau of Yards and Docks, Army Corps of Engineers, Ordnance bureau, and so on. For years these technical services have operated like petty kingdoms. Much of the military red tape and buck passing have been attributed to their semi-autonomous operations. They were also blamed for the Korea ammunition shortage fiasco.

Last November, former Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett wrote to President Truman that, "Any attempt to reorganize these technical services is like backing into a buzz saw."

Bad Case of Shingles

The case of a law which requires the U. S. Census Bureau to count red cedar shingles has been turned up by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. The law was passed back in 1937, when the U. S. lumber industry was worried about competition from Canadian red cedar shingles.

Congress thereupon ordered the Director of the Census Bureau to count shingles so that the President could slap a tariff on Canadian imports if they amounted to more than a fourth of U. S. production.

Ten years later a new trade agreement with Canada wiped out this tariff, but the Bureau of Census had to keep on counting shingles just the same because the law said so. The Senate voted to repeal this law just before it adjourned this month but the House never got around to it. And so, at last report, the office of shingle counting is still on the job.

Endless Cost of War

The shooting in Korea may have ended, but the costs will run on for a long time. Best guess—there are no accurate figures—is that the war cost the U. S. about $5 billion a year for three years. The only reduced costs now are in human lives and expendable ammunition and equipment. The dollar cost reduction might be a billion or two a year.

One by-product of the war is that it has produced two million more U. S. war veterans. If Korean GI's apply for benefits on the same scale as World War 2 veterans, the cost will be another 2½ billion dollars or so.

This is calculated on the basis of 80 per cent of the two million veterans applying for benefits and receiving on the average from $1500 to $1600 apiece in loans or educational expenses.

A Veterans' Administration study made in 1950, just before the Korean war broke out, showed that 12 million of the 15 million World War 2 veterans got GI benefits for a total cost of $19.5 billion. The average was $1628 per man.

Dogging the Mailman

The Universal Postal Union—which arranges for the handling of all foreign mails and payment of them to all governments of the world—has just come up with a new set of instructions for letter carriers on what to do when confronted by savage dogs.

The U. P. U. bulletin warns postmen caught with only a mail sack or a fence between the letter and the dog's fangs, "never to show fear or mistrust of the dog." It adds that "friendly or soothing words might be advisable.

"By all means," say the instructions, "never kick the dog—unless, of course, it is absolutely necessary."

"Wetback" Headache

At just about the same time Attorney General Herbert Brownell came back from his personal inspection of the Mexican border, full of plans for ending the "wetback" labor problem, Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin came up with a completely different angle on the story.

Secretary Durkin announced from Washington that it would be necessary for him to consolidate two Mexican labor reception centers on the border because he didn't have enough money to keep both of them going. Congress had thoughtfully cut funds for administering the wetback program the rest of this crop year by 26 per cent. Legal Mexican labor importation will therefore be cut accordingly.

Mexico has so much unemployment that it is glad to have its surplus labor wade across the Rio Grande to find jobs in the U. S. And since American farmers want the cheaper Mexican labor, the two necessary elements are there to make a bargain. Therefore, say American and Mexican farm labor leaders, the abuse won't ever be ended until first—the Mexican government agrees to keep its migrant labor at home, and two—the U. S. government provides for stricter enforcement against illegal labor supplied outside of government contract.

At public request, the Hungarian Ministry of Domestic Commerce in Budapest has ordered all pawn shops to open at six a. m. instead of eight, as formerly. The reason is to give people more time to pawn something before going to work, so that they can scrape together enough money to live on. As many as 250 people are reported to line up in front of the state-run pawn shops every morning.

Letter Shows Taft Felt Finances Would Be on Sound Basis by 1954

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 31.—While the late Senator Taft did not agree with some of the policies of the Eisenhower administration, a hitherto unpublished letter shows that the Ohio Senator felt complete confidence that government finances would be put on a sound basis beginning July 1, 1954.

On May 7, 1953—when serious illness was already beginning to keep the Ohio senator away from his work—he wrote to Charles H. Keinath of Newark, Ohio, as follows:

"I have your recent letter indicating your concern and criticism of the new administration, and I have read with interest your analysis of the present situation in Washington.

"The new administration has appointed to office men with limited experience in government but wide experience in business. These men have been shocked at the conditions they have found. The Truman administration was made up of people who believed that government spending was a good thing in itself, and there never has been an organization in the history of the world where there was such an uncontrolled and uneconomic spending. The officials of the Eisenhower administration have undertaken seriously to reduce their departments to a business basis.

"Furthermore, the government is bound by many commitments which cannot be terminated over night. More than $80 billion of appropriations from past years will be unspent on July 1, 1953, to which the Truman administration added a request for further appropriations of $73 billion. It is a difficult and complicated job to find out how far we are burdened by the acts of the past administration. We cannot possibly expect to operate during the fiscal year 1954 at the level which this administration itself would have fixed if it had been in control. The Eisenhower administration will not have a really free hand until the year which begins July 1, 1954.

"I cannot in this letter discuss all the single criticisms which have been pointed to the Eisenhower administration. However there can be no doubt about the sincerity of their efforts, and the public will have to remember that progress is necessarily slow, because they have taken over a tremendous job. The federal government is ten times the size of the government in 1933 which is the last time there was a complete change in administration."

It is known that Senator Taft had the highest admiration for George Humphrey, now Secretary of the Treasury, and it is an interesting coincidence that the prophecy in the letter to Mr. Keinath should, just four months later, begin to be fulfilled. For Mr. Humphrey is just now giving the country the best news it has had on the fiscal situation since the Eisenhower Administration took office.

The Treasury says now that the budget for the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, 1954, will not have the deficit of $9.9 billions which President Truman formally predicted in his last message to Congress on the subject but that it will be even less than the $6.6 billions which President Eisenhower forecast three months ago. For the latest deficit figure given by Secretary Humphrey is $3.8 billions.

This means that progress is really being made toward a balanced budget. For a $3.8-billion deficit for the fiscal year ending next July should be compared with the $9.4-billion deficit which ended the fiscal year 1953, for the greater part of which the Truman administration was responsible. Indeed, on the basis of outgo versus income on a purely cash basis, as differentiated from authorizations or appropriations — actual money used—the budget will be nearly in balance on July 1 next. It is estimated now that the federal government will take in just half a billion dollars less in cash than it spends, so the debt will be increased very little and there is a bare chance that increased tax receipts may bring the budget into balance.

The meaning of this in terms of the next fiscal year—which begins July 1, 1954, and ends June 30, 1955—is that an over-all balance may be in sight notwithstanding the tax reductions which have been promised by law to corporations on April 1 next, when the straight income-tax rate comes down from 52 to 47 per cent, and the excess-profits tax will have been eliminated altogether.

As Senator Taft wrote in his letter, it is in the fiscal year which begins ten months from now—on July 1, 1954—that the Eisenhower administration aims to balance the budget. The news from Mr. Humphrey's office on how things are progressing this year certainly encourages hopes for a good budgetary situation for the next fiscal year. It will make for a sounder dollar in this country and give it greater prestige throughout the world.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Edward F. Hutton, the stockbroker, was a schoolmate of Bernard Baruch in a New York public school on East 54th street between Sixth and Seventh, in the eighteen eighties. Baruch was the biggest kid in the school and, in Hutton's opinion, a swell guy. He used to call Hutton "Little Eddie." They carried tin lunchboxes to school and Ned's father, Jim, was not at all well-to-do, even for that time, having a wife and three children to support on earnings which were not much more than enough. Jim and a brother, William, had run away from their home on a farm at Barnesville, O., riding one horse, because they did not like their stepmother. Jim made his way to New York where he got a job in a drug store at the age of about 16. Bill went to Cincinnati and became a bell-hop. The horsemanship of this feat seems prodigious, but I take it that they sold the horse after reaching some railroad and parted company.

Many years later, in 1917, when there had been rumors of a leak of a momentous war communication by Woodrow Wilson, Hutton, then a rich broker with offices in both New York and Washington, was called before a congressional committee investigating a big shake in the market. Some congressman got to banging the table and hollering at him. Ned did likewise.

"I said, 'don't yell at me because I will keep on yelling back and we will get nowhere'," Ned Hutton said. "Then I heard some guy laughing behind me and I looked around and it was Bernie."

Mr. Hutton had a correspondent in his Washington brokerage office who was related to Wilson's wife. There were rumors that Baruch, because of an appearance of intimacy with Wilson, who was not very intimate with anyone, had been given an advance peek at Wilson's state paper. Hutton says brokers' loans were very high, the market was due for a tumble and no leak had anything to do with the case. Anyway, Congress kicked up a row and Baruch, in his examination, described himself as a speculator. The Republicans had control and they wanted to make some medicine against the Democrats with the leak scandal.

Ferdinand Pecora, for 16 years a judge of the Supreme Court of New York county, now back in private practice, was more or less contemporaneous with Baruch and Hutton as an undergraduate in the New York public school system. He was graduated from PS 55 on 20th street between sixth and seventh and lived with his mother, father and six brothers and sisters in a cellar downtown. He was born in Sicily and came here at the age of 4. Pecora says the school that Baruch and Hutton attended was No. 69, known to his ilk as a silk-stocking school. Hutton doesn't remember the number of the school but says his dad certainly wasn't rich. As to the wealth of Dr. Simon Baruch, the father of B.M.B., he said he had no knowledge but said, "he was not a poor man."

In those days many families which had wealth or a good income from the earnings of the bread-winner sent their children to public schools. However, no Roosevelt ever set foot in one. Nowadays, almost invariably such families send them to private schools. Pecora's reference to this as a silk-stocking school explains itself under the circumstances.

"Bernie's father was a dam good doctor," Mr. Hutton says. "He started Saratoga Springs. Bernie is a good guy; a swell, clean guy. He made his money speculating. What's the difference between speculating and gambling?"

I commented on Baruch's publicity as "the elder statesman" and "the greatest American statesman since Jefferson."

"Oh, you can't read his mind," Mr. Hutton said. "You don't know whether he believes that stuff. You don't know whether he believes he is the greatest statesman since Jefferson. Anyway, he

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Don't Get Upset Over Bad Breaks

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When a bridge player goes to heaven (if that is possible) he will discover that all of the suits break favorably and that all of the finesses work. While he lives in this vale of tears, however, he must put up with bad breaks and losing finesses.

When South played today's hand he must have thought he was already in heaven. When he had finished misplaying the hand, however, his partner gave him a little taste of the other place.

West opened the queen of spades, and South won with the king. Declarer assumed confidently that the clubs were going to break 3-2 and therefore counted 10 fast tricks. Hoping to gain an 11th trick, declarer led a low club to dummy's king and tried a heart finesse.

The heart finesse lost to West's queen, and back came another spade to South's ace. Now the clubs failed to break and South suddenly discovered that he had only eight tricks after all.

The correct line of play is to take the ace of clubs at the second trick. If either opponent shows out immediately, it becomes clear that the clubs cannot be brought in, in which case the ninth trick must be sought in hearts.

If both opponents follow to the first round of clubs (as they would in this case) South leads a low club and lets the opponents win the trick. This provides against a 4-1 break. South can regain the lead and take the rest of dummy's clubs, with nine tricks assured.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

With Christmas coming sooner than you think, there is always one friend, who seems to have everything and one wonders what he can be given which he will like. If it is someone who is interested in local history one of the gifts that I think he will cherish is The Story of Kingston by Andrew S. Hickey. Perhaps to add to the interest, an autographed copy can be obtained. Captain Hickey lives here in Kingston on Broadway near the City Hall. The book has many interesting photographs of "now and then." It is certainly a book worth having on the library shelf where there are growing children as local history is taught in our schools.

Captain Hickey has one chapter called "Artistic, Cultural and Minor Arts." It tells in part how the Dutch housewives learned to make "popcorn" from the Indians. The Dutch husband the while learned to make apple-jack from the many apples which abounded everywhere in this territory. He also gives an interesting bit of information on "bull's eyes" glass. "In the old houses built before the Revolution the doors between certain rooms and to the garden had glass "bull's eyes" of different colors, which gave light to inside rooms and a chance to the occupants to observe visitors without their knowledge. The glass was very crude and irregular." As I remember, there is a set of those glass "peep-holes" in the uptown book-shop on Wall street corner Main street. I often wondered if in those days they had locks and keys. According to Captain Hickey they had "enormous and cumbersome" ones.

He goes on to tell about the Dutch housewives making candles while the husbands learned to make the candlesticks. With candles of ornate designs and colors popular now it would be interesting to learn about the very old methods. I have watched candles being dipped again and again to the required thickness. Also I have seen the way they are colored and even carved. No doubt the Dutch housewives did not have time for such fancy artistic endeavors at the time, for they had to make soap too. Captain Hickey describes even a wooden meat grinder of those days and another mechanism which removed corn kernel from each individual cob.

The following is interesting about one of our well known firms which is in this chapter, telling about the first watch repair shop in this locality. "In 1784 James Styles opened a watch repair shop that today is one of the important jewelry firms in the city. Among other things Mr. Styles sold fishing tackle and items wholly outside the province of the present day jeweler. His diary, which he started in 1812, mentions the stone set in the ground in the backyard that he converted into a sun dial and used to determine time. The diary also mentions the sale of "a string of yellow beads to cure disease," possibly a string of amber beads that the superstitious wore around the neck to cure goiter. Mr. Styles made many trips to New York to purchase supplies and mentions the name of the sloop, "Martin Wynkoop," that docked at the foot of Dey street, New York. The book is full of such bits of local history.

Troopers to Get New Uniforms

Albany, Aug. 31 (AP)—New York state troopers are going to doff the tight breeches, spurs and puttees of their cavalry days for a cooler and more comfortable uniform.

Albin S. Johnson, the new superintendent of state police, announced Saturday that the force would seek and study new designs taking into consideration the suggestions of the troopers themselves.

In a memorandum to Johnson, Gov. Dewey summed up objections to the present gray wool serge outfit by saying it was "neither comfortable nor utilitarian" and "in the summer it is unsufferable."

Johnson said he did not know how long it woud take to reach a final decision on a new uniform. But he added he was sure the new outfit would be a big improvement.

State policemen have worn the familiar broad-brimmed hats, wool shirts and breeches—with only minor changes—since the force came into being as a mounted organization in 1917.

"Now there isn't a horse in the division," said Johnson, who wore the uniform for years until he became superintendent earlier this month.

Arms Smugglers Move

Singapore (AP) — The Sunday Standard, in an article, calls Hong Kong the new headquarters for arms smugglers operating in southeast Asia. The smugglers shifted there from Singapore to be nearer the markets—Vietminh forces fighting the French in Indochina and the Nationalist guerillas resisting in Yunnan provinceJthe paper said. The paper said after the war large quantities of American arms were left behind in the Philippines and in numerous islands all over the South Pacific. Hostilities in Indonesia and Burma and unrest in Thailand created a constant demand for arms, and Singapore, being nearest to these countries, acted as the smugglers' former headquarters.

More Whales Processed

The National Geographic Society says, today's international fleet of 19 whaling ships with 250 catcher boats takes more than twice the number of whales processed in the palmy days of whaling by 1,000 ships.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—There is more than one way to keep the wolf from your door.

Thousands of American families today are beating inflation by extra income earned by sideline pursuits.

Other thousands would like to do this also, but don't know how. Yet almost everyone can find a way to earn sparetime cash, if he but looks around him.

One of the best ways is to capitalize on your special interests or hobbies.

A former newspaper friend of mine, Ted O'Leary, editor of the Profitable Hobbies Magazine, published in Kansas City, Mo., has collected hundreds of examples of how hobbies can be turned into a source of profit as well as relaxation.

One of the oddest is the case of Albert F. Marsh of Mobile, Ala. Some years ago Marsh received a single male hamster in payment of a $1 debt.

He bought two female hamsters and then began breeding and selling the little animals. Within 14 months he quit his job with the State Highway Department to devote all his time to the hamsters. Within three years Marsh was grossing $4,000 a week, selling hamsters as pets and to hospitals and laboratories for experimental purposes.

Housewives Not Handicapped

Being a housewife is no handicap in the search for gold mines in hobbies. Mrs. Myrtle Helm of Minneapolis began painting plaster figurines with friends in 1946 for fun. She wasn't satisfied with the paints.

With the aid of a chemist Mrs. Helm devised a quick-drying, hard finish paint that removed the need of kiln firing the figurines. She began selling the paint and other supplies. Her husband resigned his post office job to help her. Soon their annual sales rose above $110,000.

Or take Mrs. Helen Simon of Kingston, Wash., who searched for a way to augment her farm income—and found the answer in her own kitchen.

Mrs. Simon tasted some wild huckleberry jelly made by a relative. It was delicious. The idea came to her, "Why not try to market homemade jellies with wild fruit flavors?" she did. In five years her sales jumped from $3,000 to almost $25,000 annually.

Ingenuity Is Factor

Such financial returns from hobbies as those in these three cases are, of course, unusual. But almost anyone with a little ingenuity can turn a ready dollar—as Editor O'Lear's other case histories show.

Rudy Lecompte, a Baytown, Tex., oil chemist, bought an outfit for duck hunting and found he had no money left for decoys. He saw some buoyant driftwood and wondered if good decoys might be carved from this wood, which was plentiful. He began doing so, now sells the decoys for $48 a dozen to other hunters.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cox of Orlando, Fla., specialize in making reproductions of faded photographs in old family albums. They get their orders in house to house soliciting, sometimes earn $100 a day.

Janet and E. John Royle went to Arizona to be cattle ranchers on a place near Tucson. Then they got the idea of making novelty jewelry—pins, bracelets, earrings and necklaces—from cholla, or "jumping cactus." They now have a country-wide market and virtually have forgotten cattle raising.

Age No Barrier

Age is no barrier. Mrs. George McCollum of Batavia, Ill., loved as a girl to make doll dresses. Now 81, she estimates that in the last 20 years she has made and sold about 100,000 doll garments to stores and individuals in all parts of the nation.

Each year she gives many doll outfits to orphanages, and her work has won praise from such people as Henry Ford, Helen Hayes, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Here is Mrs. McCollum's philosophy:

"If you get up in the morning knowing that someone is counting on you to accomplish something that day, then there is a real purpose and joy in living."

Investor Forum

Harry C. France

PATRICK HENRY ON STOCK PRICES

In 1775, Patrick Henry, the great orator, spoke a sentence that careful common stock buyers may well follow. He said: "I know no way of judging of the future but by the past."

Frequently, in this column, I urge stock investors to buy the equities of corporations that have had long earnings records and have paid regular, dependable dividends. Predicting the economic future is dangerous business. But basing decisions on past performances is not so hazardous.

If Patrick Henry were here today, I believe, in the light of his pronouncement, that he would agree that any common stock that has paid unfailing dividends since 1928 would be a good investment. Let us look into the implications of this statement.

What has happened in economic America during the past 25 years that our best corporations have had to weather? Well, almost everything. To wit:

1) The stock market debacle of 1929.

2) The awful deflation of the early 1930s when prices collapsed, unemployment was rife, businesses and banks failed and general economic strangulation set in.

3) World War 2, which helped to intensify the inflation that followed the deflation.

4) The Korean episode together with the other military and economic events that kept America off-balance.

Now any corporation that has stood up under these blows and has paid dividends for 25 years (1928-1953) should be able to look the years 1953 to 1978 in the face and say to its stockholders:

"'I know no way of judging of the future but by the past.'"

Yes, American corporations have been subjected to rising costs, wages and taxes for a long time. And, remembering that stockholders' dividends come last in the payment scheme of things an investor contemplating the purchase of a 25-year consecutive dividend stock may well buy it with a feeling of security.

It takes from one to five years for the average person in the United States to save $1,000. How important it is, then, that such people be unhurried when they buy securities. And how essential it is that they get something sound and seasoned.

My mail points up the truth of what I have just said. The kind of common stock a new investor should buy will have these characteristics:

1) Dependable, regular income.
2) Instant marketability.
3) Good collateral loan value at local banks.
4) Reasonable bid and ask price quotations (thus, a stock with a $10 a share bid and a $12 a share ask is a poor stock to buy and sell).

Last week, I discussed the New York Stock Exchange. The best stocks there qualify in every degree with the above mentioned requirements. DuPont, a leading chemical, is—as I write this—$100 bid, offered at $100½. Thus, one can sell 100 shares for a gross of $10,000 and buy 100 shares for $10,500 plus commission. Furthermore, any alert commercial bank loaning officer will lend (if the stock is owned outright) $7,000 or $8,000 to a borrower entitled to such credit against 100 shares.

Every year thousands of new common stock investors get hooked into unmarketable, risk-laden, uncertain-income securities. And yet they are the very people who should remember what Patrick Henry said.

Any New York Stock Exchange firm will furnish lists of common stocks that have paid stockholders for 20, 30, 40 and 50 consecutive years.

The Forum

(Q) "Do you favor the Administration's 'hard money' policies which are driving Government Bond prices down and making money more expensive?"

(A) Yes. If you had been reading this column for 15 years, you would know that for a decade and a half I have been saying here that cheap money in the face of rising costs, taxes and prices is an economic abomination. Low interest rates have cruelly hurt widows and orphans, churches and hospitals, colleges and universities. Savings and invested capital need a release from cheap money.

Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

ADIRONDACK TRAILWAYS

In Self Defense

By FRANK TRIPP

They'll be going home soon, back to school, but right now they're all here on the beach, yelling their heads off—swell accompaniment for a writer guy who has a deadline to meet.

The beach is right under my desk window; it's two thirds Jim Perry's, one third ours. The confusion is not confined to riparian rights. There are 80 miles of shoreline around Seneca Lake. This report concerns a measly 100 feet of it; home base for two dozen kids, 2 to 12.

The inventory for that 100 feet this morning is: 21 people, mostly kids; four dogs, one as big as a calf; five boats, one raft, one beach fire, assorted chairs, benches, inner tubes, life preservers, water wings, beach togs, blown up rubber fish, seals and dragons; oars, paddles, and those inevitable lethal beach items—two eight quart pails.

Now arrives another, Marnie Perry, Jim's wife. She's an optimist; brings her swimming gear. She looks for a place to sit down. Her chairs are filled with squatters and the kids have a fire where her beach mat belongs. She settles for a jump into the lake. Fifteen crazy kids follow; force her ashore. Anyway, now she gets a chair.

FUNNY HOW every time an adult wants to swim the water is full of splashing kids and their gadgets; then when you just want to sit, the water is deserted and there isn't an unoccupied foot of beach on which to relax.

Somehow you wheedle a chair, when along comes a wild Indian with a pail of water, chasing a screaming girl to douse her. He misses his mark and lets you have it; on the shirtfront if you're a full dressed male, or over a new permanent if you're a woman.

You declare some sort of futile war, which is about as senseless as Jordan declaring against Russia. Either you compromise on complete appeasement or pick up your playthings and retreat homeward.

Never does a kid retreat. The best you get is a faint and insincere, "I'm sorry." The little devil isn't sorry at all. In a few minutes he's back with another pailful.

THAT'S HAPPENING right now. Marnie got her dander up; tired of eating smoke, ordered the beach fire extinguished before it burned up a boat. Here come the pails again, emptied partly on the fire but mostly "by accident" on the assemblage, their parked shoes and clothing.

Finally Marnie gives up. She picks up her kit and by a circuitous route, climbing over heads of tots and piles of paraphernalia, she eventually reaches the house. What she said to herself, once within the walls of her domicile, deponent knoweth not; but does know what gems he would have unleashed.

Other adults miraculously sense Marnie's cue, gather up their small fry and decamp. The demons, 6 to 12, who raised all the hell, now have things to themselves.

YOU'D EXPECT that they'd forthwith throw the furniture in the lake, tear down the dock, maybe set fire to the house. Not on your life. With no one to pester, there's no attraction on the beach.

They retire to alarm you from a distance. They jump into outboards, form an armada, chase each other all over the cove, all but upset a dozen times and scare the liver out of you. The beach, from which the tots and their tenders have been driven by the Huns, becomes as quiet and deserted as Coney Island in January.

THUS THINGS remain until Jim Perry returns from a day's work, eager for a rest and a swim. In comes the fleet of marine daredevils, and from the hills like flies re-assemble their landlocked pals—to put on their beach show for Jim.

After they have driven him into the house or to mid-lake fishing to escape them, that considerable part of the rioters who are of our own tribe raid Anna and her refrigerator.

They end up by crashing our cocktail hour, demanding Coke and 7-Up; seldom failing to eat up the hors d'oeuvres like they were oyster crackers.

Next summer there's going to be a "Grownup Hour"—at least one—somewhere around sunset, when we cannot see, hear, smell or sense, a kid, a dog or an outboard:

Or, by golly, I won't be here!

PATRICK HENRY ON STOCK PRICES

In 1775, Patrick Henry, the great orator, spoke a sentence that careful common stock buyers may well follow. He said: "I know no way of judging of the future but by the past."

Frequently, in this column, I urge stock investors to buy the equities of corporations that have had long earnings records and have paid regular, dependable dividends. Predicting the economic future is dangerous business. But basing decisions on past performances is not so hazardous.

If Patrick Henry were here today, I believe, in the light of his pronouncement, that he would agree that any common stock that has paid unfailing dividends since 1928 would be a good investment. Let us look into the implications of this statement.

What has happened in economic America during the past 25 years that our best corporations have had to weather? Well, almost everything. To wit:

1) The stock market debacle of 1929.

2) The awful deflation of the early 1930s when prices collapsed, unemployment was rife, businesses and banks failed and general economic strangulation set in.

3) World War 2, which helped to intensify the inflation that followed the deflation.

4) The Korean episode together with the other military and economic events that kept America off-balance.

Now any corporation that has stood up under these blows and has paid dividends for 25 years (1928-1953) should be able to look the years 1953 to 1978 in the face and say to its stockholders:

"'I know no way of judging of the future but by the past.'"

Yes, American corporations have been subjected to rising costs, wages and taxes for a long time. And, remembering that stockholders' dividends come last in the payment scheme of things an investor contemplating the purchase of a 25-year consecutive dividend stock may well buy it with a feeling of security.

It takes from one to five years for the average person in the United States to save $1,000. How important it is, then, that such people be unhurried when they buy securities. And how essential it is that they get something sound and seasoned.

My mail points up the truth of what I have just said. The kind of common stock a new investor should buy will have these characteristics:

1) Dependable, regular income.
2) Instant marketability.
3) Good collateral loan value at local banks.
4) Reasonable bid and ask price quotations (thus, a stock with a $10 a share bid and a $12 a share ask is a poor stock to buy and sell).

Last week, I discussed the New York Stock Exchange. The best stocks there qualify in every degree with the above mentioned requirements. DuPont, a leading chemical, is—as I write this—$100 bid, offered at $100½. Thus, one can sell 100 shares for a gross of $10,000 and buy 100 shares for $10,500 plus commission. Furthermore, any alert commercial bank loaning officer will lend (if the stock is owned outright) $7,000 or $8,000 to a borrower entitled to such credit against 100 shares.

Every year thousands of new common stock investors get hooked into unmarketable, risk-laden, uncertain-income securities. And yet they are the very people who should remember what Patrick Henry said.

Any New York Stock Exchange firm will furnish lists of common stocks that have paid stockholders for 20, 30, 40 and 50 consecutive years.

The Forum

(Q) "Do you favor the Administration's 'hard money' policies which are driving Government Bond prices down and making money more expensive?"

(A) Yes. If you had been reading this column for 15 years, you would know that for a decade and a half I have been saying here that cheap money in the face of rising costs, taxes and prices is an economic abomination. Low interest rates have cruelly hurt widows and orphans, churches and hospitals, colleges and universities. Savings and invested capital need a release from cheap money.

Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

Jacoby on Canasta

Initial Meld Rule Is Basic

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please settle a dispute on the correct way to take a frozen discard pile for the first meld," requests an Oregon correspondent. "One member of our group says that the side that melds must make the initial meld in addition to two cards like the upcard in order to take the discard pile. Another player says the upcard should be used to help you take the discard pile for your initial meld.

"Let me make this difference of opinion clear by example. The discard pile is frozen and it is your turn to play with a king on top of the discard pile. You need 90 points for the inital meld.

One contention is that you need your full 90 pints outside of a meld of three kings. The other contention is that you may put down two king and count the king that is at the top of the discard pile as part of your minimum count. Who isright?"

The rule for making the initial meld when the pack is frozen is just about the same as when the pack is not frozen. Let's take an example to clear up the whole situation. Let's suppse that you need 90 points for theinitial meld. The discard pile is frozen, and the player at your righ discards a king.

To begin with youcannot take the discard pile unlss you put down two natural kigs. So you begin by putting twokings down on the table, and you make a mental note that you can count the king that is on the top of the discard pile. Up to this moment you have 30 points for those three kings.

Now you need at least 60 points additional in meld before you can even put your fingers on that discard pile. For example, you might put down three aces. The three aces and two kings that you put down from your hand total only 80 points, but the king that is on the top of the discard pile is also counted and thus makes a total of 90 points.

This is only the minimum. You are allowed to meld more if you wish to do so. For example, you might put down an additional meld. It would likewise be correct to put down a joker and two aces, counting 90 points, and at the same time put down two kings in order to take the discard pile. The required count for the initial meld is only a minimum—you are always allowed to put down more than the minimum.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Man Is Identified

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 31 (AP)—Allan King, 30, of Port Chester, N. Y., died Saturday when his truck crashed into a steel bridge over Big Walnut creek in Columbus. Police originally identified him as Earl Lowe, 30, of Stratford, Conn., from papers on his body. Positive identification was made yesterday by means of a tattoo. The bridge will be closed two or three days because of damage inflicted by King's 11,000 pound truck, state engineers said.

The School That 'Sees' for Blind Pupils

Exterior view of the State Blind School, which will have "built-in" features to help children feel and hear about the outside world.

Floors have raised tile pictures and alphabet that can be felt.

After 20 years of planning, the Ohio Blind School in Columbus, Ohio, will open its doors for 200 students on Sept. 14. The driving force behind the $2.5 million school is Dr. W. C. Scarberry, who wanted a school which by its built-in features would penetrate the dark world for the blind students. Among the many outstanding features is the music school which will have about 42 pianos. Because music is often a blind person's outlet—and his livelihood—no expense was spared to make the music school one of the finest. The school lobby will be an ever-changing museum so the children can feel model animals and small vehicles which can tell them the transportation story. A soundproof library will have many stalls of "talking books." Children tired of reading with their fingers can retire with a recording to a stall to be "read to." Plans are under way to build a recreation building for the school.

Because they use them to "see," children's hands get very dirty. Washstands in every room will remedy the situation.

As Pegler Sees It

did a swell job in the first World War. What was the name of that thing - -?"

"The War Industries Board?"

"That's it. He did a swell job."

"What did he do?"

"He did a swell job. I wouldn't say an unkind word against Bernie Baruch even if I did know something to be unkind about. He is a clean-cut man of great ability and the advice he has been giving to Congress and others is sound and constructive thinking about where we are going."

I said: "I haven't read anything he has been saying that I didn't write years ago. America first. Cut down extravagance. This is a great country. He ran with Roosevelt all those years and I never heard him come out against Roosevelt's course into ruin."

Just the same, Ned thought BMB's counsel was statesmanlike.

Returning to their boyhood, he said Bernie was a swell boxer, very tall with a good jab. Ned lived at 10 East 47th street, next door to the Windsor Hotel. From a block away he saw the hotel burn down with great loss of life.

Ferd Pecora's mother was a sweatshop worker and the memory of their misery, nine in a large cellar room with a toilet under a sidewalk grating where trash blew down from the street, is a factor in his admiration for Dave Dubinsky of the garment workers' union. In rainy weather water rose on the floor and leaked through the walls. One night his mother crept to the bed where he and his older brother were sleeping, kissed them, covered them, and begged them not to go swimming next day in the bulkhead in the Hudson where often they did. His brother broke his promise when some other kids tempted him, and was brought home dead. Mrs. Pecora then said she had dreamed that one of them had drowned.

Ferd got a scholarship in St. Stephen's College, a prep for the Episcopal ministry, but had to go to work at 14 when his father, a cobbler, was hurt and disabled. Ferd followed him into the factory. St. Stephen's later became Bard College, which last year gave honorary degrees to Dubinsky and Mrs. Roosevelt. Ferd's father had thrown in with the Garibaldi movement in Sicily and became an Episcopalian. Ferd got his religion from him.

Hutton is a Republican and has spent, according to his own figure, $1,000,000 of his own, nondeductible money on newspaper advertisements trying to preserve the constitution against New Deal ideology.

He said: "I have always said money doesn't care who has it. It is what you do with it that matters. The Constitution of the United States is my only client and its preservation is the only thing I ask.

"Don't knock Bernie Baruch. He is a swell, clean guy."

Jacoby on Canasta

Initial Meld Rule Is Basic

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Please settle a dispute on the correct way to take a frozen discard pile for the first meld," requests an Oregon correspondent. "One member of our group says that the side that melds must make the initial meld in addition to two cards like the upcard in order to take the discard pile. Another player says the upcard should be used to help you take the discard pile for your initial meld.

"Let me make this difference of opinion clear by example. The discard pile is frozen and it is your turn to play with a king on top of the discard pile. You need 90 points for the inital meld.

One contention is that you need your full 90 pints outside of a meld of three kings. The other contention is that you may put down two king and count the king that is at the top of the discard pile as part of your minimum count. Who isright?"

The rule for making the initial meld when the pack is frozen is just about the same as when the pack is not frozen. Let's take an example to clear up the whole situation. Let's suppse that you need 90 points for theinitial meld. The discard pile is frozen, and the player at your righ discards a king.

To begin with youcannot take the discard pile unlss you put down two natural kigs. So you begin by putting twokings down on the table, and you make a mental note that you can count the king that is on the top of the discard pile. Up to this moment you have 30 points for those three kings.

Now you need at least 60 points additional in meld before you can even put your fingers on that discard pile. For example, you might put down three aces. The three aces and two kings that you put down from your hand total only 80 points, but the king that is on the top of the discard pile is also counted and thus makes a total of 90 points.

This is only the minimum. You are allowed to meld more if you wish to do so. For example, you might put down an additional meld. It would likewise be correct to put down a joker and two aces, counting 90 points, and at the same time put down two kings in order to take the discard pile. The required count for the initial meld is only a minimum—you are always allowed to put down more than the minimum.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 31 (AP)—Allan King, 30, of Port Chester, N. Y., died Saturday when his truck crashed into a steel bridge over Big Walnut creek in Columbus. Police originally identified him as Earl Lowe, 30, of Stratford, Conn., from papers on his body. Positive identification was made yesterday by means of a tattoo. The bridge will be closed two or three days because of damage inflicted by King's 11,000 pound truck, state engineers said.

The School That 'Sees' for Blind Pupils

Exterior view of the State Blind School, which will have "built-in" features to help children feel and hear about the outside world.

Floors have raised tile pictures and alphabet that can be felt.

After 20 years of planning, the Ohio Blind School in Columbus, Ohio, will open its doors for 200 students on Sept. 14. The driving force behind the $2.5 million school is Dr. W. C. Scarberry, who wanted a school which by its built-in features would penetrate the dark world for the blind students. Among the many outstanding features is the music school which will have about 42 pianos. Because music is often a blind person's outlet—and his livelihood—no expense was spared to make the music school one of the finest. The school lobby will be an ever-changing museum so the children can feel model animals and small vehicles which can tell them the transportation story. A soundproof library will have many stalls of "talking books." Children tired of reading with their fingers can retire with a recording to a stall to be "read to." Plans are under way to build a recreation building for the school.

Because they use them to "see," children's hands get very dirty. Washstands in every room will remedy the situation.

As Pegler Sees It

did a swell job in the first World War. What was the name of that thing - -?"

"The War Industries Board?"

"That's it. He did a swell job."

"What did he do?"

"He did a swell job. I wouldn't say an unkind word against Bernie Baruch even if I did know something to be unkind about. He is a clean-cut man of great ability and the advice he has been giving to Congress and others is sound and constructive thinking about where we are going."

I said: "I haven't read anything he has been saying that I didn't write years ago. America first. Cut down extravagance. This is a great country. He ran with Roosevelt all those years and I never heard him come out against Roosevelt's course into ruin."

Just the same, Ned thought BMB's counsel was statesmanlike.

Returning to their boyhood, he said Bernie was a swell boxer, very tall with a good jab. Ned lived at 10 East 47th street, next door to the Windsor Hotel. From a block away he saw the hotel burn down with great loss of life.

Ferd Pecora's mother was a sweatshop worker and the memory of their misery, nine in a large cellar room with a toilet under a sidewalk grating where trash blew down from the street, is a factor in his admiration for Dave Dubinsky of the garment workers' union. In rainy weather water rose on the floor and leaked through the walls. One night his mother crept to the bed where he and his older brother were sleeping, kissed them, covered them, and begged them not to go swimming next day in the bulkhead in the Hudson where often they did. His brother broke his promise when some other kids tempted him, and was brought home dead. Mrs. Pecora then said she had dreamed that one of them had drowned.

Ferd got a scholarship in St. Stephen's College, a prep for the Episcopal ministry, but had to go to work at 14 when his father, a cobbler, was hurt and disabled. Ferd followed him into the factory. St. Stephen's later became Bard College, which last year gave honorary degrees to Dubinsky and Mrs. Roosevelt. Ferd's father had thrown in with the Garibaldi movement in Sicily and became an Episcopalian. Ferd got his religion from him.

Hutton is a Republican and has spent, according to his own figure, $1,000,000 of his own, nondeductible money on newspaper advertisements trying to preserve the constitution against New Deal ideology.

He said: "I have always said money doesn't care who has it. It is what you do with it that matters. The Constitution of the United States is my only client and its preservation is the only thing I ask.

"Don't knock Bernie Baruch. He is a swell, clean guy."

Man Wanted in Labor Leader's Death Sought in Valley Area

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—Police and sheriff's deputies searched a wide area 75 miles north of New York today for a hitch-hiker reported to resemble an ex-convict sought as an alleged accomplice in the murder of a labor leader here.

The man sought is William Howell, 35, of Ridgefield, N. J.

New York police alerted police in 13 eastern states yesterday to be on the lookout for Howell, wanted in connection with the shooting of Thomas F. Lewis in the Bronx Friday.

Two persons reported to police at Poughkeepsie last night that a hitch-hiker in that vicinity resembled pictures of Howell.

Although police and deputies continued on the alert, Dutchess county Sheriff C. Fred Close said today "I'm not satisfied that the hitchhiker was Howell."

"Why should he be up here hitch-hiking?" Close commented. "He comes from down in New Jersey."

Reported in Poughkeepsie

Norman Dennis, of Poughkeepsie, told Poughkeepsie police that he had picked up a hitch-hiker on highway Route 55 at Freedom Plains, eight miles east of Poughkeepsie, and driven him to the Hudson river city. Police relayed the information to police here.

Dennis told Poughkeepsie police he did not recognize the hitchhiker at the time he gave him a lift late yesterday. He reported to police after he saw a picture of Howell on television, and a few minutes later saw a picture of him on the front page of a New York newspaper (Daily News).

The other report came from a gasoline station employe at Arlington, which is in the town of Poughkeepsie east of the city. He said a hitch-hiker he saw standing on a street corner at 6 p. m. (EST) last night resembled pictures of Howell.

Poughkeepsie city and town police and Dutchess county sheriff's deputies in radio cars were ordered to search for the suspect.

Cited as Car Driver

The New York city police alarm for Howell described him as wanted for parole violation and in connection with a homicide. Dep. Inspector Martin Donlon said Howell was believed to have been driving a car seen in the vicinity of the Lewis murder. The car was registered in the name of Howell's wife and was found Saturday near the Manhattan home of her parents, police said.

Police said the driver of the car apparently was waiting to pick up the slayer, Edward (Snakes) Ryan, 45, who was shot to death by a policeman just after the slaying of Lewis. The driver sped away during the gunplay.

Lewis, 35, president of Local 32-E of the AFL Building Service Employes International Union, was killed by five bullets from Ryan's gun outside Lewis' Bronx apartment.

A witness jotted down the license number of a car which had been cruising slowly beside Ryan as he fled from the murder scene. The car disappeared as Ryan—described as a hired killer—and Patrolman Vincent Langan shot it out. The policeman was not hit.

Sing Sing Parolee

Howell formerly was employed as a pari-mutuel clerk at the Yonkers Raceway at Yonkers. He was released on parole from Sing Sing prison in September, 1949, while serving a 5-to-10 year term for a robbery in Manhattan.

Police said Howell is a longtime friend of Lawrence (Lar) Lynch, 45, of Hopewell Junction, Dutchess county, who was held the day after the shooting on a parole violation charge. Police officials said Lynch has been uncooperative in questioning about the Lewis murder, and his arrest followed.

Lynch lost a $2,000-a-month job as a "trouble-shooter" for the Yonkers Raceway—reportedly because of Lewis. Authorities said Lewis, whose union local represented Raceway employes, obtained Lynch's removal from the "trouble-shooter" job because Lynch's brother, James, was an official of Lewis' union and Lewis feared charges of a union-management tieup.

Two Were Acquainted

Donlon said "Howell and Lynch have been acquainted for a long time. Perhaps it was from the waterfront. They definitely knew each other from the trotting track."

Donlon also said yesterday that Lynch had been "doing well at the racetrack and with labor activities" after parole from prison for a night club stickup.

Police said Howell, who used John Makley and John Hanley as aliases, has a criminal record dating back to 1937.

Contract Awarded For Bridge Piers

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—The award of a $2,470,724 contract to Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corp. for construction of 23 piers for the thruway bridge across the Hudson river between Nyack and Tarrytown, N. Y., was announced Saturday.

B. D. Tallamy, chairman of the New York State Thruway, said the firm was the low bidder.

Merritt-Chapman & Scott already is building foundations for the 23 piers under previous low bid contracts totalling $14,345,369.

Local Man Builds

about two months—a "spare-time job."

Townsend said he had a general plan when he commenced the jeep but made several changes before its completion. For instance, he altered the transmission from two speeds forward and a reverse to three speeds forward and a reverse.

Can Make 15 MPH

The car "just crawls in low" but will make from 12 to 15 miles per hour in high. It is powered by a two-horse-power, four-cycle Clinton air-cooled engine. Its fuel tank inside the hood, will hold two quarts.

The hood and front fenders are of sheet metal recovered from a wrecked car and the grill and body are of wood. The seats are foam rubber. The steering wheel is made from the wheel of a tricycle from which Townsend cut the spokes, replacing them with metal bars.

The vehicle has a recoil starter and chain drive and is brought to a stop by braking or by "shorting" the spark plug, a technique which stops the motor.

This is the first jeep Townsend has made from scratch but he completed another one some time ago using a Crossley chassis. This jeep is now in the possession of John Gross, eight, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Gross. Gross is president and treasurer of Kingston Buick Company, Inc.

Flint Finishes

homes were the modest ones of factory workers.

Where there had been 4,500 Saturday, 5,000 showed up Sunday.

The project began with a short prayer service Saturday morning. By Sunday night, many families were moving back into their homes, and workers and victims were joining in a gay street dance. A 10-piece band came to do its bit, too.

Moving furniture into his completed seven-room home, Allen Crosby wondered "how to thank all these wonderful strangers."

But perhaps Cecil Schaif put into words the feelings of all as he finished building a storm cellar into his reconstructed home:

"I hope that's the most useless thing I ever built."

Insurance Rates

couples under 25, and young drivers with no family control.

For the first group of youths there will be a 4 per cent reduction; but for the third group, considered the worst risks, there will be a sharp increase. In the New York area, they will pay $310 for the same insurance adults can buy for $123.

The announcement indicated base rates generally will be unchanged, with slight rises in only a few western and midwestern states.

Farmers, who now get a 15 per cent discount, will get, under the new plan, a 20 per cent discount below the rate applying to their classification.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

That Man Is Here Again

A few years back I was introduced to General Eisenhower at a private party at Sherry's, and in the course of a brief chat he not only told me that he read my column regularly, but proceeded to prove it by rattling off the plots of a couple of short stories I had written.

"That man ought to be President," I said as I dug into my grapefruit.

When Stevenson was nominated, I waited for him to declare himself. He never did, and so when I stepped into the voting booth last November I automatically reached for the lever marked "Eisenhower." After all, how could I vote for Adlai without knowing something about his reading habits...?

All of which is by way of saying hail and hello out there again. This is the first column I have written since December, 1950, when for reasons of health I reluctantly said bye-bye to my byline. A couple of months ago, feeling fine again, I decided to go back to the typewriter, but the state of my health wasn't the deciding factor. Actually, it was because a mildewed Moor in North Africa asked me a peculiar question.

It happened this way. In January, while vacationing in Marrakech, I caught a performance of a ballet company whose dancers might have been better employed building a dam. I ducked out in the middle of act two and, while I was waiting for my hat, a smallish Arab in a red fez sidled up and said, "Mind if I ask you a question?"

"Thanks," I said, "but I've already got a hot watch."

"I figured as much," said the Arab. "What I really wanted to know, how's your Uncle Charlie?"

It was ten seconds before I realized he was talking about Charlie, an uncle of mine on the East Side whose didoes I used to chronicle in my column.

"How come you know about my Uncle Charlie?" I said.

"I read your pieces about him in the Paris Herald," said the Arab. "They sell the paper here in Marrakech."

As I ambled back to my hotel, I felt as if I were walking on stilts. "Five thousand miles from Times Square," I kept telling myself, "someone remembers a column you wrote years ago."

When I got back to New York, I faced up to my portable and pecked out 26 other reasons for writing "Pitching Horseshoes" again. Collectors of curiosa might be interested in the last six. . . .

(u) My old enemies are beginning to bore me. A columnist—no matter how well intentioned—is a cinch to acquire a new set of enemies.

(v) Every now and occasionally, I yen to praise something or somebody. With a by-line, I can sound off from Sixth avenue to Singapore; without one, I'm limited to a table at Lindy's and four or five insomniacs who talk back.

(w) Thinking back, the happiest days of my rag-tag life were the busy ones. In recent years, I have learned that loafing in large quantities is strictly for oysters. So, in addition to three columns a week, I am to produce a couple of shows this fall, and fill in my spare time by learning something constructive, like Sanskrit.

(x) All Broadway wisenheimers are convinced that their opinions are immortal and ought to be carved on the side of a pyramid. In that respect I'm no different—except, of course, that I'm right.

(y) Here of late I've been waking up and saying to myself, "What's Walter Lippman got that I haven't got?" and I haven't been able to come up with an answer. It's not an easy thing to live with.

(z) In short, like the retired pickpocket, I just can't help keeping my hand in.

"Pitching Horseshoes" will pretty much follow its old pattern—pink lemonade and a pinch of pontification. I'll be keeping a weather eye on show business and a weather ear open for yarns which may provide the reader with a chuckle or three.

To sum up, the papers these days are a-busting with news which indicates that the cream of human kindness is turning sour. Into this mess of sour cream, perhaps I can drop an occasional strawberry. I can think of no better chore for myself.

non-commissioned officers, mostly Americans, are awaiting return at Kaesong.

Other repatriates reported that many of the allied prisoners awaiting repatriation were soldiers who had been sentenced to jail terms for alleged offenses while in captivity. The Reds promised Saturday to return all UN POWs who want to go home including any convicted on Red charges.

One American said that 80 to 105 "die-hard reactionary" prisoners who had been handed jail terms were held in a special heavily guarded tent city south of Kaesong.

Jewish Group Is Expelled Because Of Red Leanings

Port Jervis, Aug. 31 (AP)—The Jewish Young Fraternalists group has been expelled from the National Jewish Youth Conference on the ground of Communist domination.

The head of the Fraternalists, William Schneyer of New York, said there that a conference statement announcing the expulsion was "slanderous." He denied his group is Communist dominated, and said a full rebuttal would be issued to the conference which is meeting near here.

The conference, which approved a report of a board of inquiry, said in a statement yesterday that the Fraternalists' "sole goal is to advance the political position of the Soviet Union and communism."

The statement also declared:

"The purpose, program and philosophy of the YUF is not geared toward attaining basic Jewish objectives . . . communism and Judaism are irreconcilable."

Has 1,500 Members

A conference spokesman said the decision to expel the JYF, which claims 1,500 members, was reached after a six-month probe by the board of inquiry.

Members of the inquiry board were Norman Schiff, of Newark, N. J., chairman; Barbara Kauder, of Somerville, N. J., and M. David Weiss, Ray Kosakoff and Gloria Rubin, all of New York.

Delegates from the United States, Canada, France, Denmark, Sweden and Morocco are attending the conference. Sessions will continue through Wednesday. The conference is sponsored by the Jewish Welfare Board.

Water Pressure Is

Pressures began to return to normal in the greater part of the city by about 3 p. m., he said.

Cloonan said the city's higher areas would probably be back to normal sometime tonight or tomorrow morning.

The power shovel, owned by the Davis Brothers of Hurley, was engaged in digging an irrigation ditch when it struck the cast iron pipe, one of three which brings the city's water from the filter plant at Zena.

According to Acting Mayor Joseph Kelly, one of the first to reach the scene, the water from the break was shooting 50 feet into the air "like a geyser."

A crew of approximately 10 workmen, under the direction of Fred Ahrens, maintenance foreman, shut off valves on each side of the break with an electric power wrench.

Fracture Is Complete

When the water was stopped work began immediately to remove the 12-foot section of pipe which, Cloonan said, had a "complete fracture." Preliminary work was completed by 11:30 p. m. Saturday and the new section of pipe was in place at 10:30 a. m. Sunday.

Cloonan explained that the city was "feeding" on two lines around the break until the new section was ready. Three mains, two of them 20-inch and one 18-inch, bring water into Kingston.

Acting Mayor Kelly said the shovel operator had been deepening a streambed on the farm, operated by A. H. Chambers, when the accident occurred. The pipe runs about six feet below the ground but at the stream it was rather close to the surface, Kelly said.

Kelly paid tribute to Officers Charles Hoehing and Carl Janasciewicz who were on duty at police headquarters, and to Edward Geschwinder at the Board of Public Works barn, who were on duty when calls began pouring in from all over the city. He called Superintendent Ernest A. Steuding of the Board of Public Works who dispatched city equipment to the scene as required. Included in the equipment were a power winch and four centrifugal pumps. Larry Hyatt drove the winch truck to the scene, Kelly said.

Marked by Stakes

Cloonan told The Freeman that the three mains cross the Chambers property on easement and that the pipes are marked by five-foot iron stakes in the immediate vicinity.

He said the water department was "very appreciative" for help received from consumers since the sprinkling ban had gone into effect and their cooperation in the emergency Saturday. He also expressed appreciation to the board of health for its cooperation.

Benjamin Schecter, president of the board of water commissioners, and Howard S. Pangburn and Paul J. Schatzel, members of the board, also visited the scene.

Kelly said today it was "unfortunate that the break occurred to inconvenience residents who had no water, but it showed that there is cooperation between the various city departments and loyalty on the part of employes working under the efficient direction of departmental heads."

ELLENVILLE NEWS

Ellenville Library Has 60th Anniversary

Ellenville, Aug. 31—Sixty years ago this month the Ellenville Public Library first opened its doors to the public. It was August 1, 1893, that the library opened, located in the section of the First National Bank and Trust Company building where Sanderson's barbershop is now. Michael Hogan was the first librarian. He was followed by Miss Reta Russell, who continued in that capacity until 1905 when Miss Nellie Burhans was appointed.

In the interim the library was moved to 179 Canal street, opposite the present Humiston Funeral Home. Miss Evelyn Bailey became librarian in 1907 followed two years later by Mrs. O. B. Seaman. In 1911 Mrs. B. B. Demarest was appointed to that position, which she occupied until 1930. She was succeeded by Mrs. Florence Taylor, who resigned in 1950. Mrs. Dorothy H. Danderson is the present librarian, with Mrs. Dorothy V. Ellerthorpe in charge of the children's room.

In 1912 the library was moved to the second floor of the Ellenville Savings Bank Building where it occupied the rooms in which Attorney Charles F. Kaiser, Jr., now has his offices. In 1928 the Library moved to its recent location in the Hunt Memorial Building, a section of which was presented to the library by the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

When the Ellenville Public Library was organized, June 21, 1893, trustees were James W. Donaldson, Frank B. Hoornbeek, William W. Lambert, Octavius Applegate, Jr., and Francis A. Woodward. Present members of the board are H. Westlake Coons, Benjamin H. Terwilliger, C. C. Stauffer, E. Boyce Ter Bush, Jr., and Leland P. Pulling.

Charter members must be between 20 and 35 years of age, junior members under 20 and associate members over 35 years of age.

Sol Steinhoff of this village was fined $5 Tuesday by Magistrate Louis Berger on charges of speeding, preferred last week by Ellenville state police.

Mrs. Mabel Terry of Ellenvillle spent Thursday with Mrs. Emily V. Burton of Napanoch.

Robert Ripley's personal collection of "Believe It or Not" oddities, being exhibited on a national tour, will be on display here in a custom-built trailer Thursday and Friday, Sept. 3 and 4 by the Navy Club. It will mark the fourth annual display here and will be entirely different from the three previous shows. The exhibit will be at Liberty Square and will be open to the pulic from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Voluntary donations will go to the Welfare and Rehabilitation program of the Navy Club.

Man Wanted in Labor Leader's Death Sought in Valley Area

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—Police and sheriff's deputies searched a wide area 75 miles north of New York today for a hitch-hiker reported to resemble an ex-convict sought as an alleged accomplice in the murder of a labor leader here.

The man sought is William Howell, 35, of Ridgefield, N. J.

New York police alerted police in 13 eastern states yesterday to be on the lookout for Howell, wanted in connection with the shooting of Thomas F. Lewis in the Bronx Friday.

Two persons reported to police at Poughkeepsie last night that a hitch-hiker in that vicinity resembled pictures of Howell.

Although police and deputies continued on the alert, Dutchess county Sheriff C. Fred Close said today "I'm not satisfied that the hitchhiker was Howell."

"Why should he be up here hitch-hiking?" Close commented. "He comes from down in New Jersey."

Reported in Poughkeepsie

Norman Dennis, of Poughkeepsie, told Poughkeepsie police that he had picked up a hitch-hiker on highway Route 55 at Freedom Plains, eight miles east of Poughkeepsie, and driven him to the Hudson river city. Police relayed the information to police here.

Dennis told Poughkeepsie police he did not recognize the hitchhiker at the time he gave him a lift late yesterday. He reported to police after he saw a picture of Howell on television, and a few minutes later saw a picture of him on the front page of a New York newspaper (Daily News).

The other report came from a gasoline station employe at Arlington, which is in the town of Poughkeepsie east of the city. He said a hitch-hiker he saw standing on a street corner at 6 p. m. (EST) last night resembled pictures of Howell.

Poughkeepsie city and town police and Dutchess county sheriff's deputies in radio cars were ordered to search for the suspect.

Cited as Car Driver

The New York city police alarm for Howell described him as wanted for parole violation and in connection with a homicide. Dep. Inspector Martin Donlon said Howell was believed to have been driving a car seen in the vicinity of the Lewis murder. The car was registered in the name of Howell's wife and was found Saturday near the Manhattan home of her parents, police said.

Police said the driver of the car apparently was waiting to pick up the slayer, Edward (Snakes) Ryan, 45, who was shot to death by a policeman just after the slaying of Lewis. The driver sped away during the gunplay.

Lewis, 35, president of Local 32-E of the AFL Building Service Employes International Union, was killed by five bullets from Ryan's gun outside Lewis' Bronx apartment.

A witness jotted down the license number of a car which had been cruising slowly beside Ryan as he fled from the murder scene. The car disappeared as Ryan—described as a hired killer—and Patrolman Vincent Langan shot it out. The policeman was not hit.

Sing Sing Parolee

Howell formerly was employed as a pari-mutuel clerk at the Yonkers Raceway at Yonkers. He was released on parole from Sing Sing prison in September, 1949, while serving a 5-to-10 year term for a robbery in Manhattan.

Police said Howell is a longtime friend of Lawrence (Lar) Lynch, 45, of Hopewell Junction, Dutchess county, who was held the day after the shooting on a parole violation charge. Police officials said Lynch has been uncooperative in questioning about the Lewis murder, and his arrest followed.

Lynch lost a $2,000-a-month job as a "trouble-shooter" for the Yonkers Raceway—reportedly because of Lewis. Authorities said Lewis, whose union local represented Raceway employes, obtained Lynch's removal from the "trouble-shooter" job because Lynch's brother, James, was an official of Lewis' union and Lewis feared charges of a union-management tieup.

Two Were Acquainted

Donlon said "Howell and Lynch have been acquainted for a long time. Perhaps it was from the waterfront. They definitely knew each other from the trotting track."

Donlon also said yesterday that Lynch had been "doing well at the racetrack and with labor activities" after parole from prison for a night club stickup.

Police said Howell, who used John Makley and John Hanley as aliases, has a criminal record dating back to 1937.

Contract Awarded For Bridge Piers

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—The award of a $2,470,724 contract to Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corp. for construction of 23 piers for the thruway bridge across the Hudson river between Nyack and Tarrytown, N. Y., was announced Saturday.

B. D. Tallamy, chairman of the New York State Thruway, said the firm was the low bidder.

Merritt-Chapman & Scott already is building foundations for the 23 piers under previous low bid contracts totalling $14,345,369.

Local Man Builds

about two months—a "spare-time job."

Townsend said he had a general plan when he commenced the jeep but made several changes before its completion. For instance, he altered the transmission from two speeds forward and a reverse to three speeds forward and a reverse.

Can Make 15 MPH

The car "just crawls in low" but will make from 12 to 15 miles per hour in high. It is powered by a two-horse-power, four-cycle Clinton air-cooled engine. Its fuel tank inside the hood, will hold two quarts.

The hood and front fenders are of sheet metal recovered from a wrecked car and the grill and body are of wood. The seats are foam rubber. The steering wheel is made from the wheel of a tricycle from which Townsend cut the spokes, replacing them with metal bars.

The vehicle has a recoil starter and chain drive and is brought to a stop by braking or by "shorting" the spark plug, a technique which stops the motor.

This is the first jeep Townsend has made from scratch but he completed another one some time ago using a Crossley chassis. This jeep is now in the possession of John Gross, eight, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Gross. Gross is president and treasurer of Kingston Buick Company, Inc.

homes were the modest ones of factory workers.

Where there had been 4,500 Saturday, 5,000 showed up Sunday.

The project began with a short prayer service Saturday morning. By Sunday night, many families were moving back into their homes, and workers and victims were joining in a gay street dance. A 10-piece band came to do its bit, too.

Moving furniture into his completed seven-room home, Allen Crosby wondered "how to thank all these wonderful strangers."

But perhaps Cecil Schaif put into words the feelings of all as he finished building a storm cellar into his reconstructed home:

"I hope that's the most useless thing I ever built."

couples under 25, and young drivers with no family control.

For the first group of youths there will be a 4 per cent reduction; but for the third group, considered the worst risks, there will be a sharp increase. In the New York area, they will pay $310 for the same insurance adults can buy for $123.

The announcement indicated base rates generally will be unchanged, with slight rises in only a few western and midwestern states.

Farmers, who now get a 15 per cent discount, will get, under the new plan, a 20 per cent discount below the rate applying to their classification.

He called Superintendent Ernest A. Steuding of the Board of Public Works who dispatched city equipment to the scene as required. Included in the equipment were a power winch and four centrifugal pumps. Larry Hyatt drove the winch truck to the scene, Kelly said.

Marked by Stakes

Cloonan told The Freeman that the three mains cross the Chambers property on easement and that the pipes are marked by five-foot iron stakes in the immediate vicinity.

He said the water department was "very appreciative" for help received from consumers since the sprinkling ban had gone into effect and their cooperation in the emergency Saturday. He also expressed appreciation to the board of health for its cooperation.

Benjamin Schecter, president of the board of water commissioners, and Howard S. Pangburn and Paul J. Schatzel, members of the board, also visited the scene.

Kelly said today it was "unfortunate that the break occurred to inconvenience residents who had no water, but it showed that there is cooperation between the various city departments and loyalty on the part of employes working under the efficient direction of departmental heads."

ELLENVILLE NEWS

Ellenville Library Has 60th Anniversary

Ellenville, Aug. 31—Sixty years ago this month the Ellenville Public Library first opened its doors to the public. It was August 1, 1893, that the library opened, located in the section of the First National Bank and Trust Company building where Sanderson's barbershop is now. Michael Hogan was the first librarian. He was followed by Miss Reta Russell, who continued in that capacity until 1905 when Miss Nellie Burhans was appointed.

In the interim the library was moved to 179 Canal street, opposite the present Humiston Funeral Home. Miss Evelyn Bailey became librarian in 1907 followed two years later by Mrs. O. B. Seaman. In 1911 Mrs. B. B. Demarest was appointed to that position, which she occupied until 1930. She was succeeded by Mrs. Florence Taylor, who resigned in 1950. Mrs. Dorothy H. Danderson is the present librarian, with Mrs. Dorothy V. Ellerthorpe in charge of the children's room.

In 1912 the library was moved to the second floor of the Ellenville Savings Bank Building where it occupied the rooms in which Attorney Charles F. Kaiser, Jr., now has his offices. In 1928 the Library moved to its recent location in the Hunt Memorial Building, a section of which was presented to the library by the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

When the Ellenville Public Library was organized, June 21, 1893, trustees were James W. Donaldson, Frank B. Hoornbeek, William W. Lambert, Octavius Applegate, Jr., and Francis A. Woodward. Present members of the board are H. Westlake Coons, Benjamin H. Terwilliger, C. C. Stauffer, E. Boyce Ter Bush, Jr., and Leland P. Pulling.

Town Notes

Ellenville, Aug. 31—Plans to form an organization to be known as Young Voters' League were announced this week by Clarice J. Case, chairman, and Willabelle Robbins, secretary. It is to be a politically impartial organization of young citizens who are interested in good government and who are eager to achieve it within their own community. Its functions will be to attend all village, town board and taxpayers' meetings; to discuss the proposals currently at issue; to discover and attempt to remedy any situations which they feel should be bettered; to try to gain and to impart to others a clearer understanding of our own civil affairs. Charter members must be between 20 and 35 years of age, junior members under 20 and associate members over 35 years of age.

Sol Steinhoff of this village was fined $5 Tuesday by Magistrate Louis Berger on charges of speeding, preferred last week by Ellenville state police.

Mrs. Mabel Terry of Ellenvillle spent Thursday with Mrs. Emily V. Burton of Napanoch.

Robert Ripley's personal collection of "Believe It or Not" oddities, being exhibited on a national tour, will be on display here in a custom-built trailer Thursday and Friday, Sept. 3 and 4 by the Navy Club. It will mark the fourth annual display here and will be entirely different from the three previous shows. The exhibit will be at Liberty Square and will be open to the public from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Voluntary donations will go to the Welfare and Rehabilitation program of the Navy Club.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

GOOD FRIEND BUT BAD COOK

A reader explains: "I have a friend who is a very bad cook. However, she is a very hospitable person and asks my husband and me to dine with her frequently. I have declined these invitations as often as I dare without her getting wise, but I have run out of excuses and I really do not know how to cope with this situation. I am really made ill by her cooking; yet she is a wonderful person in every respect and I do not want to lose her friendship."

You tell her that you really can't dine out because you are having trouble with your digestion and you can't have people cooking especially for you. If she says she doesn't mind cooking especially for you, then you eliminate the things that she cooks very badly and disagree with you.

Etiquette of Car Driver

Dear Mrs. Post: When my girl friend and I are driving a friend of hers home from a movie, having offered her a lift, is it up to me to escort this girl to the door and leave my own girl sitting alone in the car? Or would it be sufficient if we merely wait until she is safely inside the house before driving away.

Answer: You should open the car door for her and wait until she is safely in the house before driving away.

Don't Discourage Friend's Plans

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just heard, indirectly, that a friend of mine is planning a surprise shower for me. I have always disliked showers, and, furthermore, I do not want to place anyone in the position of having to give me a present. Is there any way I can discourage the giving of this shower?

Answer: My answer is that you should put yourself in a grateful mood instead of a resentful one. In other words, meet the kindnesses of your friends halfway.

Salad as Main Course

Dear Mrs. Post: When served an individual salad bowl as the main course at lunch, does one eat out of the bowl or take small portions over on to one's plate?

Answer: There is no rule. You may do whichever you prefer.

Condition Is Improved

The condition of Claudia Shookner, 2, who according to a sheriff's office report was scalded by coffee Saturday morning, was reported as "slightly improved" at the Kingston Hospital today. The girl was taken to the hospital by her father, George Shookner of Woodside, L. I., from their summer place in Kerhonkson. They were given an escort from Hurley avenue to the hospital by Special Deputy Sheriff Victor Osborn. First report on her condition listed her as "apparently fair." The father told sheriff's men that the girl pulled a cup of hot coffee over on her face and chest.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Here Today Opens On Tuesday Night

Woodstock, Aug. 31—Here Today, a comedy lampooning two of America's most celebrated literary wits in the early 1930's, will open at the Woodstock Playhouse Tuesday, Sept. 1.

Michael Howard, Playhouse director who is winning area applause for his sparkling high comedy style, will stage the production. The comedy was written by George Oppenheimer, one of Hollywood's top script writers and the author of some of the Marx Brothers' greatest film successes.

When Here Today was first presented on Broadway, it was an open secret that the two leading roles were patterned closely after the celebrated literary lights, Dorothy Parker and the late Robert Benchley who, by virtue of their brilliant conversation, jointly presided over a table of columnists, playwrights and novelists in a certain Manhattan speakeasy named Tony's on 49th street. Although Tony's has since been replaced by Radio City, Here Today is still one of the wisest-cracking comedies in recent American playwriting, and the character of Mary Hilliard, Dorothy Parker's counterpart, still rates as one of the sharpest-tongued women ever facing an audience. Here Today continues at the Playhouse through Sunday, Sept. 6.

Bess Johnson Returns

Mary Hilliard and Stanley Dale will be portrayed by Bess Johnson, nationally acclaimed for her TV role in the CBS Search for Tomorrow series, and by John Hallow, who toured this past winter with the Barter Theatre's Merchant of Venice.

The comedy describes how Mary and Stanley, well-trained in the art of impudence and insult, audaciously install themselves in the home of a snobbish, highly respectable Boston family, vacationing in the Bahamas, in order to forward the romance of Mary's ex-husband Philip with the Bostonian daughter. Philip, played by Willard Sage, who appeared with Marilyn Monroe in the film Niagara, is as frivolous a scoffer as his old pals. As the story progresses, Mary and Stanley completely bolix up all conceivable plans and counterplans, including their own.

Playing the Bostonian daughter, Claire, is newcomer Gaby Rodgers recent winner of the Shirley Booth Barter Theatre Award. Claire's stern, Bostonian mother, Mrs. Windrew, is portrayed by veteran character actress Maude Scheerer, who appeared with Maurice Evans in The Devil's Disciple. Young Jeff Windrew will be played by Donald Wilde, Playhouse stage manager and recently actor and director with the Denison Ohio Summer Theatre. Spencer Grant, Philip's blue-blooded Boston rival for Claire, is played by Joe Callaway, internationally known mono-dramatist, and the maid, Gertrude, by capable Playhouse apprentice, Marcia Zingg.

Critic Brooks Atkinson said of the Mary Hilliard-Stanley Dale characters: "Their inventions in scandal are inspirations. The dissoluteness of their lives is a work of art. They have become bounders by study and persistence. It is an evening of shameless mischief."

R. McDonald Brown, popular Playhouse designer, contributes the set—the Windrew House in Nassau, the Bahamas.

Scout Canvassers Guests at Dinner

Woodstock, Aug. 31—A group of 26 captains and their assistants who are serving as volunteers for the drive for funds in the Woodstock area for the Rip Van Winkle Council were served a chicken chow mein dinner by the ladies of the Dutch Reformed Church Wednesday night. In launching the drive, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, who heads the group in this area, announced that he was extremely gratified at the great enthusiasm shown by those who are participating.

After dinner, Andy Lee, who attended the Boy Scout Jamboree in July in California, described his experiences while there. Also present at the dinner was Ray Quackenbush, president of the Rip Van Winkle Council.

The Rev. Mr. Todd also announced that the following team of workers, under the direction of Martin Comeau, in charge of the Tinker street area, was completed: Adam Graver, George Neher, Alan Frodsham, Paul Arndt, Mrs. Bessie Stowall, Mrs. J. L. Deutsch, Walter Van Wagenen, Kenneth Hefty and Miss Neva Shultis.

To Vote Tuesday

Woodstock, Aug. 31—There will be an important general membership meeting of the Woodstock Artists Association Tuesday at 8:30 p. m., to vote on the executive board for 1954.

Foundation Elects Trustees for Year

Woodstock, Aug. 31—Following the annual meeting Aug. 21 of the Woodstock Foundation in the basement of the Dutch Reformed Church, it was announced that the following new trustees for 1953-54 were elected: Konrad Cramer, Mrs. Carl Hubbell, Jerry Jerominek, Miska Petersham, Robert Phelps, Dr. Harold Rugg, Dr. James T. Shotwell and C. J. Van Rijn. Other members of the board who will continue to serve are Alphonse Bare, Sidney Berkowitz, Mrs. Charles Boswell, Richard Chambers, Mrs. Emmet Edwards, David Huffine, Mrs. Louise Lindin, Mrs. Austin Mecklem, John Streibel and the Rev. Harvey I. Todd.

Appreciation for their past service to the organization was expressed to the following retiring trustees: Dr. Hans Cohn, Ed Harrison, Kaj Klitgaard, C. J. McCarthy, William Pachner, John Pike, Mrs. Charles Rosen and Dudley G. Summers.

Tinker Nursery Will Reopen on Sept. 21

Woodstock, Aug. 31—The Tinker Street Co-operative Nursery School will open Sept. 21, it has been announced by Mrs. Joseph Steinlauf, president of the school.

The school will move to new quarters, the Woodstock Art Gallery, for the coming school year. The gallery has been approved for school use by the fire department and it is planned that washroom facilities will be added.

The school officers have requested donations of old linoleum for the school floor. Anyone wishing to contribute this material is asked to communicate with Mrs. Steinlauf. She also will be interested in hearing from parents of young children as there are still a number of vacancies in the enrollment. Full information concerning the school and its policies is available from Mrs. Steinlauf.

Two Autos Are Damaged

Two automobiles were damaged but no one was injured in a collision at the intersection of the Onteora Trail and Route 28-A at Stony Hollow about 9:30 p. m., Saturday, according to a sheriff's office report. The right front end of an automobile operated by Charles DeLora, 55, of Highmount and the left front end of one driven by Joseph Speranza, 60, of Mt. Vernon were damaged in the collision which occurred as Speranza was making a left turn into Route 28A, Deputy Sheriff Benjamin Newkirk reported. No arrest was made.

Schedule for Children

If you want your children to help with household tasks, make a weekly schedule and put it on your family bulletin board. List mother's and dad's jobs, too, so the youngsters will feel they're sharing an important family enterprise.

Health for All

READY FOR SCHOOL?

The first day of school is a big event in a child's life. He may have spent years in nursery school or kindergarten, but he feels that first grade is "the real thing." He is eager, and at the same time a little worried. He may even be afraid.

Of course, parents see the necessity of taking Junior to the doctor to make sure there are no physical defects, such as poor eyesight or hearing, that will hold back his school progress. Many schools will give reading readiness tests to be sure he is mentally ready for first grade. But often his emotional preparation is forgotten. There may be fears and wrong attitudes which will interfere with his adjustment to school.

"Just wait till you get to school. They'll make you behave." Thoughtless parents may have used threats like this which make school a terrifying prospect. Older children may speak of teacher as a combination of ogre and policeman and exaggerate the difficulty of school work. If the damage has already been done, all members of the family will have to work together to repair it.

An older child can take Junior around the school and make him feel familiar with the building. A shopping excursion for clothes and school supplies will help make pleasant associations with the prospect of school. The change to a rigid schedule can be made gradually as summer ends, and the time needed to get Junior up, dressed, fed, and off to school can be worked out so that there will be little tension and confusion when the great day comes.

Mother will be wise to hide her feelings and not tell the youngster how much she will miss him while he is in school. With many children adjustment takes a few weeks, and parents will have to be patient and understanding. It will only distress and perplex the child to be asked endless questions about what he learns or what he does in his first school days.

Parents are in an important position to make the first days of school a happy adventure that will lead to a good emotional adjustment to school life.

Good Taste Today

(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

GOOD FRIEND BUT BAD COOK

A reader explains: "I have a friend who is a very bad cook. However, she is a very hospitable person and asks my husband and me to dine with her frequently. I have declined these invitations as often as I dare without her getting wise, but I have run out of excuses and I really do not know how to cope with this situation. I am really made ill by her cooking; yet she is a wonderful person in every respect and I do not want to lose her friendship."

You tell her that you really can't dine out because you are having trouble with your digestion and you can't have people cooking especially for you. If she says she doesn't mind cooking especially for you, then you eliminate the things that she cooks very badly and disagree with you.

Etiquette of Car Driver

Dear Mrs. Post: When my girl friend and I are driving a friend of hers home from a movie, having offered her a lift, is it up to me to escort this girl to the door and leave my own girl sitting alone in the car? Or would it be sufficient if we merely wait until she is safely inside the house before driving away.

Answer: You should open the car door for her and wait until she is safely in the house before driving away.

Don't Discourage Friend's Plans

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just heard, indirectly, that a friend of mine is planning a surprise shower for me. I have always disliked showers, and, furthermore, I do not want to place anyone in the position of having to give me a present. Is there any way I can discourage the giving of this shower?

Answer: My answer is that you should put yourself in a grateful mood instead of a resentful one. In other words, meet the kindnesses of your friends halfway.

Salad as Main Course

Dear Mrs. Post: When served an individual salad bowl as the main course at lunch, does one eat out of the bowl or take small portions over on to one's plate?

Answer: There is no rule. You may do whichever you prefer.

Condition Is Improved

The condition of Claudia Shookner, 2, who according to a sheriff's office report was scalded by coffee Saturday morning, was reported as "slightly improved" at the Kingston Hospital today. The girl was taken to the hospital by her father, George Shookner of Woodside, L. I., from their summer place in Kerhonkson. They were given an escort from Hurley avenue to the hospital by Special Deputy Sheriff Victor Osborn. First report on her condition listed her as "apparently fair." The father told sheriff's men that the girl pulled a cup of hot coffee over on her face and chest.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Here Today Opens On Tuesday Night

Woodstock, Aug. 31—Here Today, a comedy lampooning two of America's most celebrated literary wits in the early 1930's, will open at the Woodstock Playhouse Tuesday, Sept. 1.

Michael Howard, Playhouse director who is winning area applause for his sparkling high comedy style, will stage the production. The comedy was written by George Oppenheimer, one of Hollywood's top script writers and the author of some of the Marx Brothers' greatest film successes.

When Here Today was first presented on Broadway, it was an open secret that the two leading roles were patterned closely after the celebrated literary lights, Dorothy Parker and the late Robert Benchley who, by virtue of their brilliant conversation, jointly presided over a table of columnists, playwrights and novelists in a certain Manhattan speakeasy named Tony's on 49th street. Although Tony's has since been replaced by Radio City, Here Today is still one of the wisest-cracking comedies in recent American playwriting, and the character of Mary Hilliard, Dorothy Parker's counterpart, still rates as one of the sharpest-tongued women ever facing an audience. Here Today continues at the Playhouse through Sunday, Sept. 6.

Bess Johnson Returns

Mary Hilliard and Stanley Dale will be portrayed by Bess Johnson, nationally acclaimed for her TV role in the CBS Search for Tomorrow series, and by John Hallow, who toured this past winter with the Barter Theatre's Merchant of Venice.

The comedy describes how Mary and Stanley, well-trained in the art of impudence and insult, audaciously install themselves in the home of a snobbish, highly respectable Boston family, vacationing in the Bahamas, in order to forward the romance of Mary's ex-husband Philip with the Bostonian daughter, Philip, played by Willard Sage, who appeared with Marilyn Monroe in the film Niagara, is as frivolous a scoffer as his old pals. As the story progresses, Mary and Stanley completely bolix up all conceivable plans and counterplans, including their own.

Playing the Bostonian daughter, Claire, is newcomer Gaby Rodgers recent winner of the Shirley Booth Barter Theatre Award. Claire's stern, Bostonian mother, Mrs. Windrew, is portrayed by veteran character actress Maude Scheerer, who appeared with Maurice Evans in The Devil's Disciple. Young Jeff Windrew will be played by Donald Wilde, Playhouse stage manager and recently actor and director with the Denison Ohio Summer Theatre. Spencer Grant, Philip's blue-blooded Boston rival for Claire, is played by Joe Callaway, internationally known mono-dramatist, and the maid, Gertrude, by capable Playhouse apprentice, Marcia Zingg.

Critic Brooks Atkinson said of the Mary Hilliard-Stanley Dale characters: "Their inventions in scandal are inspirations. The dissoluteness of their lives is a work of art. They have become bounders by study and persistence. It is an evening of shameless mischief."

R. McDonald Brown, popular Playhouse designer, contributes the set—the Windrew House in Nassau, the Bahamas.

Scout Canvassers Guests at Dinner

Woodstock, Aug. 31—A group of 26 captains and their assistants who are serving as volunteers for the drive for funds in the Woodstock area for the Rip Van Winkle Council were served a chicken chow mein dinner by the ladies of the Dutch Reformed Church Wednesday night. In launching the drive, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, who heads the group in this area, announced that he was extremely gratified at the great enthusiasm shown by those who are participating.

After dinner, Andy Lee, who attended the Boy Scout Jamboree in July in California, described his experiences while there. Also present at the dinner was Ray Quackenbush, president of the Rip Van Winkle Council.

The Rev. Mr. Todd also announced that the following team of workers, under the direction of Martin Comeau, in charge of the Tinker street area, was completed: Adam Graver, George Neher, Alan Frodsham, Paul Arndt, Mrs. Bessie Stowall, Mrs. J. L. Deutsch, Walter Van Wagenen, Kenneth Hefty and Miss Neva Shultis.

To Vote Tuesday

Woodstock, Aug. 31—There will be an important general membership meeting of the Woodstock Artists Association Tuesday at 8:30 p. m., to vote on the executive board for 1954.

Foundation Elects Trustees for Year

Woodstock, Aug. 31—Following the annual meeting Aug. 21 of the Woodstock Foundation in the basement of the Dutch Reformed Church, it was announced that the following new trustees for 1953-54 were elected: Konrad Cramer, Mrs. Carl Hubbell, Jerry Jerominek, Miska Petersham, Robert Phelps, Dr. Harold Rugg, Dr. James T. Shotwell and C. J. Van Rijn. Other members of the board who will continue to serve are Alphonse Bare, Sidney Berkowitz, Mrs. Charles Boswell, Richard Chambers, Mrs. Emmet Edwards, David Huffine, Mrs. Louise Lindin, Mrs. Austin Mecklem, John Streibel and the Rev. Harvey I. Todd.

Appreciation for their past service to the organization was expressed to the following retiring trustees: Dr. Hans Cohn, Ed Harrison, Kaj Klitgaard, C. J. McCarthy, William Pachner, John Pike, Mrs. Charles Rosen and Dudley G. Summers.

Tinker Nursery Will Reopen on Sept. 21

Woodstock, Aug. 31—The Tinker Street Co-operative Nursery School will open Sept. 21, it has been announced by Mrs. Joseph Steinlauf, president of the school.

The school will move to new quarters, the Woodstock Art Gallery, for the coming school year. The gallery has been approved for school use by the fire department and it is planned that washroom facilities will be added.

The school officers have requested donations of old linoleum for the school floor. Anyone wishing to contribute this material is asked to communicate with Mrs. Steinlauf. She also will be interested in hearing from parents of young children as there are still a number of vacancies in the enrollment. Full information concerning the school and its policies is available from Mrs. Steinlauf.

Two Autos Are Damaged

Two automobiles were damaged but no one was injured in a collision at the intersection of the Onteora Trail and Route 28-A at Stony Hollow about 9:30 p. m., Saturday, according to a sheriff's office report. The right front end of an automobile operated by Charles DeLora, 55, of Highmount and the left front end of one driven by Joseph Speranza, 60, of Mt. Vernon were damaged in the collision which occurred as Speranza was making a left turn into Route 28A, Deputy Sheriff Benjamin Newkirk reported. No arrest was made.

Schedule for Children

If you want your children to help with household tasks, make a weekly schedule and put it on your family bulletin board. List mother's and dad's jobs, too, so the youngsters will feel they're sharing an important family enterprise.

Health for All

READY FOR SCHOOL?

The first day of school is a big event in a child's life. He may have spent years in nursery school or kindergarten, but he feels that first grade is "the real thing." He is eager, and at the same time a little worried. He may even be afraid.

Of course, parents see the necessity of taking Junior to the doctor to make sure there are no physical defects, such as poor evesight or hearing, that will hold back his school progress. Many schools will give reading readiness tests to be sure he is mentally ready for first grade. But often his emotional preparation is forgotten. There may be fears and wrong attitudes which will interfere with his adjustment to school.

"Just wait till you get to school. They'll make you behave." Thoughtless parents may have used threats like this which make school a terrifying prospect. Older children may speak of teacher as a combination of ogre and policeman and exaggerate the difficulty of school work. If the damage has already been done, all members of the family will have to work together to repair it.

An older child can take Junior around the school and make him feel familiar with the building. A shopping excursion for clothes and school supplies will help make pleasant associations with the prospect of school. The change to a rigid schedule can be made gradually as summer ends, and the time needed to get Junior up, dressed, fed, and off to school can be worked out so that there will be little tension and confusion when the great day comes.

Mother will be wise to hide her feelings and not tell the youngster how much she will miss him while he is in school. With many children adjustment takes a few weeks, and parents will have to be patient and understanding. It will only distress and perplex the child to be asked endless questions about what he learns or what he does in his first school days.

Parents are in an important position to make the first days of school a happy adventure that will lead to a good emotional adjustment to school life.

Gerry Wells, George Hughes Capture City Golf Championships

Defeats Dick Davenport On Last Two Holes, 2-Up

Wiltwyck Golf Club crowned a brand new champion Saturday, when Gerry Wells defeated Dick Davenport, 2-up, in the sun scorched 36-hole finals.

In this all-youth showdown—the first time in five years that Bill Van Aken did not figure in the championship—Wells played superbly on the last three holes to annex his first major crown.

With a putter as hot as the 100-plus temperature that seared the fairways, the long hitting young ace carded a pair of 72s that included morning and afternoon nines of 34.

Tied in 33rd Hole

Davenport, rallying to square the match on the 33rd hole, shot four consecutive nines of 37.

It was a dogged duel throughout the hot, blistering day that reduced spectator attendance to a mere handful.

Davenport led 1-up at the end of nine but Wells birdied the 11th, 16th and 17th to gain a 1-hole edge at the luncheon recess.

The afternoon struggle found the two all-even at the end of 27 but Wells' par-3 on the second sent him one-up. He dropped a long putt on the 31st for a 2-up margin, the greatest either ever had during the match.

Here Davenport rallied with successive birdies on the 32nd and 33rd holes, dropping a 30-footer on the latter to square the match with three holes remaining.

Davenport recovered beautifully after dubbing his approach on the 34th, canning a curling 6-footer for his four. Wells knocked his second shot pin high 12 feet below the cup and played safe for the two putts.

Miscue on 35th

First off the tee on the 35th, Davenport's iron was too strong and carried over the green to the rough on the left side. Wells planted his tee shot 12 feet above the pin for a safe uphill putt. When Davenport's pitch shot rolled 20 feet past the cup and Dick's putt slid four feet beyond, Wells calmly dropped the birdie.

There was still a chance for a tie and an extra-hole decision and it looked good when Davenport boomed a tremendous drive deep down the 36th fairway. Wells, off to the right, hit his wood to the right of the last green. The championship went out the window for Davenport when he flubbed his approach, the ball trickling about 25 yards. His third shot landed nine feet above the cup leaving him a tough putt. He gave it a great try but the ball barely missed the edge of the cup.

15 Magic Number

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—The "magic numbers" were reduced to 15 for the Brooklyn Dodgers and 17 for the New York Yankees today. Any combination of 15 Dodger victories or Milwaukee Brave defeats will give the Brooks their second straight National League pennant, and a total equaling 17 of Yankee wins or Chicago White Sox setbacks will be enough for the world champions' fifth straight American League flag.

The SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The slugging-minded National League, winging toward a new home run record, stole the thunder from the pitching-conscious American League yesterday, setting five new marks and tying two others with 22 circuit blows in seven games.

Here are the records set Sunday as Brooklyn's lead in the National was cut to 10 games by Milwaukee despite a 20-4 romp with St. Louis and New York's 8½ margin over Chicago untouched when the Yankees divided a doubleheader with the White Sox.

Major league record tied:

1. Eight home runs in one game by Milwaukee. The Yankees hit eight on June 28, 1939.

National League records set:

1. Eight homers in one game by Milwaukee. (Seven teams had hit seven).

2. 12 homers hit in doubleheader by Milwaukee. (The Giants hit 9 in a doubleheader in 1939).

3. 12 home runs in two successive games by Milwaukee. (Pittsburgh hit 10 in two straight games in 1925).

5. 100 runs scored by Stan Musial of the Cardinals for the 10th consecutive season to break his own league mark.

National League records tied:

1. Twelve runs in the seventh inning by Brooklyn. (Chicago Cubs scored 12 runs in seventh on May 28, 1925).

2. Five runs batted in by Brooklyn catcher Roy Campanella to give him 122 for the season. (Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs first set the record of 122 RBIs for catcher in 1930 later tied by Walker Cooper, Giants, 1947).

Near New Record

While the 22 homers fell three short of the National League's record of 25 on July 16, 1950, the old circuit raised its total home run output to 1,008, only 92 short of its all-time mark set in 1950. The American League, which has pitched 82 shutouts to 68 for the National, hit only nine home runs yesterday to raise its season total to 740. The league record is 973 in 1950.

Spearheaded by rookie Jim Pendleton's three homers in the first game and three by Mathews in the twin bill, the Braves crushed the lowly Pirates 19-4 and 11-5 to practically assure themselves of second place. Other Braves' homers were hit by Johnny Logan (two), Del Crandall, Joe Adcock, Sid Gordon and Jack Dittmer.

A Rare Feat

Only one other rookie besides Pendleton ever hit three home runs in one game. That was Mathews last year. Incidentally, Mathews now is only four home runs behind Babe Ruth's pace when the immortal home run king blasted 60 in 1927. The Babe, however, hit 17 in September.

Brooklyn's 19-hit assault on four Cardinal hurlers made it a simple matter for Carl Erskine to register his 17th victory of the season agains five defeats.

Home runs by Alvin Dark, Bobby Thompson, Wes Westrum and Daryl Spencer powered the Giants to a 10-1 victory over Chicago but the Cubs came back to win the second game 6-2 on Manager Phil Cavaretta's pinch hit double with the bases loaded in the eighth inning. The game was halted at the end of the eighth because of darkness.

Billy Pierce outpitched Jim McDonald as the White Sox won the second game 1-0 after the Yankees had slugged their way to a 10-6 first game triumph.

One-Under for 33 Holes To Beat Van Gonsic, 5-3

Hughes won his first title in 1951.

Successive nines of 35-36-33 enabled him to hold a substantial lead throughout the two-day grind that was played under a broiling sun.

But the victory of youth over age was not consummated until Van Gonsic had threatened to unleash one of those roaring comebacks for which he is famous at Twaalfskill.

Rally Starts

Hughes had gone 6-up on the 29th hole in Sunday's morning round when Van Gonsic overshot the green. But Hughes' tee shot off the 30th hole landed to the right and above the upper trap while Van Gonsic was under the green canvas.

The new champion was faced with a perilous pitch over the trap, landed eight feet to the right of the pin and was unable to can his par. Van Gonsic chipped two feet from the cup for a conceded three.

Hughes' lead was reduced to 5-up and a bad break against Van Gonsic on the 28th hole loomed more important at the moment. The trapshoot expert, who four times drove the No. 1 green during the match, found his drive in the ditch on the lower right hand edge of the green. The ball was unplayable and he was forced to take a penalty stroke. His chop shot, however, left him a five footer that he dropped for a par-4.

Loser Plays Well

Van Gonsic shot remarkably well posting successive nines of 37, 37, 36 and was even par for the six holes on the final nine. He drove the green on the 31st hole (4th green) and canned a 10-footer for an eagle-two. Hughes drive skidded across the carpet to the outer trap and he recovered for a birdie-3 leaving him 4-up.

Both smothered their drives off the 32nd tee but were on in opposite fringers of the green with Hughes away. He stroked boldly for the birdie-4 but missed it and Van Gonsic missed his try for 30-feet. That left the match dormie.

Hughes was just off the edge of the green, 15 feet away, on the par-3 thirty-third hole while Van Gonsic hit the upper ledge of the trap and that proved his undoing. He failed to get a good piece of the ball and barely moved it on the first try. His third chip fell short of the cup and the match was over. Hughes chipped up for a conceded 3 and the second Twaalfskill title three years was his.

The former county champion played beautiful golf on Sunday's front nine with a 33 and not a single "6" cropped up on his card. He had six birdies.

Alex Gerlak, the Twaalfskill pro, has a special motive for seeking a Northeastern PGA qualifying berth for the 1954 U. S. Open tournament at Baltusrol in New Jersey.

The prominent Kingston golfer played in the same threesome with Ben Hogan, when the fabulous Texan appeared in his first Open several years ago at the same course.

History recalls that Hogan didn't achieve any heroics on that occasion but his swing and style attracted the attention of the Old Guard.

"Watch this guy Hogan in a few years," Gerlak recalls one of the contemporaries saying.

"Come to think of it, that was quite a prophecy," says the Twaalfskill pro. "I'm going to try hard to qualify next year and I would like to tee off with Ben, if he decides to defend his title." And the local golfing world wishes Alex Gerlak the best of luck.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Fred Davi has the option for a major league exhibition game in Kingston on Oct. 18. The cast would include Maury McDermott, Gil MacDougald, Phil Rizzuto and other big time stars. Ted Freligh, the Saugerties clouter of yesteryear, has been despondent for more than a year. Ever since Bill Thomas fanned him in last year's "classic" at Saugerties, Big Ted is slaving away nightly getting his batting eye in shape. New rules governing this year's game, scheduled Sept. 13, at the Athletic Field, limit pitchers to two innings and the game to six frames. The preliminary between the Graybeards has been dropped. Nobody in Kingston wanted to bat against Oscar Schlenker's 63-year-old curves, Charlie Marabell, the Schoentag Schlager, has delayed his golf debut until later in the season. Wrestling recently attracted crowds of 11,000 and 5500 at Hawkins Stadium in Albany, while the Eastern League Senators are playing to K-ration crowds. We hope Kingston baseball fans will not be afflicted with that new sports disease—letus ignorit—for the forthcoming showdown between Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors. The pick here is Jones Dairy.

• Of Men and Mice:

Another member of the all-time major league screwball team—Luis Olmo of the Brooklyn Dodgers. In 1944, Olmo played second for two games, made 5 errors, stopped a ball with his Adam's apple, couldn't speak for a week. The Dodger manager got a note from the Cuban screwball: "Send Olmo back to outfield, no? Or Olmo go back to Havana, yes?" He went back to the outfield. Siena College has announced an 18-game major schedule for the 1953-54 basketball season. Newcomers on the slate are Murray State and Louisville. Villanova returns to the Albany Armory boards for the first time in 11 years and Coach Danny Cunha's Indians have received an invitation to a tournament sponsored by the University of Kentucky on Dec. 28-30 at Louisville. Others invited are Villanova, Houston, Xavier of Ohio, Louisville, Western Kentucky, Eastern Kentucky and Murray State. Games will be played in the 8,000-seat Louisville armory. The Giants' Sal Maglie is the only National League pitcher who holds an edge over every NL rival in lifetime records against opposing clubs.

The Glasco Gun Club will defend its Ulster county trapshooting championship on its home grounds on Sunday, Oct. 11, when the Federated Sportsmen stage their annual shoot there. Fred Thiel of Milton is defending champion in the individual event. John J. Van Gonsic, who is equally prominent as a golfer and trapshooter, said he shot above his average in the recent Grand National at Vandalia, Ohio, but couldn't gain a place among the leaders. The competition this year set an all-time record for accuracy. "Some of those guys could shoot a squirrel with a pistol at 50 yards," he said. Local bowlers should check with Johnny Ferraro and Red Sangi for details of the Brunswick nation-wide sweepstakes this year. There is no entry fee for the kegler, who can share in prizes totalling $50,817.

It is always difficult to start off a new bowling season, but here it is, with the Pioneer Women's League firing the first salvo Wednesday at the Bowlodrome. The modern 35-week schedule makes it imperative that league schedules begin as early as possible in September, if the trundlers wish to avoid July 4th playoffs the following year. Early indications are that bowling pressure remains about the same as last year, with no new leagues reported. Here's to the keglers. Theirs is a long and arduous campaign, but they love it. And to the hard working secretaries, don't wait until the last minute to file your ABC registration blank. Protect your keglers from the start.

Waterous and Foster Woodstock Finalists

Former Eliminates Charles Turck, 3-2

Allen Waterous and Norman Foster are finalists in the 1953 Woodstock Country Club championship flight and will meet in a 36-hole playoff on Saturday, Sept. 5.

Waterous fired successive nines of 35, 39, 38, 36 to eliminate Charles J. "Jimmy" Turck, 3 and 2, in the 36-hole semi-finals Sunday.

Foster, former KHS varsity golfer, rallied to sweep the last three holes to oust Herbie Waterous, 1-up, to qualify for the finals for the first time.

Waterous and Turck both birdied the first hole but during the long and steaming day, the big baritone always was in front by margins ranging from two to three holes.

Turck sliced his lead to one hole on the 30th but Waterous rallied with successive birdies on the par-3 31st hole and the par-5 32nd. They halved the next two holes to close out the match. Turck carded rounds of 37-40-77 and 38-36-74.

Birdie Helps Foster

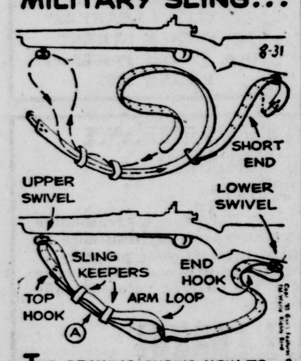

Herb Waterous made a fine comeback against Foster picking up five holes on the afternoon 18 to go on from three down to 2-up and three holes to go.

But the same three holes that he dropped four times running were his nemesis in the stretch. He missed a short putt on the seventh green (34th) and pitched to the right of the 35th green. Foster was on in two and canned a six-footer for a birdie-3.

With the match up for grabs, Foster planted his 36th tee shot 20 feet from the cup. Waterous' fading shot found the trap and he was unable to move the ball out on his first blaster shot. He was on in three and beaten when Foster got down in two putts for a par-3.

Gerry Wells, George Hughes Capture City Golf Championships

Defeats Dick Davenport On Last Two Holes, 2-Up

Wiltwyck Golf Club crowned a brand new champion Saturday, when Gerry Wells defeated Dick Davenport, 2-up, in the sun scorched 36-hole finals.

In this all-youth showdown—the first time in five years that Bill Van Aken did not figure in the championship—Wells played superbly on the last three holes to annex his first major crown.

With a putter as hot as the 100-plus temperature that seared the fairways, the long hitting young ace carded a pair of 72s that included morning and afternoon nines of 34.

Tied in 33rd Hole

Davenport, rallying to square the match on the 33rd hole, shot four consecutive nines of 37.

It was a dogged duel throughout the hot, blistering day that reduced spectator attendance to a mere handful.

Davenport led 1-up at the end of nine but Wells birdied the 11th, 16th and 17th to gain a 1-hole edge at the luncheon recess.

The afternoon struggle found the two all-even at the end of 27 but Wells' par-3 on the second sent him one-up. He dropped a long putt on the 31st for a 2-up margin, the greatest either ever had during the match.

Here Davenport rallied with successive birdies on the 32nd and 33rd holes, dropping a 30-footer on the latter to square the match with three holes remaining.

Davenport recovered beautifully after dubbing his approach on the 34th, canning a curling 6-footer for his four. Wells knocked his second shot pin high 12 feet below the cup and played safe for the two putts.

Miscue on 35th

First off the tee on the 35th, Davenport's iron was too strong and carried over the green to the rough on the left side. Wells planted his tee shot 12 feet above the pin for a safe uphill putt. When Davenport's pitch shot rolled 20 feet past the cup and Dick's putt slid four feet beyond, Wells calmly dropped the birdie.

There was still a chance for a tie and an extra-hole decision and it looked good when Davenport boomed a tremendous drive deep down the 36th fairway. Wells, off to the right, hit his wood to the right of the last green. The championship went out the window for Davenport when he flubbed his approach, the ball trickling about 25 yards. His third shot landed nine feet above the cup leaving him a tough putt. He gave it a great try but the ball barely missed the edge of the cup.

Wells chipped to within four feet of the pin and dropped his putt for a regulation four and his first Wiltwyck title.

15 Magic Number

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—The "magic numbers" were reduced to 15 for the Brooklyn Dodgers and 17 for the New York Yankees today. Any combination of 15 Dodger victories or Milwaukee Brave defeats will give the Brooks their second straight National League pennant, and a total equaling 17 of Yankee wins or Chicago White Sox setbacks will be enough for the world champions' fifth straight American League flag.

The SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The slugging-minded National League, winging toward a new home run record, stole the thunder from the pitching-conscious American League yesterday, setting five new marks and tying two others with 22 circuit blows in seven games.

Here are the records set Sunday as Brooklyn's lead in the National was cut to 10 games by Milwaukee despite a 20-4 romp with St. Louis and New York's 8½ margin over Chicago untouched when the Yankees divided a doubleheader with the White Sox.

Major league record tied:

1. Eight home runs in one game by Milwaukee. The Yankees hit eight on June 28, 1939.

National League records set:

1. Eight homers in one game by Milwaukee. (Seven teams had hit seven).

2. 12 homers hit in doubleheader by Milwaukee. (The Giants hit 9 in a doubleheader in 1939).

3. 12 home runs in two successive games by Milwaukee. (Pittsburgh hit 10 in two straight games in 1925).

4. 28 home runs on the road by Milwaukee's Eddie Mathews, who rapped three yesterday for his No.'s 41, 42 and 43 of the season. (Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner hit 25 on the road in 1949).

5. 100 runs scored by Stan Musial of the Cardinals for the 10th consecutive season to break his own league mark.

National League records tied:

1. Twelve runs in the seventh inning by Brooklyn. (Chicago Cubs scored 12 runs in seventh on May 28, 1925).

2. Five runs batted in by Brooklyn catcher Roy Campanella to give him 122 for the season. (Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs first set the record of 122 RBIs for catcher in 1930 later tied by Walker Cooper, Giants, 1947).

Near New Record

While the 22 homers fell three short of the National League's record of 25 on July 16, 1950, the old circuit raised its total home run output to 1.008, only 92 short of its all-time mark set in 1950. The American League, which has pitched 82 shutouts to 68 for the National, hit only nine home runs yesterday to raise its season total to 740. The league record is 973 in 1950.

Spearheaded by rookie Jim Pendleton's three homers in the first game and three by Mathews in the twin bill, the Braves crushed the lowly Pirates 19-4 and 11-5 to practically assure themselves of second place. Other Braves' homers were hit by Johnny Logan (two), Del Crandall, Joe Adcock, Sid Gordon and Jack Dittmer.

A Rare Feat

Only one other rookie besides Pendleton ever hit three home runs in one game. That was Mathews last year. Incidentally, Mathews now is only four home runs behind Babe Ruth's pace when the immortal home run king blasted 60 in 1927. The Babe, however, hit 17 in September.

Brooklyn's 19-hit assault on four Cardinal hurlers made it a simple matter for Carl Erskine to register his 17th victory of the season agains five defeats.

Home runs by Alvin Dark, Bobby Thompson, Wes Westrum and Daryl Spencer powered the Giants to a 10-1 victory over Chicago but the Cubs came back to win the second game 6-2 on Manager Phil Cavaretta's pinch hit double with the bases loaded in the eighth inning. The game was halted at the end of the eighth because of darkness.

Billy Pierce outpitched Jim McDonald as the White Sox won the second game 1-0 after the Yankees had slugged their way to a 10-6 first game triumph.

One-Under for 33 Holes To Beat Van Gonsic, 5-3

Sweet-swinging George Hughes captured his second Twaalfskill Golf Club crown over the weekend, downing veteran John J. Van Gonsic, 5 and 3, with a brilliant one-under-par performance for 33 holes.

Hughes won his first title in 1951.

Successive nines of 35-36-33 enabled him to hold a substantial lead throughout the two-day grind that was played under a broiling sun.

But the victory of youth over age was not consummated until Van Gonsic had threatened to unleash one of those roaring comebacks for which he is famous at Twaalfskill.

Rally Starts

Hughes had gone 6-up on the 29th hole in Sunday's morning round when Van Gonsic overshot the green. But Hughes' tee shot off the 30th hole landed to the right and above the upper trap while Van Gonsic was under the green canvas.

The new champion was faced with a perilous pitch over the trap, landed eight feet to the right of the pin and was unable to can his par. Van Gonsic chipped two feet from the cup for a conceded three.

Hughes' lead was reduced to 5-up and a bad break against Van Gonsic on the 28th hole loomed more important at the moment. The trapshoot expert, who four times drove the No. 1 green during the match, found his drive in the ditch on the lower right hand edge of the green. The ball was unplayable and he was forced to take a penalty stroke. His chop shot, however, left him a five footer that he dropped for a par-4.

Loser Plays Well

Van Gonsic shot remarkably well posting successive nines of 37, 37, 36 and was even par for the six holes on the final nine. He drove the green on the 31st hole (4th green) and canned a 10-footer for an eagle-two. Hughes drive skidded across the carpet to the outer trap and he recovered for a birdie-3 leaving him 4-up.

Both smothered their drives off the 32nd tee but were on in opposite fringers of the green with Hughes away. He stroked boldly for the birdie-4 but missed it and Van Gonsic missed his try for 30-feet. That left the match dormie.

Hughes was just off the edge of the green, 15 feet away, on the par-3 thirty-third hole while Van Gonsic hit the upper ledge of the trap and that proved his undoing. He failed to get a good piece of the ball and barely moved it on the first try. His third chip fell short of the cup and the match was over. Hughes chipped up for a conceded 3 and the second Twaalfskill title three years was his.

The former county champion played beautiful golf on Sunday's front nine with a 33 and not a single "6" cropped up on his card. He had six birdies.

Alex Gerlak, the Twaalfskill pro, has a special motive for seeking a Northeastern PGA qualifying berth for the 1954 U. S. Open tournament at Baltusrol in New Jersey.

The prominent Kingston golfer played in the same threesome with Ben Hogan, when the fabulous Texan appeared in his first Open several years ago at the same course.

History recalls that Hogan didn't achieve any heroics on that occasion but his swing and style attracted the attention of the Old Guard.

"Watch this guy Hogan in a few years," Gerlak recalls one of the contemporaries saying.

"Come to think of it, that was quite a prophecy," says the Twaalfskill pro. "I'm going to try hard to qualify next year and I would like to tee off with Ben, if he decides to defend his title." And the local golfing world wishes Alex Gerlak the best of luck.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Fred Davi has the option for a major league exhibition game in Kingston on Oct. 18. The cast would include Maury McDermott, Gil MacDougald, Phil Rizzuto and other big time stars. Ted Freligh, the Saugerties clouter of yesteryear, has been despondent for more than a year. Ever since Bill Thomas fanned him in last year's "classic" at Saugerties, Big Ted is slaving away nightly getting his batting eye in shape. New rules governing this year's game, scheduled Sept. 13, at the Athletic Field, limit pitchers to two innings and the game to six frames. The preliminary between the Graybeards has been dropped. Nobody in Kingston wanted to bat against Oscar Schlenker's 63-year-old curves. Charlie Marabell, the Schoentag Schlager, has delayed his golf debut until later in the season. Wrestling recently attracted crowds of 11,000 and 5500 at Hawkins Stadium in Albany, while the Eastern League Senators are playing to K-ration crowds. We hope Kingston baseball fans will not be afflicted with that new sports disease—letus ignorit—for the forthcoming showdown between Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors. The pick here is Jones Dairy.

• Of Men and Mice:

Another member of the all-time major league screwball team—Luis Olmo of the Brooklyn Dodgers. In 1944, Olmo played second for two games, made 5 errors, stopped a ball with his Adam's apple, couldn't speak for a week. The Dodger manager got a note from the Cuban screwball: "Send Olmo back to outfield, no? Or Olmo go back to Havana, yes?" He went back to the outfield. Siena College has announced an 18-game major schedule for the 1953-54 basketball season. Newcomers on the slate are Murray State and Louisville. Villanova returns to the Albany Armory boards for the first time in 11 years and Coach Danny Cunha's Indians have received an invitation to a tournament sponsored by the University of Kentucky on Dec. 28-30 at Louisville. Others invited are Villanova, Houston, Xavier of Ohio, Louisville, Western Kentucky, Eastern Kentucky and Murray State. Games will be played in the 8,000-seat Louisville armory. The Giants' Sal Maglie is the only National League pitcher who holds an edge over every NL rival in lifetime records against opposing clubs.

The Glasco Gun Club will defend its Ulster county trapshooting championship on its home grounds on Sunday, Oct. 11, when the Federated Sportsmen stage their annual shoot there. Fred Thiel of Milton is defending champion in the individual event. John J. Van Gonsic, who is equally prominent as a golfer and trapshooter, said he shot above his average in the recent Grand National at Vandalia, Ohio, but couldn't gain a place among the leaders. The competition this year set an all-time record for accuracy. "Some of those guys could shoot a squirrel with a pistol at 50 yards," he said. Local bowlers should check with Johnny Ferraro and Red Sangi for details of the Brunswick nation-wide sweepstakes this year. There is no entry fee for the kegler, who can share in prizes totalling $50,817.

It is always difficult to start off a new bowling season, but here it is, with the Pioneer Women's League firing the first salvo Wednesday at the Bowlodrome. The modern 35-week schedule makes it imperative that league schedules begin as early as possible in September, if the trundlers wish to avoid July 4th playoffs the following year. Early indications are that bowling pressure remains about the same as last year, with no new leagues reported. Here's to the keglers. Theirs is a long and arduous campaign, but they love it. And to the hard working secretaries, don't wait until the last minute to file your ABC registration blank. Protect your keglers from the start.

Waterous and Foster Woodstock Finalists

Former Eliminates Charles Turck, 3-2

Allen Waterous and Norman Foster are finalists in the 1953 Woodstock Country Club championship flight and will meet in a 36-hole playoff on Saturday, Sept. 5.

Waterous fired successive nines of 35, 39, 38, 36 to eliminate Charles J. "Jimmy" Turck, 3 and 2, in the 36-hole semi-finals Sunday.

Foster, former KHS varsity golfer, rallied to sweep the last three holes to oust Herbie Waterous, 1-up, to qualify for the finals for the first time.

Waterous and Turck both birdied the first hole but during the long and steaming day, the big baritone always was in front by margins ranging from two to three holes.

Turck sliced his lead to one hole on the 30th but Waterous rallied with successive birdies on the par-3 31st hole and the par-5 32nd. They halved the next two holes to close out the match. Turck carded rounds of 37-40-77 and 38-36-74.

Birdie Helps Foster

Herb Waterous made a fine comeback against Foster picking up five holes on the afternoon 18 to go on from three down to 2-up and three holes to go.

But the same three holes that he dropped four times running were his nemesis in the stretch. He missed a short putt on the seventh green (34th) and pitched to the right of the 35th green. Foster was on in two and canned a six-footer for a birdie-3.

With the match up for grabs, Foster planted his 36th tee shot 20 feet from the cup. Waterous' fading shot found the trap and he was unable to move the ball out on his first blaster shot. He was on in three and beaten when Foster got down in two putts for a par-3.

Colonials Shade Poughkeepsie All Stars, 6-5, for Second Win

Murphy's Homer In Sixth Inning Is Vital Blow

Drop Third Straight To Newburgh, 15-3

Series Standing

	Won	Lost
Poughkeepsie	3	2
Newburgh	3	2
Kingston	2	4

The Colonials won one for their stricken manager, Fred Davi, Saturday night at municipal stadium. (Earlier in the day, the portly promoter had collapsed with a heart attack on Broadway).

In the process of shading the Poughkeepsie All-Stars 6-5 on Tom Murphy's sixth-inning homer, they proved that, although they are patsies to the Newburgh Jewels, they can handle the Bridge City outfit.

The Kingston victory scrambled the Hudson valley series standings and tied Poughkeepsie and Newburgh with 3 wins and 2 losses, both Poughkeepsie defeats coming at the hands of Kingston by the same score.

Newburgh Jewels took advantage of 10 Kingston walks and a flock of miscues to drub the locals, 15-3, Sunday afternoon at the Hill City.

New Pitcher Wins

Al Blake, an new importation who appeared in place of Fred Vogel, held Poughkeepsie to eight hits and but for a couple of streaks of wildness would have won handily.

Murphy's homer—a line drive up the right center alley — was stroked off Manager Dick Whitesell, who relieved his starter, Bill Byrne, in the sixth. Successive singles by Red Gorsline, George Glaser and Blake loaded the sacks but Schaffer jammed into a DP to end the threat.

It took a bang-bang play at the plate at the top of the ninth to keep Poughkeepsie's potential tying run away from pay dirt. Big Jake Charter was hit by a pitched ball to lead off the inning. After Charlie Brennan popped to third, Bob Rathbun doubled to left field but the relay from Gorsline to Augie Passante to home plate nipped Charter by an eyelash. Ball and runner arrived almost simultaneously but Kite held his ground and tagged Charter short of the plate.

Kingston's eight hits off Byrne and Whitesell went to eight different players with only "Boo" Shaffer missing a safety. Rathbun pounded a double and two singles and Charter had two solo swats for the visitors.

Making his first start since returning from the Mayfield, Ky., club of the Kitty League, southpaw George Telepas was wild and ineffective at Newburgh. He yielded 8 hits and 7 walks and 10 runs in the first six innings.

Jim Ferraro allowed only two hits in two innings but Kingston miscues mushroomed them into five Newburgh tallies.

Kingston collected nine hits off three Jwel flingers, with the starter, Kip Kiviniemi, getting the win.

Nippy Jones and George Glaser had two singles apiece for Kingston. Four Newburgh swatters hit safely twice each but the only extra base blows were Bobby Newhard's double and Paul Evans' triple.

Poughkeepsie and Newburgh will play their second game of the series Tuesday night at Riverview Field.

First Major Win For Bob Toski

Wethersfield, Conn., Aug. 31 (AP) —Bob Toski won the top prize of $2,400 in the Insurance City Open golf tournament yesterday, and what do you think he's going to do with it?

Beaming with joy, he took the check and proudly proclaimed:

"I'm going to use the money to get married in December to Miss Lynn Stewart of Coral Gables, Fla., right after the Miami Open."

Toski, who has been a pro eight years and touring the circuit for three, finally scored his first major golf victory.

To win, the 26-year-old, 126-pound slugger posted rounds of 66-66-70-67—269, a scorching 15-under par on the 6,541-yard Wethersfield Country Club course. Toski shared the lead with four others Thursday, and with Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, Saturday.

Complaints Are Checked

The sheriff's office and Kingston police are checking complaints from area residents that automobiles are being driven in a reckless manner on Lucas avenue extension near the Spring Lake road intersection nightly, turning around on lawns and damaging them, and annoying the neighborhood with prolonged blowing of horns. The area is being patrolled and arrests will be made if necessary to curb the practice, the sheriff's office stated.

To a lot of shooters, the standard sitting position, with feet spread, knees up, the rear sides of both elbows braced inside the knees, is quite uncomfortable. And it can be downright uncomfortable and shakes-producing when the terrain you're sitting on isn't just right.

For example, downhill sitting shots are easy, steady. But the uphill try is more of a problem because there just isn't any easy way to get the gun muzzle high enough without holding the gun on muscle rather than on bone.

And supporting a rifle on muscle alone usually means a first class case of sight jiggling.

Unless you've already developed such a bay window that it isn't physically possible, the knee-hugging sitting position may work out better for you. No detailed diagram is needed. Sit down, bring your knees toward your chest, your chest toward your knees, and wrap your arms around the top of your knees. Holding the rifle, of course.

Your right hand grip on stock and trigger is as usual. Your left arm is bent so that the rifle forearm rests over the crook of your elbow, with the left forearm crossed over the outer kneecaps and your left hand useful at the butt of the gun to help steady it and make elevation corrections.

I've used this position on many occasions, particularly in varmint shooting—on crows, for example, where there isn't always time to get organized according to the book with sling. It is best suited to rifles of relatively light recoil —as you'll discover from the position of your snoot behind the rifle scope when you try the knee-hug.

To shoot up a steep slide from either the standard sitting posture or prone can be impossible because of the angle, and off hand shots at such range aren't likely to flatten trophy heads onto the snow first whack out of the box.

So the odd knee-hug position is a good one to have in your box of rifle-shooting tricks.

Woodstock Rider Will Compete in Dutchess Program

Miss Eva Van Rijn, 17, of Woodstock, will ride in seven classes of the English Horse Show feature of the Dutchess County Fair Friday. Miss Van Rijn will compete with her horse, Meadow Lark.

The Dutchess County Fair opens tomorrow with a pony show and winds up Saturday with a Western Horse show with many rodeo attractions.

So that night fairgoers may have an opportunity to observe cattle judging, fair directors have scheduled the judging of Ayrshire cattle Thursday at 7 p. m.

Harness racing cards will be presented Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. Harry B. Walker, former mayor of Kingston, will be one of the judges.

Dutchess County Fair president Authur L. Shepherd declared today that this is the biggest Dutchess fair on record, with 800 head of cattle and a total livestock count of more than 1,000 head.

Ice Show Carded

The judging of open class Aberdeen Angus and Hereford beef cattle will take place Tuesday, as well as 4H club Holsteins and most other exhibits.

A gala ice show, entirely different from last year's ice follies, will be presented nightly before the grandstand and at special Friday and Saturday matinees.

Tomorrow, as well as Saturday, are being set aside as Children's days. All children 16 years and younger will be admitted free either day.

Post entries in any of the three horse shows will be accepted and horses need not be kept on the fair except on the day they are shown.

Car Overturns

Rose Rocco, 58, of New York escaped with slight lacerations of the legs and arms when her car overturned on Route 32 about three miles north of Kingston at 11 p. m., Sunday. State police at Kingston said the car, headed south on the route, went out of control and off the road overturning on its top. The woman was treated by a doctor, the report said.

Colonials Shade Poughkeepsie All Stars, 6-5, for Second Win

Drop Third Straight To Newburgh, 15-3

Series Standing

	Won	Lost
Poughkeepsie	3	2
Newburgh	3	2
Kingston	2	4

The Colonials won one for their stricken manager, Fred Davi, Saturday night at municipal stadium. (Earlier in the day, the portly promoter had collapsed with a heart attack on Broadway).

In the process of shading the Poughkeepsie All-Stars 6-5 on Tom Murphy's sixth-inning homer, they proved that, although they are patsies to the Newburgh Jewels, they can handle the Bridge City outfit.

The Kingston victory scrambled the Hudson valley series standings and tied Poughkeepsie and Newburgh with 3 wins and 2 losses, both Poughkeepsie defeats coming at the hands of Kingston by the same score.

Newburgh Jewels took advantage of 10 Kingston walks and a flock of miscues to drub the locals, 15-3, Sunday afternoon at the Hill City.

New Pitcher Wins

Al Blake, an new importation who appeared in place of Fred Vogel, held Poughkeepsie to eight hits and but for a couple of streaks of wildness would have won handily.

Murphy's homer—a line drive up the right center alley — was stroked off Manager Dick Whitesell, who relieved his starter, Bill Byrne, in the sixth. Successive singles by Red Gorsline, George Glaser and Blake loaded the sacks but Schaffer jammed into a DP to end the threat.

It took a bang-bang play at the plate at the top of the ninth to keep Poughkeepsie's potential tying run away from pay dirt. Big Jake Charter was hit by a pitched ball to lead off the inning. After Charlie Brennan popped to third, Bob Rathbun doubled to left field but the relay from Gorsline to Augie Passante to home plate nipped Charter by an eyelash. Ball and runner arrived almost simultaneously but Kite held his ground and tagged Charter short of the plate.

Kingston's eight hits off Byrne and Whitesell went to eight different players with only "Boo" Shaffer missing a safety. Rathbun pounded a double and two singles and Charter had two solo swats for the visitors.

Making his first start since returning from the Mayfield, Ky., club of the Kitty League, southpaw George Telepas was wild and ineffective at Newburgh. He yielded 8 hits and 7 walks and 10 runs in the first six innings.

Jim Ferraro allowed only two hits in two innings but Kingston miscues mushroomed them into five Newburgh tallies.

Kingston collected nine hits off three Jwel flingers, with the starter, Kip Kiviniemi, getting the win.

Nippy Jones and George Glaser had two singles apiece for Kingston. Four Newburgh swatters hit safely twice each but the only extra base blows were Bobby Newhard's double and Paul Evans' triple.

Poughkeepsie and Newburgh will play their second game of the series Tuesday night at Riverview Field.

FYL Stars Lose Twice

Kingston's Fraternal Youth League All Stars were eliminated from the national tournament at Bridgeport Saturday, when they lost to Williamsport, Pa., 11 to 4.

Tony Turck was the starting and losing pitcher and was relieved by Jim Palumbo.

Stamford, Conn., last year's champions, blanked the locals, 6-0, in Sunday's consolation contest.

Pravda Charges U. S. Fanning War

London, Aug. 31 (AP)—Russia's Communist party organ Pravda trained its propaganda guns today on Indochina and charged American aid to embattled French forces there is a scheme to "fan war in Asia."

In an article broadcast by Moscow radio, Pravda said U. S. plans called for an extension in military preparations and the launching of a general French offensive in October. At the same time, the paper added, "the U. S. press has lately been prattling about France granting independence to the countries of Indochina."

"Such talk," Pravda alleged, "represents only a U. S. maneuver to establish control over political power in Indochina and to appropriate the country's national wealth.

American Legion Opens Convention; Fight Is Prospect

St. Louis, Aug. 31 (AP) — The American Legion officially opened its 35th annual convention today with a sharp fight in prospect over air force budget cuts by the administration.

Lewis E. Gough of Pasadena, Calif., national commander of the organization, told convention delegates in his report that while the proposed 1954 budget gives the air force only 114 wings, 23 wings have been added to the air National Guard and air reserve.

"Over-all, greater combat strength should be realized through a reduction in leadtime, better utilization of personnel and equipment and by the elimination of waste and duplication," Gough said in his report prepared for delivery.

(An air force wing is a combat plane group plus nontactical groups for supply, maintenance and such. Leadtime is the length of time it takes from the letting of contracts until a plane is ready for use).

Report Adopted

The Legion's national security commission, headed by Thomas E. Paradine of New York, adopted without opposition, however, a report calling the present air force inadequate and especially short of replacement crews for the strategic air command.

The Legion's national executive committee, meeting late yesterday, merely 'received and filed" the report without debate.

Joe Jodges, past department commander of the Legion in Virginia, said the Virginia delegation will try on the floor—probably Wednesday—to get the Legion to fight for restoration of a 143-wing air force.

The funmaking actually started yesterday with the 40 & 8 parade, a two-mile long spectacle as guady as a circus and as noisy as a battle.

75,000 Line Curbs

Police estimated that 75,000 persons lined the two miles of curbs to watch replicas of locomotives and box cars, reminiscent of France of 1918.

Gough, in his report, said the planned reduction in the total strength of the army means "increased reliance will have to be placed on the reserve and the National Guard."

He said the reduction in manpower strength will not be at the expense of combat units but will be achieved through better use of manpower and elimination of unnecessary overhead and support personnel.

Speaking on foreign relations, Gough said he was pleased to note that many recommendations of the Legion's Foreign Relations Commission on Far Eastern Policy, toward the United Nations, and in regard to participation in European defense "have now been accepted and implemented by the present administration."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon will deliver the keynote address this afternoon. Secretary of Navy Robert E. Anderson will speak tonight and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will give a major policy address Wednesday.

Newkirk One

Albany district post will be judged on three qualifications including management, administrative and technical abilities.

Selections for the post will be made at a later date by Reilly J. Ratteree, district director; a representative of the regional office in New York, and by a Federal representative of the Internal Revenue Department from Washington, D. C.

Mayor Newkirk was elected to his first term of office as the local chief executive in 1947 following work as a salesman with the National Biscuit Company, which he served from 1927.

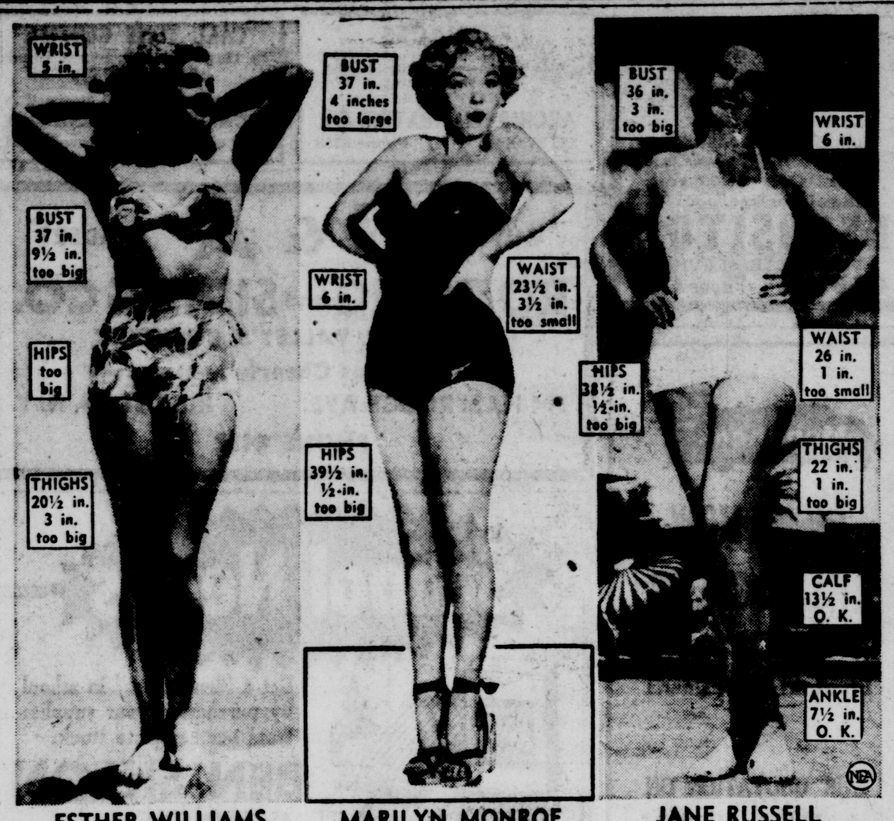

He also was a member of the Common Council of Kingston and the Ulster County Board of Supervisors as the representative of the Second Ward.

Theft Is Reported

George Maitland, proprietor of Ann's Delicatessen, Woodstock, reported to state police Sunday night that about $140 was missing from a can in which he kept about $400 of the store's earnings. He said he believed the money may have been taken some time between 7 and 9 p. m., while he was in the rear of the store. Cpl. Ray Dunn of Phoenicia is investigating.

Help Is Offered

Damascus, Syria, Aug. 31 (AP)—Syria has offered Jordan military help in the case of any Jewish aggression against Jordan, a usually reliable source said today. This offer was said to have been made by the Syrian foreign minister to his Jordanian colleague.

PIN-UPS' FIGURES ARE OUT OF LINE—If ace pin-up gals Esther Williams, Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell joined the WACs they'd have to whack some inches off their much-publicized contours. As it shapes up, they don't measure down to the standards being set for the women in the armed forces—based on the circumference of the wrist. The WACs' new good-grooming manual gives this formula for Figures, Ideal, Military, Female: BUST: Multiply wrist size by 5½. WAIST: multiply by 4½. THIGH: by 3½. CALF: by 2¼ and ANKLE 1¼. Hips should never be more than two inches larger than bust. Photo-diagram above shows how Hollywood's well-stacked stars don't stack up with WAC standards. La Monroe's thigh, calf, ankle figures were unavailable.

Demands Drivers End Their Walkout

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—Dave Beck, president of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters has demanded that striking truck drivers terminate their eight-week-old walkout by tomorrow.

The strike has crippled construction work in the New York metropolitan area costing an estimated 600 million dollars.

In a statement Saturday night, Beck warned that in the event the strike is not terminated by Tuesday he will invoke his constitutional authority and order the strikers back to work, pending arbitration of the dispute.

Stalemate Causes Action

Beck said his intervention was caused by a stalemate in negotiations between the employers and the union in the sand and gravel and ready-mixed concrete industry here.

He said he received a report showing the statemate resulted "because the union committee told the employers they were powerless to negotiate but must return with the full proposal demanded by the membership at its August 18 meeting."

"I cannot tolerate having any committee of a teamsters local union take the arbitrary position that they will not bargain," Beck declared.

The union had rejected an employer's offer of a 40-cents-per-hour wage increase and establishment of pension and welfare funds, continuing to hold out for a 50-cents-per-hour increase.

Beck called upon the strikers to meet their responsibilities to their families, to the hundreds of thousands of building tradesmen who are "innocent victims of the strike," and to the community, "by bringing the stalemate to an end."

He appointed a committee consising of union officials to "find a solution that will be acceptable to the employes and employers no later than the first of September."

Will Order Men to Work

Should a solution not be achieved by Tuesday, said Beck, he would invoke his "authority under the Internaional Union's constitution to compel Local 282 to submit the entire dispute to arbitration."

He said he would also "order the men to return to work pending an arbitration settlement."

The 56-day strike of concrete, sand and gravel truck drivers has halted most public and private construction in the metropolitan area.

Cancer Society Plans Series of TV Shows

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — The American Cancer Society and the Columbia Broadcasting System on Oct. 21 will start a series of color TV programs for the medical profession dealing with detection, diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

The society, in an announcement yesterday, said the series of 30 weekly one-hour programs will be sent over a closed circuit to medical centers in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Toledo, Ohio. Other cities will be added later.

Six-by-four-foot screens will be used at showings of the program, which will be telecast from specially constructed studios in New York's Memorial Cancer Center and the Francis Belafield Hospital of Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center here.

The society said it has allocated $250,000 to the first year's operation, with CBS paying the balance of expenses.

Calls New York Dirtiest

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—Mrs. Wendell Willkie today called New York "the dirtiest city I've ever been in." She urged the city's women to begin a campaign to clean it up. "I'm willing to help," said the widow of the 1940 Republican presidential candidate as she arrived aboard the Italian liner Saturnia from a European vacation.

ThreePersonsLeap FromBurningBoat

Three Eddyville residents were pulled from the Rondout Creek after they jumped from their burning boat about 7:45 p. m. Sunday, the sheriff's office reported.

Walter Christensen and his passengers, Helen Steppes and Marion Opitz, all of Eddyville, were picked up in another boat by Jack Otis and Erne Bansch. The Bloomington Fire Department was summoned, but the fire was extinguished prior to the arrival of firemen by Lewis and Nicholas Roberti, according to the report.

Christensen told Deputy Sheriff Chester Wolven, who investigated, that the motor backfired and suddenly the entire rear of the boat was in flames. No personal injuries were reported.

Man Is Identified

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—A man identified as Alfred Malleck, 56, of Maspeth, Queens, was decapitated early today when he fell or jumped in front of an IRT subway train as it pulled into the Courthouse Square station in Long Island City. Police said Malleck, an unemployed electrotyper, was identified from a driver's license found in a wallet some 80 feet from where the victim had been struck by the train.

FYL Stars Lose Twice

Kingston's Fraternal Youth League All Stars were eliminated from the national tournament at Bridgeport Saturday, when they lost to Williamsport, Pa., 11 to 4.

Tony Turck was the starting and losing pitcher and was relieved by Jim Palumbo.

Stamford, Conn., last year's champions, blanked the locals, 6-0, in Sunday's consolation contest.

Pravda Charges U. S. Fanning War

London, Aug. 31 (AP)—Russia's Communist party organ Pravda trained its propaganda guns today on Indochina and charged American aid to embattled French forces there is a scheme to "fan war in Asia."

In an article broadcast by Moscow radio, Pravda said U. S. plans called for an extension in military preparations and the launching of a general French offensive in October. At the same time, the paper added, "the U. S. press has lately been prattling about France granting independence to the countries of Indochina."

"Such talk," Pravda alleged, "represents only a U. S. maneuver to establish control over political power in Indochina and to appropriate the country's national wealth.

American Legion Opens Convention; Fight Is Prospect

St. Louis, Aug. 31 (AP) — The American Legion officially opened its 35th annual convention today with a sharp fight in prospect over air force budget cuts by the administration.

Lewis E. Gough of Pasadena, Calif., national commander of the organization, told convention delegates in his report that while the proposed 1954 budget gives the air force only 114 wings, 23 wings have been added to the air National Guard and air reserve.

"Over-all, greater combat strength should be realized through a reduction in leadtime, better utilization of personnel and equipment and by the elimination of waste and duplication," Gough said in his report prepared for delivery.

(An air force wing is a combat plane group plus nontactical groups for supply, maintenance and such. Leadtime is the length of time it takes from the letting of contracts until a plane is ready for use).

Report Adopted

The Legion's national security commission, headed by Thomas E. Paradine of New York, adopted without opposition, however, a report calling the present air force inadequate and especially short of replacement crews for the strategic air command.

The Legion's national executive committee, meeting late yesterday, merely 'received and filed" the report without debate.

Joe Jodges, past department commander of the Legion in Virginia, said the Virginia delegation will try on the floor—probably Wednesday—to get the Legion to fight for restoration of a 143-wing air force.

The funmaking actually started yesterday with the 40 & 8 parade, a two-mile long spectacle as guady as a circus and as noisy as a battle.

75,000 Line Curbs

Police estimated that 75,000 persons lined the two miles of curbs to watch replicas of locomotives and box cars, reminiscent of France of 1918.

Gough, in his report, said the planned reduction in the total strength of the army means "increased reliance will have to be placed on the reserve and the National Guard."

He said the reduction in manpower strength will not be at the expense of combat units but will be achieved through better use of manpower and elimination of unnecessary overhead and support personnel.

Speaking on foreign relations, Gough said he was pleased to note that many recommendations of the Legion's Foreign Relations Commission on Far Eastern Policy, toward the United Nations, and in regard to participation in European defense "have now been accepted and implemented by the present administration."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon will deliver the keynote address this afternoon. Secretary of Navy Robert E. Anderson will speak tonight and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will give a major policy address Wednesday.

Newkirk One

Albany district post will be judged on three qualifications including management, administrative and technical abilities.

Selections for the post will be made at a later date by Reilly J. Ratteree, district director; a representative of the regional office in New York, and by a Federal representative of the Internal Revenue Department from Washington, D. C.

Mayor Newkirk was elected to his first term of office as the local chief executive in 1947 following work as a salesman with the National Biscuit Company, which he served from 1927.

He also was a member of the Common Council of Kingston and the Ulster County Board of Supervisors as the representative of the Second Ward.

Theft Is Reported

George Maitland, proprietor of Ann's Delicatessen, Woodstock, reported to state police Sunday night that about $140 was missing from a can in which he kept about $400 of the store's earnings. He said he believed the money may have been taken some time between 7 and 9 p. m., while he was in the rear of the store. Cpl. Ray Dunn of Phoenicia is investigating.

Help Is Offered

Damascus, Syria, Aug. 31 (AP)—Syria has offered Jordan military help in the case of any Jewish aggression against Jordan, a usually reliable source said today. This offer was said to have been made by the Syrian foreign minister to his Jordanian colleague.

PIN-UPS' FIGURES ARE OUT OF LINE—If ace pin-up gals Esther Williams, Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell joined the WACs they'd have to whack some inches off their much-publicized contours. As it shapes up, they don't measure down to the standards being set for the women in the armed forces—based on the circumference of the wrist. The WACs' new good-grooming manual gives this formula for Figures. Ideal, Military, Female: BUST: Multiply wrist size by 5½. WAIST: multiply by 4½. THIGH: by 3½. CALF: by 2¼ and ANKLE 1¼. Hips should never be more than two inches larger than bust. Photo-diagram above shows how Hollywood's well-stacked stars don't stack up with WAC standards. La Monroe's thigh, calf, ankle figures were unavailable.

Demands Drivers End Their Walkout

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—Dave Beck, president of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters has demanded that striking truck drivers terminate their eight-week-old walkout by tomorrow.

The strike has crippled construction work in the New York metropolitan area costing an estimated 600 million dollars.

In a statement Saturday night, Beck warned that in the event the strike is not terminated by Tuesday he will invoke his constitutional authority and order the strikers back to work, pending arbitration of the dispute.

Stalemate Causes Action

Beck said his intervention was caused by a stalemate in negotiations between the employers and the union in the sand and gravel and ready-mixed concrete industry here.

He said he received a report showing the statemate resulted "because the union committee told the employers they were powerless to negotiate but must return with the full proposal demanded by the membership at its August 18 meeting."

"I cannot tolerate having any committee of a teamsters local union take the arbitrary position that they will not bargain," Beck declared.

The union had rejected an employer's offer of a 40-cents-per-hour wage increase and establishment of pension and welfare funds, continuing to hold out for a 50-cents-per-hour increase.

Beck called upon the strikers to meet their responsibilities to their families, to the hundreds of thousands of building tradesmen who are "innocent victims of the strike," and to the community, "by bringing the stalemate to an end."

He appointed a committee consising of union officials to "find a solution that will be acceptable to the employes and employers no later than the first of September."

Will Order Men to Work

Should a solution not be achieved by Tuesday, said Beck, he would invoke his "authority under the Internaional Union's constitution to compel Local 282 to submit the entire dispute to arbitration."

He said he would also "order the men to return to work pending an arbitration settlement."

The 56-day strike of concrete, sand and gravel truck drivers has halted most public and private construction in the metropolitan area.

Cancer Society Plans Series of TV Shows

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — The American Cancer Society and the Columbia Broadcasting System on Oct. 21 will start a series of color TV programs for the medical profession dealing with detection, diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

The society, in an announcement yesterday, said the series of 30 weekly one-hour programs will be sent over a closed circuit to medical centers in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Toledo, Ohio. Other cities will be added later.

Six-by-four-foot screens will be used at showings of the program, which will be telecast from specially constructed studios in New York's Memorial Cancer Center and the Francis Belafield Hospital of Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center here.

The society said it has allocated $250,000 to the first year's operation, with CBS paying the balance of expenses.

Calls New York Dirtiest

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—Mrs. Wendell Willkie today called New York "the dirtiest city I've ever been in." She urged the city's women to begin a campaign to clean it up. "I'm willing to help," said the widow of the 1940 Republican presidential candidate as she arrived aboard the Italian liner Saturnia from a European vacation.

The newly selected major general is married to the former Mary M. Mossman of Roswell, N. M., who is residing with him at the air station.

ThreePersonsLeap FromBurningBoat

Three Eddyville residents were pulled from the Rondout Creek after they jumped from their burning boat about 7:45 p. m. Sunday, the sheriff's office reported.

Walter Christensen and his passengers, Helen Steppes and Marion Opitz, all of Eddyville, were picked up in another boat by Jack Otis and Erne Bansch. The Bloomington Fire Department was summoned, but the fire was extinguished prior to the arrival of firemen by Lewis and Nicholas Roberti, according to the report.

Christensen told Deputy Sheriff Chester Wolven, who investigated, that the motor backfired and suddenly the entire rear of the boat was in flames. No personal injuries were reported.

Man Is Identified

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—A man identified as Alfred Malleck, 56, of Maspeth, Queens, was decapitated early today when he fell or jumped in front of an IRT subway train as it pulled into the Courthouse Square station in Long Island City. Police said Malleck, an unemployed electrotyper, was identified from a driver's license found in a wallet some 80 feet from where the victim had been struck by the train.
